books and the people decided not to have free text books by the narrow margin of 18 votes, there being 105 votes against and 87 for the measure. The total vote cast was 192 and the vote by wards was as follows:

|             | Favor. | Opposed. |
|-------------|--------|----------|
| First Ward  | 41     | 38       |
| Second Ward | 12     | 25       |
| Third Ward  | 32     | 27       |
| Fourth Ward | 10     | 7        |

The vote in every ward but the first was against the text book measure. The defeat of the free book proposition was in a large measure due to the vote of 77 women, who registered at the school clerk's office just before the election, as many of these votes registered with the avowed intention of shutting out free text books from the schools.

TO DIVIDE RANGE

WENAH RESERVE; WILL BE PARCELLED DECEMBER 16.

Range District Lies in Umatilla, Union, Walla, Walla, Walla, Garfield, Columbia Counties.

J. M. Schmitz, of Walla Walla, for-ester in charge of the Wenaha forest reserve in the northwest corner of Umatilla county, has called a mass meeting of stockmen to be held at Walla Walla on December 16, for the purpose of parcelling the reserve for grazing purposes during the coming year.

This reserve is one of the grazing regions in the Inland Empire and is well watered throughout. It has always been a paradise for stock during the summer months on account of the luxuriant pasturage and abundance of water and there promises to be a sharp contest over the division of the reserve.

The Wenaha forest reserve lies in the counties of Umatilla, Walla and Union in Oregon, and Walla Walla, Columbia and Garfield in Washington, and the district is patronized largely by sheep and cattle-men from all these counties in both states.

Numerous streams including the Wenaha river, Little Salmon, Walla Walla river, George and Astoria creeks and many small tributaries of the Grand Ronde river; all head in the high mountains in the reserve and is one of the most delightful summer ranges and camping regions in the northwest.

COMING ELECTION.

Governor Chamberlain Has Not Little Opposition.

The Salem Journal gives the following review of the state election prospects and promises:

Next June the people of Oregon will select an entire new board of state officials and legislature. Referring to the state officials, the present governor, a democrat, elected by republicans, is liable to be renominated.

The state printer, state attorney, state superintendent of schools and state labor commissioner are up for reelection.

So far not much opposition has appeared to any of these officials. They are looked upon as giving the people good and faithful service.

For state printer the names of Willis Danniway and William J. Clarke have appeared in the papers and they have many friends. J. R. Whitney, the present state printer, is not opposing any of the proposed reforms such as putting him on a flat salary or state ownership.

The promotion of Justice Wolverton to the federal judgeship makes a place on the ticket for an Eastern Oregon man for his place.

The man generally spoken of for the supreme judgeship is Robert E. Eakin of Union county, circuit judge for the past eight years. He had an extensive practice and was first elected in a democratic district, is 55 years old and is well qualified to go higher.

For governor James Withycombe and C. A. Johns are prominent candidates, with T. T. Geer, E. L. Smith and H. E. Ankeny mentioned.

It is conceded that it will require a man of great energy, resources and ability as a campaigner to be elected over Chamberlain.

The campaign required to secure a nomination under the direct primary law is not fully appreciated by many of the aspirants.

To go over a state twice as large as Illinois and very thinly populated outside of the northwest portion, takes time, money and energy.

Aspirants must have a very wide personal acquaintance or use the newspapers freely or circularize the voters direct.

For treasurer there are as yet no names prominently before the people. Ralph Hoty of the Merchants' National bank of Portland, and J. H. Aithen of the Oregon Commercial company of Huntington, are mentioned.

For secretary of state Marion county has three candidates, according to the newspaper reports, Claus Gath, Let L. Pearce and F. T. Wrightman. The latter gentleman has taken the public into his confidence on the subject of raising state revenues without levying a direct tax on property.

NO FREE BOOKS.

People of Walla Walla Vote Against Free Book Innovation.

In a listless school election in Walla Walla Saturday says the Union W. R. Criffield and H. A. Gardner were elected to succeed themselves for the coming school term. There was practically no opposition to these candidates there being but two votes cast for other aspirants.

The only question at issue was that of supplying the schools with free text
