State Fruit Inspector Campbell is in the city, accompanied by a man with a spraying outfit who comes prepared to spray trees at very moderate charges. Inspector Campbell says it is absolutely essential that the spraying be done immediately, otherwise trees will be condemned and cut down according to law. He says he has gone to the trouble of bringing the spraying outfit here, and that owners of trees are expected to hunt the spraying man up at once. Prices for spraying range from 15 cents to 50 cents per tree, owing to general condition of the tree.

The Walla Walla Union exploited Uncle Dave Taylor's remedy in a recent issue. From the writeup in the Union, one would suppose this community was inhabited by a tribe of morbid invalids, one and all suffering from "stomach trouble," and that Mr. Taylor had found a panacea equal if not superior to S. S. S. Mustang Pills, Dandelion Juice, or any other old remedy. Athena is one of the healthiest places on this mundane sphere and Uncle Dave's remedy is all right—just ask Bert Cartano or anyone else who has used it, and get a free testimonial for the asking.
