When the digestion is bad you need something that will not only relieve but will strengthen the digestive organs and assist them back to their normal condition. This calls for the Bitters first of all. Try it

Washing Crepe de Chine.
Washing crepe de chine is no more difficult than to wash a frock of colored muslin. If tepid water and good soap are used with care it will come from the laundry as triumphantly as a piece of white linen. Do not let it lie in the water longer than is absolutely necessary, rinse thoroughly, and when half dry press on the wrong side with a medium hot iron. If of a delicate color the garment must be dried in a shady place after pressing.

Sweet Omelets.
Sweet omelets are varieties of plain omelet in which sugar is used instead of salt and pepper and in which the fillings and garnishings consists of sweets, equally appropriate for any meal and a grand resource as emergency desserts. With a simple sweet omelet as the basis any material at hand may be used, so its possibilities are practically without limit.

Ribbon Cookies.
Mix five, after your favorite recipe a batch of white cookies flavored with lemon. In another dish mix a batch of chocolate cookies, flavoring with vanilla. Roll out chocolate cookies quite thin, then roll out white ones, same as chocolate. Place one on top of the other and roll as jelly roll. Take a sharp knife and cut slices from the roll, turn them over and lay them in baking pan. When cooked they are a delight to the eye as well as to the palate.
Make molasses cookies, cutting them in strips with sharp knife, about the length and width of lady fingers. When baked and while warm spread with good jelly and press two together, making a dainty cookie sandwich.

The Red Shawl.
There lives in Atchison a woman who has been happily married 40 years and who has raised five children. Recently she was out walking when she caught sight of a peculiarly bright red shawl. The men will sniff at what happened next: The woman felt a twinge at her heart; the shawl had reminded her of a girl who had stolen her first lover. The girl always wore red of that shade. Then the old woman went home, took out her false teeth that she might not swallow them in her grief, and gave herself up to sad memories. We will bet no woman will sniff. An incident like this appeals to the women.—Atchison Globe.

The Straws That Showed.
Mother—Do you think that young man has matrimonial intentions, my dear?

Peaches in Turkish Mode.
Peaches cooked in Turkish fashion are served with boiled rice. Peel the peaches by plunging them in boiling water, then remove the stone through slit in one side, without injuring the shape of the peach. Fill hollows with seeded raisins and arrange in baking dish; sprinkle liberally with sugar and set in hot oven 20 minutes. Have ready a dish lined with boiled rice. Spread over it peaches, and serve with dressing made of coconut milk thickened with cornstarch and sweetened with granulated sugar.

The Artless Query.

FASHION HINTS

A lingerie evening gown has a deep "skimpy" flounce of heavy embroidery, which also forms the waist and sleeves. Very sheer null is used for the upper part of the skirt and the waist folds. It is worn over a light blue silk slip, and there's a crushed girde of the blue.

THE PARIS APACHES.

How They Deal With Their Unlucky Victims.
The floods in Paris afforded golden opportunities to the thieves and hooligans—the dreaded "Apaches"—of the French capital. A Paris correspondent sends an interesting account of these reckless men and their methods and weapons.

"The desperate criminals who make a specialty of night attacks are a bloodthirsty, cowardly set of ruffians, and as they are always armed to the teeth and hold human life cheap, a solitary citizen going home late, or a policeman on a lonely beat has very little chance against them.

"When they have once made up their minds to rob a passerby—which one does not matter much—it is more than likely they will decide to begin operations at once. That means that three Apaches will take up a position on the pavement and pretend to be engaged in innocent gossip. The street is deserted. A solitary pedestrian comes into sight. In a moment he is measured up by the three scoundrels on the lookout for their prey. There is not a policeman in sight. The moment is favorable.

"He has a gold chain," says one. "He'll do," says the chief of the criminal trio. "Get ready."
"They continue to converse until the stranger reaches them. Involuntarily he glances at them as he passes. That is sufficient.

"What do you mean by looking at us like that?" asks the chief in an insolent tone. Then, turning to his companions, he remarks, 'Hasn't he got an ugly mug?"

"The pedestrian, however little he may be inclined to quarrel with the evil-looking ruffians who have accosted him, is unlikely to take their insults in silence. But at his first word of protest one of the group advances on him with a menacing air.

"What!" he exclaims, "I'll show you who you've got to deal with."
"The stranger stands on his guard, but immediately another member of the trio bounds upon him from behind, seizes him around the neck with his arm and lifts him off the ground. His cries for help are stifled in his throat, and if he succeeds in making a sound the arm which presses against his throat is tightened and he loses consciousness.

"While this is going on another of the accomplices goes through the victim's pockets, while the third keeps watch for the police. Then, when everything worth taking has been appropriated, the wretch who has almost strangled the victim releases his arm, gives him a violent push and sends him headlong to the pavement where he will lie senseless for half an hour at least.

"But things do not always pass so easily. Sometimes the victim shows more resistance than was expected, and then the Apaches have to modify their plans. He must either be stunned with a blow from a mutton-bone or given a stab with a knife or dagger. The mutton-bone used by the Paris Apache is a terrible weapon. In appearance it resembles a small hatchet, without a handle, is about six inches long, and comes from the shoulder of the sheep. This and the knife and the knuckle-iron are the favorite weapons of the Paris hooligan. They are effective and noiseless, whereas the use of the revolver is likely to attract the police.

"Among the more recent methods invented by the Paris Apache for rendering the passing citizen incapable of resistance is the lasso. At the favorable moment a cord from 15 to 20 feet in length and ending in a running knot is thrown by an expert hand. As it falls over the victim's head it is jerked tight, and, half strangled, he is thrown to the ground. The rest is easy."

Looking Up Father.
"May I see my father's record?" asked the new student. "He was in the class of 1877."
"Certainly, my boy. What for?"
"He told me when I left home not to disgrace him, and I wish to see just how far I can go."—Buffalo Express.
