BEST PLACE TO KEEP FRUIT

Space Between Beams Provides Dry Spot the Most Fitted for Ita Proper Preservation.

Where persons have a house with eight or ten-inch beams on which the floor is laid in the first story, the spaces between the beams make an excellent place to keep canned fruit in the cellar.

Boards can be nailed firmly to the underside of the beams, forming shelves on which the fruit can be set. Wide boards are best.

The air is dryer in this point in the cellar than at any other place, and there is a freer circulation, too, keeping the fruit in a more even temperature and better atmosphere than is possible in a fruit cupboard or on shelves built along the side walls.

In erecting such shelves care should be taken to secure the boards well with nails. A good plan is to saw the boards to fit a certain place, allowing the ends to be just even with the sides of the beams. Then a small board can be nalled firmly on the end of the shelf and, when in place, nailed to the outside of the beams.

Meddling Stage Directors.

In a recent lawsuit regarding the wnership of a play a stage director testified that in thirty-two years' theatrical experience he had never heard of a play being produced as originally written. "The chief duty of a stage director," he said, "is meddling with manuscripts. I have even heard of stage directors who tried to improve on Shakespeare by revamping his works."
