DON'T STOP TOBACCO
Its Injurious to stop Suddenly and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stopping of tobacco you must of the stimulant, be opium, morphine, or other opioids, leaves far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO-CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron-clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco Dagires—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being, at least. I tried the so-called "Keely ure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours very truly,

WISE HEADS MEET.
Something May Drop in Connection With the W. & C. R. R.
In referring to the meeting of W. D. Tyler, president and general manager of the O. & W. T., ex-Governor Miles C. Moore, Frank W. Paine and Paul F. Mohr on the 23d inst. in Tacoma, the Times, of Seattle, conjectures that the object of the meeting was to consider either the disposal of the Hunt system or placing a line of steamers on the Columbia, thereby being independent of either the O. R. & N. or Northern Pacific. It says: "The Hunt system is owned by C. B. Wright, who is now in the east, and Mr. Tyler manager of the system, has just arrived from the east. It may be that Mr. Wright has been again endeavoring to effect a sale of the road to some other line. Perhaps he has been again unsuccessful and has adopted a new tack. The Hunt system was offered to the Northern Pacific, but the figure named was considered much too large, and nothing was effected. The O. R. & N. was approached, but no sale was made. It is said that the Northern Pacific could not use the road to advantage, and also that the O. R. & N. does not need the line; its own road already taps the same country reached in a lesser way by the Hunt system. The only present condition under which the O. R. & N. would touch the Hunt line would be the consideration of a very low figure—sufficiently low to admit of the buyer clearing interest and a little more besides. "These conditions now comfort Mr. Wright, and he probably finds his property unsalable. Now, Mr. Mohr has a portage and steamboat scheme with the Columbia river as the basis of his operations. The Hunt system connects with the Columbia river at Wallula, and it may be that the meeting in Tacoma will result in the formation of a plan whereby the grain belt tapped by the Hunt line will be enabled by Mohr to ship wheat to sea without depending on the O. R. & N. or the Northern Pacific at all. In this event, and were the Hunt line and Mr. Mohr's steamers to quote a low rate, the combination would very probably get a big slice of the Eastern Washington business. Were such a deal to be consummated it might force the O. R. & N. to buy the road at a satisfactory figure merely for the purpose of getting it out of the way. It is not at all unlikely that the meeting between Mr. Mohr, Mr. Tyler and the others will result in just such a proposition as has been outlined, and if such a deal is made will not surprise any one, for it has long been foreseen."

Wanted to Be an Editor.
A schoolboy's composition on "The Editor," ran as follows: "The editor is one of the happiest animals in the known world. He can go to the circus, afternoon and evening, without paying a cent, also to inquests and hangings. He has free tickets to picnics and strawberry festivals, gets wedding cake sent him, and sometimes a licking, but not often, for he can take things back in the next issue, which he generally does. I never knew only one editor to get light. His paper busted that day, and he couldn't take nothing back."
"While other folks have to go to bed early, the editor can sit up late every night and see all that's going on. The boys think it a big thing to hang out till 10 o'clock. When I am a man, I mean to be an editor, so that I can stay out nights. Then that will be bully. The editor don't have to saw wood or do any chopping, except with his scissors. Railroads get up excursions for him, knowing if they don't he'd make 'em git up and git. In politics he don't care much who he goes for if they are on his side. If they ain't he goes for 'em anyway, so it amounts to nearly the same thing. There are a great many people trying to be editors who can't see it, though. If I was asked if I had rather have an education or be a circus rider, I would say, let me go and be an editor."

Perhaps You Know Him.
It is said a man who won't buy a paper because he can borrow one has invented a machine by which he can cook his dinner by the smoke from his neighbor's chimney. This same fellow sits in the back pew in church to save interest on contributions, and is always borrowing a ride to town to save the wear and tear on his own horse-flesh. Yes, you know him. He's a first cousin to the man who never winds up his watch for fear of breaking the spring. He undoubtedly was a near relative of the man who went into the back yard during a cold snap last winter, soaked his hair in water, let it freeze, and then broke it off in order to cheat the barber out of a hair cut.—Exchange.

A Centenarian.
The Grant's Pass Courier has the following regarding a survivor of the war of 1812:

Hosea Brown, the only survivor of the 1812 war on the Pacific coast, celebrated his 103d birthday at the home of his grandson, Orr Brown, near Wilderville, Lane county, on the 19th of this month. The old gentleman was born in New Hampshire and came west into Ohio when about twenty years of age. He was only some 20 days in actual service in our second war with Johnny Bull, but the government gives him $50 a month pension. He has been helpless now about eight years, and when Harrison was elected in 1838 Hosea was brought to the polls in a chair to vote for him, being preceded by a band of music. This was at Drain in this state. The centenarian although very deaf, loves to talk of old times when he was a boy and has a memory as perfect as in childhood. He was never married but once, his wife leaving him for the great beyond at the age of 65, some 35 years ago.

Hunt is All Right.
A gentleman from Corvallis who was in Portland last week states that one evening while strolling down the street his attention was attracted by an immense crowd on one of the thoroughfares of the city. Going to the scene he found it to be an open-air gospel meeting. There was nothing unusual about this, but imagine his surprise when the lady who had charge of the meeting introduced G. W. Hunt, the railroad contractor, as speaker of the evening. The Corvallis man says he spoke with much eloquence and feeling, and was given the closest attention throughout.

Money From Hogs.
In Eastern Washington during the past two weeks, says the Dayton Courier, about 5000 fat hogs have been purchased by buyers from Portland, the Sound and the east, and the demand still continues at from 3 to 3 1/2 cents. There was shipped from Colfax on Friday last a trainload of 13 cars of hogs for Chicago. The cars were loaded at Dayton, two at Starbuck, one at Endicott and the rest in the Palouse country. This industry is becoming of great importance to Eastern Washington. It is stated that over $15,000 have been put in circulation in the counties of Whitman, Columbia, Garfield and Asotin during the past three months from the sale of hogs.

Reduction in Rates.
The O. R. & N. Co., in connection with the Northern Pacific and Montana Union railway, have issued a special vegetable and fruit tariff from Walla Walla, Milton, Blue Mountain, Prescott, Dayton, Waiteburg and intermediate points, via Wallula Junction, to points in Montana. The rates on vegetables, in straight carloads of 20,000 pounds or over, is 55 cents per hundred pounds by freight-train service. On green fruit in straight carloads, or green fruit and vegetables in mixed carload, of 20,000 pounds or over, the rate by freight-train service is 83 1/2 cents per hundred, and by approximate passenger-train time $1 62 1/2 per hundred.

CHIEF JOSEPH.
The Unpleasantness of 1877 Brought to Mind.

Newspaper accounts of the Bannock uprising in Jackson's Hole country, brings vividly to the minds of many Umatilla county residents the days of excitement in 1877, when Joseph and his bloodthirsty band of Nez Perces were making raids and leaving trails of blood and devastation behind them.

Joseph was in Lewiston the other day and called on the Tribune man who has the following to say of him:
"Chief Joseph visited Lewiston Saturday for the first time since the unpleasantness of 1877, in which he was the moving and responsible genius. During that little excitement Joseph headed the Nez Perce warriors on the one side and on the other Ed. McCon-ville commanded the volunteers, and was practically governor of the state at the same time. Saturday Joseph and Col. McConville called together on the Tribune, they having since become firm friends and admirers. Joseph is the hereditary and sovereign chief of the Nez Perce Indians. His blood is as red as Gen Howard's is blue and is as ardent as Sitting Bull's or Geronimo's. In 1877 Joseph, then a fiery and impulsive lad of 22 or 23, had arranged with the governor to occupy the Wallowa country, across Snake river from Lewiston, but Gen. Miles insisted on herding them in a smaller compass, and Joseph took the war path. His campaign through Nez Perce and Idaho counties is still a fresh event to many inhabitants of both. Col. Conville defended the country with the volunteers, as far as his small force permitted, and incidentally took a hand in the scrap whenever he could get there.
Joseph had 250 warriors and the federal government undertook his capture with Gen. Howard and 1,000 regulars and Gen. Miles with his troops who advanced from Montana. The Indian losses were trifling, but scores of innocent soldiers fell in Indian warfare. Joseph constantly eluded and puzzled Howard until finally the soldiers captured and killed 3,000 cayuses that was the Indians main hope, and the war was practically over.
Indians can never fight or run on foot. So Joseph came in and gave himself up. The government first banished him to Yellowstone park, then to Leavenworth, and later to Indian Territory. Nowhere was he contented. He pined and wilted away, and his heart grew sick and sad for the land of his kindred and the scenes of his boy-hood. So Joseph was brought back and placed on the Colville reservation under nominal surveillance. And though thus very close to the land of his kindred he has preferred to keep just that far away from certain scenes of his boyhood.

Joseph is now fat and bulky and uncommunicative, except in the vernacular, which he handles with ease and volubility. His followers instead of being banished to Yellowstone park, were simply given red blankets, improved rifles and the Nez Perce lands which the government has recently purchased back from them and which the whites will soon be scrambling over. The volunteers who protected home and families from the raid of Joseph's band still have their claims pending settlement before the congress of the United States. Joseph will remain in camp near the Lapwai Industrial School a few days longer, or as the races last, before returning to the Colville reservation. He is very anxious for Col. McConville to return with him and take charge of the school there."

DEHORNING.
A Writer in Live Stock Report Gives His Views.
"Dehorning" in America or "Disboring" in Great Britain is a subject that has received wide attention during late years. The immense benefit of this process to feeders, though to cattlemen generally, is well known. We do not at this time intend entering into the subject at all extensively or treating of the methods, but merely desire to say a word as to the effect dehorning has upon the sale of cattle. This refers, more particularly, to cattle grazed in and shipped from the great pastures of the states in the west. The subject is again brought to our attention by reason of the fact that a few days ago we handled a bunch of prime beeves from Ohio and that hooked one another very badly, greatly injuring the sale of the stock.

In order to accomplish the best results the cattle must be dehorned when within a year old. They then readily recover from its effects.
If they are dehorned at two or three-year olds they lose flesh under it, their energy dies down, and it is almost impossible to get them in good shape for marketing. Then late dehorning is most painful to the stock, which accounts for their losing flesh and vitality under it, and is an inhuman practice. The horns should be removed while still soft; the operation is then a practically painless one to the animal. The topic is timely at this season of the year and is too important to neglect. Buyers in the yards can hardly be induced to look at beeves that have gouged and hooked one another. There is no doubt that it affects the slaughtering of the cattle materially.

Sad Accident.
Esther, the four-year-old daughter of A. B. Jones, of Walla Walla proured matches in the house, went into the back yard where she lighted them igniting her clothing.
The child's screams brought the mother to the rescue. A blanket was thrown about the child and the cruel flames smothered, but not until the little one was burned to a crisp. The sad accident occurred Wednesday, of last week.
The child died the next morning.

Grasshoppers in Morrow County.
The grasshoppers are bad in Morrow county. Frequent reports of their ravages have come from the dryer and less favored portions of the county, and now it seems they have reached the neighborhood between Ione and Gooseberry where good crops of grain and vegetables are the rule. In that vicinity the grain is too far along to be seriously damaged and will make a good yield, but the grasshoppers have taken everything green, including the leaves from the trees, and it is feared that they will kill fruit and perhaps the trees themselves.

The Placers of Canyon Creek.
The Placer mines of Canyon creek, Marysville and Prarie diggings have produced one-half of the gold taken out of different placers in the county, or over $2,500,000.
Canyon creek is credited with $2,000,000 as its output. Over 4,000 men were employed in 1884 on the creek. With the exception of the Humboldt mines no hydraulic mining has been done. The work consisted of stripping off the ground to within two feet of the bedrock, says the Grant county News. The remaining gravel was wheeled into sluice boxes and washed.
Wages were $5 per day, and nothing but the richest parts of the creek worked. The eastside of creek below Canyon City was not considered rich enough and has not been worked. The dirt stripped off varied in depth from 8 to 16 feet, all of which prospects well. It is claimed by all of the old timers yet residing in the county that not one-half of the gold has been taken out of the creek.

Americans in Bad Company.
It has developed that a police raid was made upon the Palace club, London, recently. A number of prominent Americans were caught in the raid. The club is one of several fashionable night clubs in London were the demi-mond resort. It opens at midnight and closes at 6 a. m. Lately the Palace has been very riotous. The club is elegantly appointed, having twenty-five men servants and a band playing nightly.
A hundred men and women, all in evening dress, were captured.
Among them were a United States senator, a congressman, a prominent law official of an eastern state and an American police official.
All save the proprietor and servants of the club, who were remanded, were released.
