

WORK FOR OREGON

Senator Fulton and Gearin Performed Good Service

THE STATE HAS FARED WELL

Senators Secure Columbia River Appropriation, Irrigation for Klamath and Public Buildings.

The Oregon delegation in the session of congress just closed, while handicapped by unfortunate circumstances, has been singularly successful, and legislation secured for Oregon interests will compare favorably with that obtained by other state delegations.

In the house there has been much forbearance and charity shown Oregon on account of the naturally weakened condition of the state's representation, and in all matters in which Oregon is interested every effort has been made to give the state a fair show and square deal.

In the senate there was no stronger delegation from the west or northwest than Fulton and Gearin. These two senators worked in harmony and without jealousy or rivalry for the interest of their state and it is unfortunate for Oregon that they are not to continue to work side by side during the sixtieth congress. Coming late in the session and observing strictly the tradition of the senate that a new senator shall not take a speaking part in the proceedings, Gearin has made no addresses in the senate, although urged at various times to do so by those knowing his ability as a speaker.

While not doing any talking, Senator Gearin has applied himself industriously to work for the state, and in conjunction with Senator Fulton has accomplished material results. Senator Fulton's work during the session had a scope of both national and state interests. Conspicuous in the former was the participation with marked success in the railway rate discussion, where he earned a high position among the legal lights of the senate. Service of a more distinctive state character resulted through his efforts combined with Senator Gearin's in the generous appropriation for Oregon, considering that this is election year, when the watch dogs growl at every treasury gate. The $400,000 for continuing work at the mouth of the Columbia was a prominent achievement in this line, the Klamath Indian appropriation of $537,000 being a good second, and $130,000 for state buildings being not a despicable third.

One independent bill was passed, providing that people who had taken unallotted lands of the Umatilla reservation should be permitted to pay up without making proof of cultivation, when it was shown that the land was arid.

Congress also finally adjusted the long controversy between the Northern Pacific and the numerous settlers between Wallula and Portland over rights growing out of the lap of the grant cases, a law enacted permitting the settlers to retain their homes and the company to settle other land.

An especial service to the coast interests was the law passed permitting American sealers wrongfully seized for poaching to present their claims in the court of claims, which has long been denied them.

An act which is not a law was the termination of a long controversy between the state and government over civil war claims. Senator Fulton, as chairman of the committee on claims, is to be sent to the court of claims in the Oregon case in which it has been proved that the government owes the state about $335,000. This disposition of the claim will result in an appropriation of approximately that amount in a year or so.

Three postoffice buildings appropriations for the state aggregate $130,000.

Senators Fulton and Gearin also secured the adoption of a large number of private pension bills.

WILL CONVENE JULY 5.

Large Amount of Business on Hand—Road Fund Now Depleted.

The county court will convene for its regular term on July 5, and the new officers will be sworn in at this time.

The session will probably be a long and severe one as there is an immense amount of business on hand for consideration.

At this meeting all the election bills will be allowed. The recent period of high water has thrown a large amount of extra work on the roads and bridges.

The road fund is now nearly depleted, caused by the excessive demands on the funds.

It will be necessary to issue scrip for further road improvements and make up the deficiency at the next tax levy.

Sold At Private Sale.

The driving team owned by Geo. W. Bradley and advertised to be disposed of at public auction Saturday, was sold by Mr. Bradley privately Friday afternoon, to a Weston man. The consideration is not stated.

SEWERAGE EXPERIMENTS.

Yakima Board of Health Wants to Solve Sewage Problem.

After an investigation of the septic sewage tank at Vancouver, B. C., the special state board of health committee will recommend to the state board of health that all the cities of the state be compelled to adopt some kind of a method that will do away with the dumping of sewage that has not been purified in the streams, says the Yakima Republic. The septic sewage tanks alone have been declared impracticable.

The board will hold a meeting in July and will order the building of a septic sewage tank at one of the state institutions, probably Walla Walla, as an experiment. This will test the efficiency of such a plant in the inland cities.

The committee making the investigation decided that the septic plant alone is not practical for inland towns without a filtering plant in connection with it.

Measles Epidemic Broken.

R. C. Beamer was in town Tuesday from his home on Basket Mountain, and reports that the end is now in sight of the measles epidemic up his way, says the Weston Leader. The measles were brought by a little girl visitor from Walla Walla valley, and seized upon about 40 patients, old and young. No fatalities resulted, however, and the mountain people are beginning to forget their troubles. Seven members of Mr. Beamer's family had the measles, he alone escaping.

Three Marriage Failures.

In the circuit court yesterday, Judge W. R. Ellis granted a divorce to Alice Crockett from Samuel W. Crockett. Jessie Bell Rierdon from Frank R. Rierdon, and to George R. Troxell from Clara A. Troxell. Peter West was the attorney for the plaintiff in all three suits.

Back From Alberta.

Louis Audette and family are down from Alberta. Mr. Audette will remain here until after harvest. He has a crop on the reservation, south of town. Speaking of crop prospects in Alberta, Mr. Audette says spring grain is promising, but the fall sown wheat is not so good, there being a poor stand, as the result of dry weather last fall.

WORD LOSES FOR SHERIFF.

Recount of Ballots Increase Stevens' Lead By 20 votes.

A recount in the shrievalty contest in Multnomah county was completed Saturday, and confirms the election of Robert L. Stevens, Republican, over Tom Word, Democrat. The recount added to Stevens' majority of 20 over Word.

The official returns gave Stevens a majority of five votes, which has now been increased to 25. Word announces that he will not carry the contest into the courts.
