There is approximately 3200 acres of heirship land on the Umatilla Indian reservation tied up in litigation, according to U. S. District Attorney McCourt. Twenty law suits are involved.

A party of young people, chaperoned by Mrs. B. W. Myers are preparing to leave about 4 o'clock tomorrow morning for Wenaha, where they will camp for a few days.

East Oregonian—John B. Gagnon of Athena, is a nephew of Gilbert Gagnon, the French Canadian who went to California in early days and who died several years ago leaving an estate valued at many thousands of dollars. The Umatilla county man will therefore make an effort to secure his portion of the estate as the old man died intestate and left no children. Will M. Peterson of the firm of Peterson & Wilson is attorney for the claimant.

Athena people will be widely scattered tomorrow and Monday, attending the celebrations. Many will go to Pendleton, others will be at Walla Walla, while the call of the river will entice others.

The farmers of the Meadows and Batter creek have just finished harvesting their first crop of alfalfa. The average yield was three tons per acre, and on account of the dry season Batter creek was lighter than usual.

A serious accident happened to the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bonifer in this city Tuesday. The mother and three children were crossing Main street when a horse, ridden by one of the Brotherton boys at a smart pace, ran over the little girl. The child was knocked down and when picked up the right side of the face was found to be badly lacerated. Dr. Sharp dressed the injury.

Weidemann's Wild West show furnished diversion for the people of Athena and vicinity Tuesday afternoon and evening. A feature of the evening entertainment was the dumping of one of the rough riders from the hurricane deck of a fiery cayuse. Jeers from the crowd elicited from him a $20 declaration that no one in the audience could ride the broncho. Instantly his bluff was called but the fellow "crawled" before his money could be covered.

After boring a distance of 80 feet, Miller & West, the contractors lost the hole they were boring for the Athena Land & Trust company, and are now down about 90 feet on a second one. The big drill encountered boulders and casing was resorted to. In placing the casing in the hole 21 feet of the big pipe, which proved to be of inferior grade broke apart and lodged in the bottom of the hole. The well men considered it time saving to bore a new hole rather than fish the casing out.

While on the road home from the river Saturday, where a party of young people had spent the week, little Hope McPherson met with an accident which resulted in a painful injury to her foot. When crossing a deep rut in the road, the horses jerked the driver, Floyd Pinkerton, to the ground, dragging him a few feet, but without serious injury to him. Miss Hope, who was in the front seat, in some manner fell to the ground the wheel passing over her foot. She was picked up by Rev. Harris and conveyed to his home in town, a good two miles drive, before assistance could be secured. The foot though badly swollen, is healing nicely and it is now hoped that no bones were broken.
