

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

Libby's Food Products

Peerless Dried Beef

Unlike the ordinary dried beef—that sold in bulk—Libby's Peerless Dried Beef comes in a sealed glass jar in which it is packed the moment it is sliced into those delicious thin wafers.

None of the rich natural flavor or goodness escapes or dries out. It reaches you fresh and with all the nutriment retained.

Libby's Peerless Dried Beef is only one of a Great number of high-grade, ready to serve, pure food products that are prepared in Libby's Great White Kitchen.

Just try a package of any of these, such as Ox Tongue, Vienna Sausage, Pickles, Olives, etc., and see how delightfully different they are from others you have eaten.

DISINFECTING THE ONLY PREVENTIVE

Borax, a Simple, Safe and Sure Method

Two tablespoonfuls of Borax in a pailful of hot water poured down the grease-choked pipes of a sink, or flushed through a disease-laden drain, cleanses and purifies it, leaving it clean and sweet.

Bed clothing and clothes used in a sick room can be made hygienically clean and snowy-white, if washed in a hot solution of Borax water.

Kitchen and eating utensils, used during illness will be kept from all possibility of contagion if Borax is used when washing them. Pure as snow and harmless as salt, and because it can be used for almost every domestic and medical purpose, Borax must be considered the one great household necessity.

Truth and Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

To meet the deficit in the budget the French Minister of Finance suggests the doubling of the licensing fees of vendors of absinthe. This taxing of the "green peril" will, it is thought, be popular; the minister anticipates that it will bring him in $2,000,000.

In the manufacture of alcohol from peat, a Danish company, with one experimental plant in Denmark and one in France, has found the cost to be about one-fourth of that made from potatoes. In the process of manufacture, the cellulose or fiber of the peat is converted by sulphuric acid into a soluble carbohydrate and this is fermented by a special yeast.

In 1907 Philadelphia's export and import trade increased $25,000,000 in value over the figures for the previous year. The total value of the city's external trade for that year was over $150,000,000. These figures account in part for the opening of the new steamship service between Genoa, Italy and the City of Brotherly Love. The Italians want some of the business.

India's government has recently authorized the employment of women telegraph operators. The candidates must be between 18 and 30 years of age, and they must be unmarried or widows. In connection with the death of Grover Cleveland, it is interesting to note that only twice before in the history of the nation has the United States been without a living ex-President. George Washington died in 1799, when John Adams, the second President, was in office. Andrew Johnson, at the time the only surviving ex-Chief Executive, passed away in 1875, two years before General Grant retired to private life.

The Dutch government has granted a concession to the Amsterdam and North Holland Electric Tramway Company to build and operate an electric railway system in Holland. The route will be nearly fifty kilometers, running from Amsterdam north through Zaandam to Krommenie, from Zaandijk to Wykman-Zee, and Wormerveer to Purmerend. The Holland Development Company of Amsterdam will build the entire system.

The "Arabian Nights" is an extensive collection of tales forming part of the Arabic literature, and the exact title of which is "The Book of the Thousand and One Nights." They were first made known to Europe by Antoine Galland, between 1704 and 1717. He was a French Orientalist, who succeeded, after much effort, in obtaining a manuscript, which he supplemented by gathering tales from professional story-tellers, whom he met during his travels in the East.

As an instance of the Great Eastern Railway's elaborate precautions for the safety of travelers on its system, the Railway News says that at Broxbourne, for the purpose of advising the station signalman when a train has passed his down or up advanced starting signal, a rail contact is placed about 800 yards ahead of the respective advanced starting signals, and on the engine reaching the rail contact a bell is rung in the signal box, and this bell continues ringing until the signal is replaced to danger.

According to a report in the Neue Freie Presse, Vienna, J. Pierpont Morgan was a busy sightseer in that city on his recent visit. With Mrs. Douglas and her daughter he visited all the great art collections "and on Sunday called at Kreutzenstein castle, where he was received by the Countess Kinsky. He was deeply interested in what he saw in the restored castle and listened with devotion when his hostess played on the chapel organ." The report also speaks of Mr. Morgan's visit to the Lainzer Zoo, where he showed the greatest interest in the bears, "as he had never before seen one."

ARE LEARNING KALE.

Oregon Farmers Overcome Prejudice of Long Standing.

From the Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis.

Kale is one of the best talking crops in Oregon. When the Oregon booster wants to prove that Oregon is the best dairy state in the union he has to talk kale. Unless he knows what kale will do to the milk bucket he has not qualified as a booster. It is called the thousand-headed kale, and the botanist knows it as brassica oleracea, but it is the plain kale of four letters that does the talking. The strange thing is that it has only been during the last two or three years that it has had an audience, though it is nearly thirty years old in the Willamette valley. It has tried to talk all those years, but the people wouldn't listen when it sought recognition. "We never heard it talk," they insisted, "back in Iowa and New York. Back there cows produce milk without kale, and I guess they will have to here." That is tradition. It took thirty years for kale to get an audience in this state and live down tradition.

The dairymen of New York understand what green succulent food means to the dairy cow, and they build expensive silos, buy expensive machinery, and grow fertility-robbing corn, which they irrigate with their sweat, in order that the farmer during the long winter months may have an excuse for milking his cows. The Oregonian needs no expensive silos to remind the cow of the good old summer time. Kale! A thousand blessings on the thousand-headed kale! It is making Oregon the greatest dairy state in the union.

When grown under favorable conditions kale will yield 40 tons per acre of green feed, and its chief value is as a soiling crop during the fall and winter. Splendid results are being secured by feeding kale and vetch hay to dairy cows, without any grain or mill feed. Dr. Withycombe, of the Agricultural College, says that 15 pounds of vetch hay and 40 pounds of kale a day is practical; a balanced ration for a dairy cow. Mr. W. L. Wilson, of Banks, Or., says: "I received $207 from 14 cows in the month of December, and fed them nothing but kale, turnips and vetch hay. The man who feeds chop would have to make $237 to clear as much as I do. I have not had a speck of mill feed in the barn all winter."

Mr. Byron Hunter, of Corvallis, has, as assistant agriculturist of the bureau of plant industry, U. S. department of agriculture, made a special study of the forage crops of Western Oregon, and in Bulletin No. 91, published jointly by the Oregon Experiment Station and the Department of Agriculture, has the following to say about kale, which is timely:

"Methods of Sowing.—For fall and winter use kale is usually sown in drills on well prepared and drained soil as soon after the 15th of March as the season will permit. This furnishes plants for transplanting in June and July. The land used for transplanting is well manured and plowed two or three times between the first of March and the first of June. With the land in perfect tilth it is plowed again with a 12-inch plow about the first of June, and the young kale plants dropped into every third furrow about two and a half to three feet apart. This places about one plant on every square yard. The roots of the plants are placed where the next furrow covers them, leaving the tops uncovered. The plants that are sown in during the day in this way are rolled in the evening of the same day to pack the ground. Two or three cultivations are all that can usually be given, for the plants will soon touch in the row, if they do well. Any plants that fail to grow may be replaced by hand. Some growers prefer to plant the seed in hills, and when the plants are large enough thin them to one plant in a hill. Others put kale out just as cabbage is usually transplanted, instead of plowing it in. The time of transplanting must be determined by the size of the plants and the condition of the land. If the land is wet and subject to overflow the transplanting may be deferred until during July. If the land is well drained and the plants are large enough, it may be done before the first of June. In transplanting, enough plants may be left for a stand on the land where the seedlings are grown.

A man living at Maud wants to know if he can irrigate his trees by means of a water wagon and barrels. Professor Thornber did not favor the plan, stating:

"This would be rather too complex. I am of the opinion that you will find it too great an expense, considering the value of a team and a man, to haul this water during the summer. The station would advise you to try and conserve this moisture by means of culture. This could be done with good effect during the summer months. I have had considerable experience on the state college campus in hauling water; and have concluded, first that it is impracticable to place water around the tree without a heavy mulch of straw; second, that nothing much less than a barrel of water for each tree at each watering, should be given. This will soak the ground up fairly well, and in our case, I did not need to water the trees on the campus more than twice during the summer. I do not know that it will be possible for you to make use of a heavy mulch, but in order to hold the water, it is necessary to do so. You can use rotted straw for this, or forest leaves."

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

There is scarcely any one, no matter how vigorous and healthy, who does not need a tonic sometimes. Little physical irregularities upset the system, the appetite fails, digestion is poor, the body feels tired and worn out, and other unpleasant symptoms give warning that the system is disordered and needs assistance to ward off, perhaps, some serious sickness or ailment. S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the best of all tonics, nature's medicine, made entirely of healing, cleansing, invigorating roots and herbs, a systemic remedy without an equal. S. S. S. has the additional value of being the greatest of all blood purifiers. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling, improves the appetite and digestion, and brings about a return of health to those whose systems have been weakened or depleted. S. S. S. acts more promptly and pleasantly than any other medicine, and those who are run down in health should commence its use at once. It will thoroughly purify the blood and tone up the system. S. S. S. is admirably suited for a systemic remedy because it is free from minerals; it may be used without harmful results by persons of any age, and no unpleasant effects ever follow.
