Real winter weather is with us at last. Sunday night and last night the mercury flirted around close to the zero mark. The snow is frozen so that it gives forth a merry crunch as you walk along the streets and your ears flame up in a tingle unless protected from the icy blast of Jack Frost's frigid breath.

Thomas Defreese reports that his bees swarmed on December 21. Such is our climate. The hives were located where the sun could warm them up, and the bee colony, evidently under the impression that springtime had arrived, concluded to come forth and swarm. Mr. Defreese "hived" them in good shape, since which time the busy workers have been content to remain at home.

Geo. D. and Rollo T. Brown, old time "Yellow Kids," have sold their newspaper business in Central City, Iowa. They retained ownership of their printing plant, and will seek a new location. The Press invites them to come to Oregon, where the financial possibilities of the country editor is second only to that of a banker or an oil trust magnate. Come out boys, and help us develop Oregon. The field is a big one.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Athena, held this afternoon, the following officers were elected: H. C. Adams, president; T. J. Kirk, vice president; F. S. LeGrow, cashier; I. M. Kemp, assistant cashier; P. E. Colburn, D. H. Preston, H. C. Adams, T. J. Kirk and F. S. LeGrow, directors.
