PLANTING THE GARDEN EARLY
 Where Season Is Late and Rainy Not Advisable to Get Seeds into Ground Too Soon.
 It is not always advantageous to plant the garden as early as possible. Under certain conditions nature hastens the growth of late planted seeds so that the difference in time of their ripening will not accord with the difference in plantings. This is particularly the case when the season is late and rainy.

Loss of Appetite
 Which is so common in the spring upon the return of warm weather, is loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a forerunner of prostrating disease.
 It is serious and especially so to people that must keep up and doing as best they can.
 The best medicine to take for it is the great constitutional remedy
Hood's Sarsaparilla
 Which purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the whole system.
 Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets known as Sarsatabs.

PINAFORE WAS TOO POPULAR
Once Everybody Sang or Played It or Made Continued Use of Its Catch Phrases.
 There was a time when the vogue of "Pinafore" was simply amazing. It was not copyrighted and after its success in London it was pirated in the United States. This piracy was the initial cause of Gilbert's hatred of America and Americans.

PAYS TO RAISE GOOD HORSES
 Grade Stallions Cheaper to Use, But Pure Bred Colts Sold for Twice as Much Money.
 Fifty-five dollars is good interest for the use of $7 for a year. And when the feed of a colt for another year is saved the proposition is all the more attractive.

Raising the Colts Properly.
 Most of the colts on the farm get a good start the first six months of their lives from the fact that they are allowed to suckle the dams during that time. Early fall provides them with good pasture and possibly they have been receiving some oats or shared part of the feed of the mare.

Oil for Incubator Lamps.
 Incubator manufacturers always recommend purchasing the best kind of oil to use in the incubator lamps, and this is good advice. But sometimes the oil will smoke. A remedy for this is to take a cupful of fine salt and put into each quart of oil. Let it settle for a few days, then pour into the lamp and put in a small piece of gum camphor, letting it remain there. Of course the wick must be properly trimmed, rounded at each side, otherwise the lamp will smoke, no matter what kind of oil you have.

Gentleness With Stock.
 The sheep know their master's voice—there is no doubt about that; but it is more important to know what they do when they hear it—whether they flee in fear or come with expectancy.
 Sheep, like other animals, are creatures of habit and should always be handled by the same attendant, who should move among them gently and give notice of his approach by speaking to the flock.

Pigs Fatten on Rape.
 Pigs in clover are popularly supposed to be in the ideal animal environment, but the cold facts, developed by experiment, show that pigs in rape do better, says the Farm Press.
 In a Wisconsin experiment, 21 pigs fed on rape for eight weeks gained 57 pounds more weight than the same number fed on clover for the same time.

Air the Bees.
 Take the cellar bees out the first warm day that is windless and sun shiny, or keep plenty of water, slightly warmed, near the hives.

"Moonshining" in Scotland.
 The discovery was made recently in the mountainous region near Kyla of Lochaleh (Scotland) by the Rossire preventive staff of a complete illicit whisky distilling plant. The still was covered with a cairn and had a capacity of 20 gallons, the smoke being led along the mountainside. The smugglers had conducted a regular traffic.

FARM AND ORCHARD
 Notes and Instructions from Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations of Oregon and Washington, Specially Suitable to Pacific Coast Conditions

FOWL TUBERCULOSIS.
 By T. D. Beckwith, Oregon Agricultural College.

A disease which is becoming prevalent in the poultry industry of the Northwest is called avian tuberculosis or tuberculosis of poultry. It is a disease which, like most of the other diseases to which all higher animals are susceptible, is due to a living cause, a certain germ, which cannot affect a healthy fowl unless it be carried to that fowl by some method or other. It never generates spontaneously. It is a disease which is fairly recent in the United States, having been noted in this country only in 1900, but it has been prevalent in Europe for very many years.

POULTRY EXPERT INSPECTS.
 A. R. Lee of U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry Sees Plant.
 Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis—Alfred R. Lee of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry has just finished an inspection of the poultry plant at the Oregon Agricultural College, looking over the hatching and brooding equipment, the yards and houses.

FASHION HINTS
 Demure and Summary is this frock of rose steven silk mill. The drapery is of plain silk mill, and tiny ball fringe is used to finish it.

Wet or Dry Feeding.
 Many poultrymen now grind part of their chicken feed into a meal so that it can be fed either wet or dry in the form of mash. It has been found that in forcing chickens for quick growth or egg production, feeding a portion of ground feed is a great help.

Mortality Among Young Ducks.
 The cause of mortality among young ducks may be traced to over-heat, dampness, getting wet, lack of grit, gray-head lice, sudden showers, delayed hatches, exposure to sun, lack of fresh water, drinking vessels too shallow, breeding stock out of condition.

Corn for Horses.
 It is claimed on reliable authority that corn-fed horses are more susceptible than those given other grains. Corn may enter into the ration without any serious results, but it should not be made the entire ration.

Riches Easily Gathered.
 I am startled that God can make me so rich even with my own cheap stores. It needs but a few wisps of straw in the sun, some small worm dropped, or one that has long lain silent in a book.—Theodore.

Eloquence Not Always Persuasion.

MAYS OF SERVING CHEESE
 Some Suggestions for the Housekeeper Who Wishes to Avoid Monotony.
 The housekeeper who does not believe in monotony does not serve cheese in the same way two days in succession. A little planning will enable her to run three or four different kinds of cheese at the same time, keeping them all fresh by putting them in an airtight cold place.

Eye Aches
Pettit's Eye Salve
 One of the Largest Elephants.
 A recent writer in the Field newspaper gives the dimensions of an old Indian elephant, which would scarcely have been much inferior in size to a mastodon. According to his account the animal measured 14 feet in height at the shoulders, 26 feet in height from the tip of the trunk to the end of the tail. The distance from the tip of the trunk to one eye was 7 feet; from one eye to the tail nearly 18 feet, and the tail was 4 1/2 feet in length. The tusks were 5 feet 1 inch long.—Harper's Monthly Magazine.

Trustees Santa Claus.
 As Christmas time drew near Bob by expressed a wish for some especially desired article. His mother suggested that he write to Santa Claus about it. "Mother," said the child, after some hesitation, "I think everything of Santa, an' I know how good he is an' everthing, but mother, he's so awful busy that he forgets, sometimes! Last year, you 'member, I asked him for a toy goat an' he sent me four dogs. I wish you'd look after this one thing yourself!"

Pie Sufficed for Large Party.
 Over 90 persons partook, the other day at Gorleston, Suffolk, England, of a gigantic sea-pie, in the making of which there entered two stone of flour, six rabbits, six ox and sheep livers, six pounds of beefsteak, two score of green vegetables, half a stone of onions, and two stone of turnips and carrots. The total weight of the pie was over two hundred pounds, and it took two days to cook.

All Are Ours.
 We lament the hostility of circum-stances and the elusive nature of opportunity; but if we are in the stream of all our circumstances are ours. The master of right living is keyed to his surroundings and lives as the rose opens to the sky and air. Study yourself, lay firm hold on the deep germs of angelhood, the folded blooms of beauty, and bid them come forth!

Deadly Venetian.
 A contrast to the Venetian glasses, which were popularly supposed to fly to pieces if poisoned liquor were poured into them, were glasses which poisoned all who drank from them. The poison was crystallized at the bottom of the glass, from which it was indistinguishable, and as it dissolved very slowly it could be used some many times with deadly effect. Some specimens can be seen at the British Museum.

Tobacco Raising in Ireland.
 Irish tobacco and Irish cigars and cigarettes are bought in Dublin with patriotic pride and smoked with enjoyment, and it may be only a matter of time when Irish cigarettes will be known the smoking world over. The raising of tobacco in Ireland is one of the new industries which are being undertaken, and the quality is pronounced good.

Exercise.
 Mrs. Knicker—"Can you get your boots buttoned without bending your knees?" Mrs. Bocker—"Certainly! I make my husband do it."—Harper's Bazar.

As a Flower.
 The spirit of a person's life is even abiding some power, just as a flower is steadily bestowing fragrance upon the air.—T. Starr King.

Christianity and Citizenship.
 Whatever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens.—Daniel Webster.

He Knew.
 Flapper (reading a novel)—This is an improbable book. I'm sure there would have kissed each other long ago.—Fleegande Blatter.
