

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Bowerman of Condon, President of the Senate; McArthur of Multnomah, Speaker of House.

The Oregon legislature met for the 25th time Monday. Jay Bowerman of Condon, was elected president of the senate and C. N. McArthur of Multnomah speaker of the house, with W. M. Barry of Multnomah chief clerk of the senate and W. Fred Drager of Marion chief clerk of the house. The opening session was devoid of incidents, and any bitterness of defeat was hidden under the surface in a deep desire to evoke harmony at the beginning. Both houses met early and proceeded to the temporary organization then taking noon in the meantime holding their caucuses. When they reassembled the committee on credentials submitted its report, the new members were sworn in and the first business of the session transacted with the introduction of resolutions and the first reading of bills.

Representative Barrett of Athena has in his possession a letter from McArthur saying that the latter will not use his high official influence in the election of senator, as he considered the matter settled by the people.

Many exciting fights developed in the caucuses of the republican senators.

In his biennial message submitted to the legislature Governor Chamberlain reviews in detail the administration of the state's government during the past two years, submits much data regarding the finances of the state, the condition of the various state institutions and also makes many suggestions to the legislature.

Among other things the message recommends that the legislature be guided by the will of the people in choosing United States senators; it is recommended that the state provide by law for an insurance commissioner; that the penitentiary officials instead of sheriffs transport prisoners to the penitentiary; that the supreme court be enlarged to five members; that the anniversary of Oregon's admission to the union be celebrated; likewise the Lincoln centennial; that the proportional representation law be made effective; that the water code be revised in the interest of the irrigation interests; that the three present normal schools be maintained and that the Oregon Agricultural college and the University of Oregon be properly supported.

Hotel Burned

The Palace hotel at Pullman was destroyed by fire Monday. All the inmates escaped and saved most of their belongings. The fire started from an overheated stove on the third floor and spread rapidly. The structure was owned by C. W. Nessler and was valued at $12,000, with $6,000 insurance. It was leased by A. H. Dawson.
