William Armstrong Is Dead.

William Armstrong, an aged farm laborer and well known character about Helix, was found dead in bed Tuesday morning at the home of Robert Montgomery, five miles from Helix. The old man had been complaining of feeling ill and he evidently died during the night from heart trouble. He was in his 88th year and for many years was employed on the ranch of Horace Walker, county commissioner.

TWO NIGHTS IN SAGE BRUSH

Baby, 19 Months Old Wanders Eight Miles From Home.

Unbarned after wandering eight miles into the sage brush and spending two nights without food or shelter, a 19 months old boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence of near Caldwell, Idaho, was found Monday morning by a searching party and safely returned to the anxious parents.

The little fellow was missed from home shortly after 6 o'clock Saturday evening. Search was begun and continued all night. Harold Hawthorn, with his horse, finally found the little one eight miles east of its home. He was searching in that direction with a party, but others had turned back, declaring the child could not have traveled so far. However, he pushed on. He found some baby tracks, but these were soon lost. He kept on, leading his horse and selecting what seemed the most probable route.

After he had gone half a mile from the point where his companions both left him, he heard a child's voice saying, "pretty pony; baby ride pony."

Looking over the sagebrush Hawthorn saw the little one standing there unconcerned and reaching out his arms to him. He picked it up and hurried to the top of the ridge, from which he signalled.

While the others galloped to notify the parents, Hawthorn put the child in his saddle and started back. He had a bottle of milk from which the child partook ravenously until he took it away. The feet and legs of the little one were scratched, but it was otherwise none the worse for its experience.

THE MARCH OF THE GREEN BUG

Kansas Wheat Crop Good For Only Eight Bushels per Acre.

Reports of damage to winter wheat in Kansas formed the chief reason for renewed strength in the Chicago wheat market. At the close wheat for September delivery was 1-20 higher. Corn showed a net gain of 3/8c. Oats were 3-4c higher. Provisions were up a shade to 12 1-2c.

Advices from Kansas City were decidedly pessimistic, declaring that injury was caused by green bugs and unfavorable weather. The new crop will not run more than eight bushels to the acre. Reports from Oklahoma, where threshing is already begun, claimed that the yield in that state is very disappointing, averaging from three to five bushels per acre. These advices were supplemented by reports from the spring wheat country that an army of green bugs is advancing with great rapidity through the wheat fields of Minnesota and the Dakotas. This news held the market strong almost all day. A decrease of 3,500,000 bushels in the world's visible supply as shown by Bradstreet's was another bullish influence. Trading was active all day.

City Pumping Water.

The city of Athena is pumping water into the reservoir. The using of the well water is but temporary, and is necessary for the reason that the intake pipes at the head of the gravity system have become clogged with soil or else have been crushed. The crushing of the pipe, which is manufactured of burnt clay, could result from weight of earth settling down in the ditches, after the pipe had become porous and soft. A force of men were making repairs and the gravity system will soon be in use again. Wednesday but one foot of water remained in the reservoir, and pumping was, at once resorted to.

Trowel Around the World.

The traveling silver trowel, which is being sent around the world and will be received in every country before it completes its journey, is in Cheyenne, says the Cheyenne Tribune. It was brought to this city yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock on a special train, representing Oriental lodge No. 78 of Denver, and last evening the instrument was formally turned over to Cheyenne lodge No. 1 and Acacia lodge No. 11 of this city, where it will remain for 30 days and will then be taken by Cheyenne Masons to Utah or Idaho.

ANOTHER CLASS OPENS FOR COLT SHOW

Class No. 14, a special class opened by H. A. Barrett, for grade draft colts at foot, has been placed in the books of the Athena Colt Show association and entries are being made for the exhibition tomorrow. A total of thirty-nine entries had been listed by Secretary Norris at noon today, and stock yet to enter, insures the success of the exhibition. Weather permitting, the colt show will be the largest ever given here.

The Eagles' band of Pendleton was not in a position to fill an engagement here and the parade, which starts promptly at 1:30 p. m., will be headed by a cavalcade of ladies on horseback. The parade starts from Second street on Main, east on Main street to Fifth, north on Fifth to College, west on College to Fourth, south on Fourth to Main, thence to the show grounds.

WASHINGTON SHEEP

Court Holds Government Regulations Are Sufficient.

OREGON LAW NOT QUESTIONED

Contention Over Special Provision
That Sheep From Other States
Be Dipped Three Times.

Advices from Walla Walla state there is much rejoicing among the members of the Wenaha Woolgrowers' association there over the decision of Judge Wolverton granting them the temporary restraining order asked for in the federal court at Portland against the enforcement of the rules of the Oregon sheep commission. The welcome news was contained in a brief dispatch sent by Attorney H. C. Bryson, president of the association, who had gone to Portland with Attorney Oscar Cain to file other papers in the case pending the decision. He wired as follows: "Won both cases in the federal court, the decision being practically that compliance with government regulations for interstate movement of sheep is sufficient."

At the last session of the Oregon legislature a law was enacted providing that all sheep within that state should be dipped at least once each year between April 1 and August 1, with some standard dip approved by the state sheep commission for use, and that after the year 1907 healthy sheep in the state of Oregon shall not be required to be dipped. It also provides that if the weather is such as to make the dipping unsafe Oregon sheep need not be dipped.

But it was the special provision of the act which makes it possible to exclude outside sheep that the Washington sheepmen declared to be manifestly unjust, as it provides: "If the state sheep board so declares all sheep from other states shall be dipped three times." They contend that such a requirement is not only unjust but would amount to a practical exclusion of all sheep from other states, as three dippings would entail such an expense as to drive sheepmen outside of Oregon out of the business.

The Washington sheepmen will now proceed to drive their flocks to the ranges to which they have been assigned, but will prepare to comply with the law, once in the state, the same as resident sheepmen of the state of Oregon. The Wenaha sheepmen claim that they have dipped their sheep and had them inspected by a government inspector while in the state of Washington and that they are free from scab and consequently there is no occasion for further dipping, which would be both dangerous and expensive and would serve no good purpose. They propose to fight out the proposition along these lines. But in the decision of Judge Wolverton it is only the regulation of the Oregon sheep commission that is questioned, while the law and the proclamation of the governor are upheld.

Interest on Road Warrants.

County Treasurer Bradley announces that owing to the fact that the road fund had all been exhausted, hereafter he would register all warrants present and that they would draw interest at the rate of six per cent from date of registration. At the June term of court claims against the road fund, amounting to more than $11,000 were allowed and the warrants issued in payment therefor soon exhausted the supply of cash on hand. As there is not very much money pouring into the treasury at this season of the year, it will probably be several months before many of the road warrants are cashed by the treasurer.

Boy's Arm Broken.

Cecil Bell, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bell, fell and dislocated his left forearm while playing Tuesday forenoon. Just how the little fellow became hurt is not known. He was found in an unconscious condition by his father and from appearances he had fallen from the bed of a cook wagon on which he had been playing. In falling his left arm caught in such a way that one of the bones of the forearm was dislocated and the arm was badly bruised at the elbow.—East Oregonian.

The Baptist Sunday schools of this city, Adams and Helix, united, are enjoying a picnic today at Kroll's grove, near Adams. The different classes accompanied by their teachers are having an enjoyable outing and will return home this evening with empty dinner baskets.
