Yesterday while engaged in manipulating his razor, Merle Robey had the misfortune to drop his mirror, thus striking the razor in such a manner as to cause it to cut his thumb very seriously. A deep gash, with much loss of blood was the result. Dr. Sharp was called and took two stitches in the wounded digit.

Mrs. Fay Le Grow entertained a number of ladies Tuesday afternoon at her home on High street. Fancy work was the occupation of the hour, and cake and sherbet refreshed the busy company. Mrs. Bowles, who thus pleasantly met the Athena ladies, will close her visit to her daughter, tomorrow, returning to her home in Walla Walla after a two weeks stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mansfield arrived in the city Sunday from an extended wedding trip to Portland, Astoria, Seattle etc., and will go to housekeeping immediately. They will probably occupy the McDonald cottage on High street. Mr. Mansfield is the capable manager of the Tam-a-lum Lumber yard at this point, and his bride is the daughter of a prominent family in Milton.

Mrs. C. C. Sharp of Pendleton, and children spent Sunday and Monday with friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Sharp will leave next week for Seattle, where they will permanently make their home. Mrs. Sharp has sold her land in Alberta at a most satisfactory advance in price, having purchased a half section at $13.50 and sold at $80 per acre. She will invest in a home in the Sound city.

Mrs. D. G. Curry returned home Saturday evening from an extended trip through Union, Baker and Grant counties, and Washington county in Idaho, where she traveled in the interest of the Oregon and Idaho Home Finding Society. Mrs. Curry was absent about six weeks and made a thorough canvass of her district. She will make a tour through northern Idaho some time during the summer.

Mr. Walter Judy, pyrotechnical artist, parted with a piece of money yesterday as the result of a little experiment with a sizzling skyrocket, loaded at both ends and in the middle. Grasping the infernal machine firmly in the left hand Mr. Judy proceeded to show the boys a trick embalmed in fire and brimstone. He lighted a match, applied it to the business end of the rocket, and under his breath, murmured "watch me." With a sizzle and a sputter, it dashed across the street, crashed through a window and spent its force on the floor of Charley Norris' harness shop. Yesterday morning, Walter paid for a new window pane.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Johns and sons, Melville and Flint, arrived in the city the first of the week and will spend several weeks with friends here. They have disposed of their interests at Seaside, and will probably locate at some point on the California coast in the fall. Mr. Johns will remain in Athena until after the harvesting of his wheat, as he has two valuable farms in this best part of the best county in Oregon, both being under the care of Bern Bannister. Athena friends are pleased to have them with us again and to know that Melville's health has been restored, after several years of suffering with asthma. They are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Watts, and the balance of their stay will be with the Boyd family.

George Piper who resides northwest of town evidently has a pronounced fondness for the road that threads its way through sylvan dells, grassy glades and alkali chuck holes; a road that crosses cool, running brooklets, along the banks of which grows blooming cowslips and fragrant dew-lips, and where birdlings and cricketlings hop and twitter all day long. And George always goes on a wheel, propelled by gasoline—alone. And George always returns on a wheel, propelled by gasoline—alone. Johnny Tompkins—suspicious fellow that he is—does not hesitate to say that Waitsburg holds an attraction for George; but the Press man believes it to be the enchanting scenery along the roadside that lures George away on his frequent trips.
