Actress' Arm as a Relic.

"This is the arm of Mme. Alcoyne, the celebrated actress, burned in the great Paris bazaar fire. It was amputated and presented to Dr. Baker of Worthington after the inquiry held in Paris."

So runs the notice that hangs beneath a grecian-style reliquary in the saloon bar of the Black Bull at Whetstone, Middlesex. Charred and mummified, it is nailed to the wall within reach of any one and occupies the place of honor among such monstrosities as a two-headed kitten and a double bodied dog.

The name, "Mme. Alcoyne," is not found in the records of the terrible disaster of May, 1871, and another story has it that the arm was removed from the body of an actress after the fire at the Opera Comique in Paris in May, 1887.—London Mail.

A certain number of such brains are forthcoming. In the great majority of cases they are bequeathed by their respective owners.—New York Tribune.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate woman's organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and body at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system, given by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments. Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.
