Because of some triffing quarrel, Miss Allison took it into her pretty head that Campbell ought to be pretty head that Campbell ought to be disciplined, and she appealed to her sister's fiance, Captain Saunders, to undertake the task. Saunders was editor of a Corvallie paper, hot-headed, and inclined to be boastful of his physi-cal prowess, which was considerable. Both Campbell and Saunders were over six feet in height, athletic, sinewy and courageous; and it may be that the Cor-vallie editor thought he might meet more than his match in the Albany young efforts and soon had the market on an excited boom, culminating in a rise of 2 cents above the lowest price previously made. ABOUT THE FLOODS.

Believed the O. R. & N. Will Not Suffer From Them This Spring. Three work trains were sent out today to operate on the Oregon Railway & Navigation line between Umatilla and Portland on the Columbia river division. The men will attempt to save the rip-rapping along the track, where the high water comes close to the roadbed. Already, the water has risen in places to within a few feet of the rails and the East Oregonian was informed by a rail-road man that, if the river rises but a few feet more, even four or five feet, the trains will be stopped. But from close observations and reports from the head water territory, it is now thought the flood water will pass off easily and without heavy volume at any one time, thus avoiding any great trouble. It is even believed the washout will be less disastrous than is usual during the spring, and the Oregon Railway & Navigation company be saved the expense of exten-sive repairs and annoying delays. Waterspouts appear to be quite common

Your Physical Condition Needs attention at this time. If you are tired, weak and nervous, it is clear that your blood is impure, and without doubt there has been too much over-work or strain on brain and body. The course of treatment for such a condition is plain and simple. The blood must first be purified so that the nervous system, and in fact all the organs will be fed upon pure blood. Intelligent people without number have testified that the best bloodpurifier and nerve tonic is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

before morning. saunders and Miss Allison were arrested for murder, and excitement ran high, very high. It was feared there might be a lynching, and the woman was afterward removed to Salem for safe keeping. Saunders was tried, and, though he claimed that he shot Campbell in self-defense, he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged.

But Saunders was not born to be hanged, and on the night of the Fourth of July, 1887, with another prisoner, te broke jail. They no doubt had outside assistance, for they secured weapons, ammunition and provisions, and struck out for the Coast range mountains. The entire country was aroused in their pur-snit, and it was expected that Saunders would not be captured if he were alive, for he was known to be desperate. The feat was, however, accomplished by D. B. Monteith, of Albany, and F. P. Hogan, then of Roseburg, both determined men. They surprised Saunders as he was walking along a trail near Alsea, got the drop on him, and he was forced to accept the alternative of surrender or death. He surrendered.

Saunders was returned to jail, and got a change of venue, to Salem, where on a second trial he was convicted of murder in the second degree, which involves a sentence to the penitentiary for life. Saunders was a model prisoner. He was exceedingly useful to the authorities in a variety of ways, being an especially fine penman. He scquired some knowledge of medicine and served as hospital stew-ard for a long time. Saunders fairly earned his pardon, and it came as one of the last acts of Pennoyer's administra-tion. Since then Captain Saunders, who is a more than ordinarily bright man, has been practicing law in Spokane, and was recently made post-trader at Colville reservation. Miss Minnie Allison left Albany many years ago, and has for a long time been a teacher in the public schools at Helens, Mont.

It never transpired that Mattie Allison was accessory to Saunders' crime in kill-ing Campbell, but it seemed that she simply wanted him chastised, or disci-plined in some way. She was never tried, the grand j ry finding "not a true bill" in her case. She is married, and is living in Idaho.
