FOUR MILE

By CLEM

Plowing is very much in evidence these nice days. Carl Johnson has taken a position with the McNair Hardware Co. for a short time.

Manton Treadgold was a visitor at the De Long ranch last Friday. Manton has leased the Levi Goff ranch for one year and will conduct it in addition to his homestead.

N. Bambo is suffering from a bad attack of lagrippe.

F. R. Miller has returned home from fishing.

Otto Pope, who spent the holidays with relatives near Arago, has returned home at the J. E. Adams ranch.

Albert Duke is stepping rather high now days and has a smile that won't wash off. It's a boy, born on December 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Jackson returned home Monday after a week's absence in Bandon.

FOUR MILE RANCHER LOSES HOME BY FIRE

Defective Flue Causes Blaze Which Consumes the Residence of Abe Corson.

Fire Monday completely destroyed the residence of Abe Corson, just south of Four Mile creek and west of the county road between Bandon and Langlois. Mr. Corson was on his way home from Bandon, at the time, and knew nothing of his loss until met by nearby neighbors who informed him of the misfortune. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gross were stopping with Mr. Corson and Mrs. Gross was alone in the house at the time, Mr. Gross being out hunting. The fire originated in a defective flue and while Mrs. Gross ran to the neighbors for aid it gained such headway that on her return with help it was dangerous to attempt saving any of the contents. Nothing was saved, even Mrs. Gross' suit case containing her best clothing and valuable papers was destroyed. Mr. Gross also lost a fine rifle in the flames, he having his shotgun with him on the day's hunt. No insurance was carried on the property or contents.—Correspondent.

FOUR MILE MUSINGS

Clem has returned after an absence of two days trackin' a 'coon through the Four Mile woods and has about cum to the konklusun that a person can't allers tell which way a 'coon iz goin' by the direkshun he travels.

This here great hi-kost of livin' iz an awful bugaboo; You fear the wolf outside the door Will get a hold of you. An' you wonder how near heaven The price ov things'll go; An' sigh 'cause 'twill be so long 'Fore the new taters grow. But spite of war an' wartime prices Old Bandon iz a marchin' on, Sheddin' blessin's at the same cost Az in yers long past an' gone.

This high cost of living is fierce. When we was on a farm in Arkansas we got a cent a pound for our beans, store pay. Now we pay about a cent a piece for 'em at our grocer's. If you want tew no whut puts a kink in a hogs tale, ask Clem. Most people like live ones, but it's different with the Bandon undertaker. If this here bad wether don't let up purty soon we'll rite to Wilsun about it. Durned if we'd voted fer him if we'd knowed he wuz goin' tew du this. HANK DUBERRY.

By watching the flight of the buzzards Gen. Pershing ought to know where Villa is by this time. People who raise objections are always sure of a bumper crop.

DAVIS CREEK LOCALS

The weather the past week has been more like spring than winter.

Joe Nolf of Junction City, Ore., was visiting with Chas. Fox for a few days. Mr. Nolf is an experienced dairyman, and if he can find a location may remain with us.

Ralph Foster and family spent Sunday at the Croft ranch.

William Conner has finished his tie contract and is busy cutting wood for R. Foster.

Mrs. Chas. Fox was in Bandon over Sunday visiting friends.

We are to have an early spring if the predictions of some of the old grey "swamp ducks" are true. They claim that the frogs are coming out of the alluvial deposit (whatever that is) and are beginning to croak; also that the huckleberries are beginning to blossom. We hope that they are correct.

If reports are true the big yearly dance given by Harve Smith will take place January 13th. It is the time of the year when swamp ducks and hill billies exchange their views on the price of wool and the price of butter fat, and to have a royal good time in general. We are all praying (the only time of the year we do) for a fine night, as we all will try and be there.

The main topic of conversation in these parts now, is the Township line road to Bandon, and we are beginning to realize that our $64,000 and graveled road to Bandon is only a rainy night dream. There is no danger of any one being lost in the brush between here and Bandon as there are surveys and stakes every so often to guide one out. Four Mile flat looks like a town site was being laid off into lots by the surveys and stakes. Maybe if we are not too stingy and want to live too long, we will see a good road to Bandon, but the way the money is being spent now, we think our children's children may see it. The road reminds me of a little poem I used to recite in my little first reader:

The pig squeals loud when the frost begins to fall, And they crowd one another in the pen; One don't care if the other's going to freeze, Hogs is mighty like men. "WOODROW"

RIVERTON WAVELETS

BORN—January 9th, to S. C. Sherrill and wife, an eight pound boy. Mother and child doing well.

Mr. Cady, teacher at Lampa, Mr. Bossen and Mr. Hanly of the same locality, attended the Riverton Sunday school last Sunday.

The services at the Church were well attended last Sunday night.

Mr. McGee who was bedfast with the "grip" is able to be on duty at the mine again.

Mr. Jameson, our accommodating ferryman, has been bedfast, but is now convalescing.

Last Thursday the Riverton school received a free traveling library from the Oregon state library. The books were unpacked and arranged on the shelves that evening, ready for loaning on Friday.

On Friday about twenty-five books were loaned, five of which went to patrons of the school. The others went to pupils in the school. These books (about sixty volumes) will be kept at the school house until the end of the school year when they will be returned to the state library at Salem.

The teachers of the Riverton school have been asked to take the school for next year.

A report on some of the girls' work at the recent school exhibit wa overlooked.

Sewing bag—Agnes Simonsen, 7th grade, 1st; Norma Bumgartner, 6th grade, 2nd.

Handkerchief—Polly Miller, 8th grade, 1st; Esther McGee, 6th grade, second.

Basket matting—Dolly Scorby, 4th grade, 1st; Erma Richardson 5th grade, 2nd.

Braided Raffia baskets—Orvin Smith, 4th grade, 1st.

Home work—Norma Bumgartner, 6th grade, 1st.

Books may be borrowed on school days from 8:30 a. m. until 4:15 p. m. I shall be glad to have anyone in the district call and look over the books. If you don't find in the library the books you wish, they can be obtained for you from the state library. School library books not in daily use at the school may also be loaned to patrons.—Elsie Philpott, Librarian.

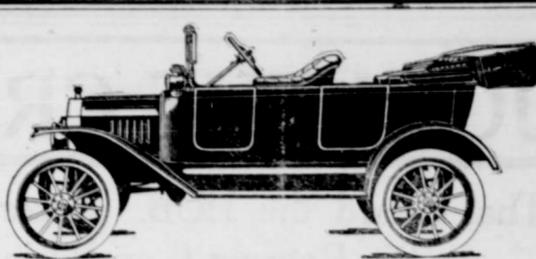

"RIVERTON"

We might send a warship to Austria to get the new Austrian ambassador, but if he isn't better than Dumba the trip is hardly worth while.

Greece may be going into the war fifty-fifty.

Have Your Car Overhauled Now

We Use
Oxy-Acetylene Welding Process

With the installation of this equipment during the past summer, we are now enabled to give absolutely the highest class of service in repairing and overhauling automobiles. Heretofore such worn parts as could not be adjusted, nor replaced except at great expense, were left untouched.

The new acetylene welding process, a comparatively recent invention, makes it possible to build up such worn parts, making them as good as new. Consequently when a car leaves our shop it is not only repaired but rebuilt.

Expert machinists and motor engine men are employed and with all the necessary machinery, we are prepared to give every service desired.

Now that the rainy season is here, bring in your car to be overhauled. Have it done before the Spring rush and you will be able to take advantage of every bit of good weather in the meantime.
