ATHENA, MARCH .... 7, 1905

The only paper we know of in Eastern Oregon that is busy with its hammer against the Eastern Oregon State Normal School at Weston is the Milton Eagle. Aping after the "heavy" leaders in the editoral columns of the Portland papers, the Eagle incubated this "knock" in its last week's issue:

"Weston has reason to be proud of its state normal school basket ball team. With five victories won from sturdy foemen put in the field by Pendleton and Walla Walla, and no defeats, Weston's title to the Inland Empire championship is beyond dispute. The triumph is a noteworthy one for a town of 1000 people,' says the Weston Leader. The Eagle wishes to retract whatever unkind things it has said about the normal school. The state can well afford to pay the trifling sum of $12,500 a year for maintenance in order that Weston's title to the Inland Empire basket ball championship be maintained, to say nothing of the dozen or so graduates that are incidentally turned off every year."

If the Eagle man would leave masticating sour dough biscuits the effects of his indigestion would not be smudged over everything he writes. He should tack up the motto "Live and Let Live" over his desk and let a bit of supshine into the dark crevices of his envious nature. Weston has the normal school, one of the two state institutions located outside of the hogdom, otherwise known as Western Oregon, and to say the least, it looks decidedly condensed and narrow for a country news paper to lend its mite-no matter how insignificant and trifling small it may be -toward hammering in unison with the porkish squeal that comes from west of the Cascades. Drop the bone, brother, drop the bone Cheer up, and if you cannot say anything good for the institution because it happens to be located in a town other than Milton, say noth-

It is practically an assured fact that at least 75 per cent of the population of the state will visit the Lewis and Clark fair at Portland during the next eight months, says the La Grande observer. It lies to a very great extent with the advertising the businessmen do whether or not these people buy their outfits prior to going, or wait until they reach Portland to make their purchases. The people can be supplied with their needs at home much cheaper than they can in the crowded big stores of the metropolis, but it is up to the merchants to make this plain. Commenting on the same subject the Union Republican says Portland is figuring on cleaning up the state trade during the Lewis and Clark fair, and the country merchant must be up and doing to prevent it. One of the ways to keep this trade at home is through the use of printer's ink. Portland is using it even now, and will use more during the exposition. The aggressive country merchants all over the state will seek to hold home trade.

With irritating assurance, the Portland papers continue to refer to the normal schools as "local high schools" and "grafts upon the state." It is unlikely that the assertive editors ever set foot inside one of these institutions, yet their powerful influence is devoted to tearing down the earnest work of others. Perhaps the normal schools are not quite up to the standard of those in other states; they can scarcely be when every two years they must tremblingly beg for their very existence, like a dog for a bone. Yet the Leader knows that the State Normal School at Weston fulfills its function as such to the best advantage possible with the limited means at its command. And whoever asserts that it is merely a local high school graft upon the state, lies in the croaking throat of him!-Weston Leader.

The physician in attendance at a municipal lodging house in Chicago has within the past year been making a careful inquiry into the history of tramps who have become the city's guests. He has found that a large proportion of the tramps give a history of having been employed in factories or in other deliberating occupations in boyhood. Our official modern life is making multitudes of human wrecks, one class of whom is represented by the homeless, friendless, disheartened men known as tramps. Fortunate, indeed are the boys and girls who live in country homes and have the opportunity of growing up in contact with nature.

A boy died in a New York schoolroom after being taunted on his failure to pass an examination. The doctor said the lad had a weak heart. And it may be added that his taunters had weak

The Springfield, Mass., Republican refers to Alfred Austin's sonnet on Shakespeare as "Alfred Austin's Best." Sounds like an advertisement of ham.

At least that big South African diamond ought to be exhibited at the Portland fair before it is cut up.

Incredible Brutality.

It would have been incredible brutality if Chas. F. Lemberger, of Syracuse, N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "cut a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye." Good for burns and ulcers, too. Only 25c at McBride's drug store.

Hoyt's Tree Supports

Now that the time for pruning your trees is here we want to remind you that it is also time to put on your tree supports and finish the job up at one time. The Hoyt Tree support is something that will effectually prevent the great loss of trees and fruit. No owner of fruit trees can afford to be without them. Cost less than the first cost of trees on an average-less than lumber required for props. They do not bruise the tree like props and bolts. They are out of the way when cultivating the ground or gathering the fruit. When properly put on they do not have to be changed for several years, instead of every year like props. They are made in three sizes, 114, 114 and 2.

We have just received our large shipment of new, up to date Go Carts. If you are thinking of getting one for spring write for descriptive book.
