

Always Making Friends

Is the fortunate experience of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Whole neighborhoods love and praise it for the cures it has made. "I know by experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a grand, good medicine. I am more glad in taking it than its proprietors are in selling it. In malaria and loss of appetite it drove out the chills, gave me a good appetite and digestion. For twenty years I have known and used it, so I call it a good old reliable family medicine. We recommend it to all our friends." James Johnson, 551 E. Indiana Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa.

Be Honest.

Being honest is the greater part of achievement. When you know that you're doing the best within you, you can't be downed. Self-respect is an eternal life preserver—no matter how often circumstance wrecks you, you're bound to float back to solid ground again. When men strive for posts of trust, they must be somewhat post-like themselves and stand steady.—Herbert Kaufman.

Feminine Ambition Rebuked.

The instinctive masculine attitude toward feminine ambition is sometimes manifest in early years. Three-year-old Richard was observed in the barnyard one day, following with solicitous attention the movements of a hen who was trying to crow. Finally he inquired kindly, though with evident disapproval: "Is anything the matter with you?"

Three Babes Walked Fifteen Miles.

Three children—Ida Farrow, eight years old, Willie Farrow, five, and Linda Benton, six, of Petersburg—walked 15½ miles to Whipple Drove one recent Sunday to see their grandmother. The children, who undertook the journey unknown to their parents, arrived exhausted, and after being fed and rested were driven home again.—London Mail.

WATER REQUIRED FOR SHEEP

Animals With Bountiful Supply Produce More Mutton Than Those That Are Deprived of It.

Experiments carried on with cattle showed that cattle given plenty of water with their pasture contained more moisture and less dry matter than did the carcasses of cattle given pasture but no additional moisture. It is a generally accepted principle of feeding that it costs more and more to produce meat as the moisture decreases and the dry matter increases. From this we are able to deduce the fact that it costs less to grow the steers that had plenty of water, and so made watery carcasses, than it did to grow the steers that had no water other than that in their food and reproduced a dry carcass.

What is true in the case of steers would hold equally true in the case of sheep. Sheep given plenty of water will produce mutton more cheaply than will those deprived of it. Muscle expansion will be more active in the one case than in the other, and that is another reason why mutton produced by the sheep that have water is superior to that of the sheep that do not.

There is considerable water in any of the pasture crops that sheep eat, and they get still more moisture from the dew that collects on the grass blades in early morning and late evening; but from these two sources, while it gets enough water to keep it alive, a sheep still does not get enough water to keep it in the very best growing condition nor to keep all its bodily processes going on in the most effective manner possible.

There is not an organ in the body that can function properly without water to aid it. Being one of the chief constituents of blood, water is carried to every part of the system, and not alone helps it in getting its nourishment, but also in ridding it of its impurities. It is obvious that a large amount of water must be necessary to keep the sheep doing well. Enough is not gotten with the food, even in summer, and this amount should be supplemented by all that the sheep will drink when given constant access to it.

Need Care of Home.

A Philadelphia physician who enjoys a handsome practice and excellent hospital connections told me an interesting although terrible tale. About 90 per cent. out of every 100 babies that are sent to hospitals for bringing up die. The death rate among such unfortunate is seven times as great as with infants who have the immediate care of mothers. Truly there is something needed in a child's life besides food, shelter, and clothing.—Philadelphia Record.

Squeaky Boots.

Often when one has purchased a pair of boots, one doesn't know till they are home that they creak. However, the disagreeable noise may be stopped by taking them back to the shoemaker and asking him to spring them on each side and insert between the soles a teaspoonful of French chalk. This process costs only a trifle and answers admirably.

Don't Buy Water for Bluing.

Blue that's all blue.

Rather Flimsy Excuse.

The case of "any excuse" was exemplified recently at Capetown (S. Africa) criminal court. A native who had been asked by the magistrate why he had signed his evidence "Tom Harris," his real name being April Phalander, replied that he did so because the per was a bad one and his hand was shaking.

Child's Pathetic Death.

A bad school report, which he thought would induce his parents to punish him, caused a boy of twelve years to commit suicide at R. H. Knickerdorf, a suburb of Berlin, a few days ago. The child crept at dusk into a stable and hanged himself with a halter from a low beam.

Tactful Mr. Cumrox.

"I want to talk to you about becoming your son-in-law," said the young man, "I can advise you," replied Mr. Cumrox, "on the subject of becoming a member of the family. As your son cere personal friend I ought to speak freely, but as a husband and father I am restrained."

The man who complains that he has not succeeded because he has never had a chance expects somebody else to furnish the chance.

White Wood Work.

Inside painted woodwork can be made to look like new by rubbing it well with a rag dipped in whiting. After the whiting dries it should be thoroughly removed with a soft cloth. The paint is not injured, as it usually is by the application of soap and water and the process is easy.

Do Not Feed Moldy Corn.

Moldy corn will produce blind staggers in horses, and it should never be fed to them. Every year there is considerable trouble with this disease in the west, and in almost every case the cause is moldy corn. If this corn does not produce blind staggers, it will tend to injure the physical condition of the animal. So don't feed it, and be careful about pasturing the horses in stalk fields where there is moldy corn.

Converted Wagon.

From the standpoint of convenience, the farm wagon that has been made over into a low-down vehicle with wide steel tires has a strong appeal. It is easily loaded, and overcomes all the objections to high wagons of the old type.

Hearty Eaters.

All cows that are hearty eaters are not profitable producers, but all profitable producers are usually hearty eaters.

IMPROVING HEN FLOCK

Great Deal Depends on Selection of Setting Eggs.

Should Be Those From Year Old Birds, as Chicks Will Be Larger and Stronger Than Those From Pullets.

(By A. J. WILDER.)

Care should be taken to save for settings only the eggs from the best hens. A very great difference can be made in a flock in a few seasons by the selection of the eggs for hatching.

By choosing the largest eggs—the fowls will be much larger in size, but there is a great probability that they will not be good layers. The hen that lays an unusually large egg is quite likely to lay only every other day. By setting her eggs and again the next season setting the largest eggs, you will develop a strain of large fowls that will lay very large eggs, but will lay only every other day, or even less.

On the other hand, if you set the eggs from the hens, that as pullets laid during their first fall and winter, and continue to set eggs from such hens, you will develop a strain of early winter layers.

The eggs for settings should be from year old hens, as the chicks will be larger and stronger than those from pullet eggs. It is best to mate

Compressed Sponges.

A compressed sponge is a bit of toilette daintiness intended specially for travelers, though it appeals as well to the stay-at-home as an ultra-hygienist. The sponge is of compressed absorbent cotton about the size of a twenty-five cent piece, and half an inch in thickness. Dropped into water it becomes saturated and expands to the size of a small face cloth, large enough to wipe the face free from dust and grime.

PROPER CARE OF CUT GLASS

Elaborate Precautions Necessary to Preserve the Beautiful But Extremely Delicate Article.

Cut glass is very fashionable now, and is used upon the dinner table and in the drawing room with great success. But, alas! How easily it can be chipped and spoiled. What precautions can be taken with the precious pieces?

Cut glass must be handled very carefully when it is washed, so that no risk is run of chipping it. A wooden bowl will help it.

Place in a wooden bowl some shavings of mild white soap and pour over these boiling water.

When the water has become lukewarm wash the glass in the suds, using a soft brush to clean the dip the glass in a second wooden bowl, this time filled with clear lukewarm water, until all traces of soap is removed.

Now dip the glass into a third bowl of lukewarm water to which bluing has been added (for the bluing will give a brilliancy to the glass) and then dry it with a very soft cloth. Polish it with soft tissue paper.

Gilded and patterned china may well be washed in the same careful way, but the bluing should be omitted.

Banana Pie

Mix one-third cupful of sugar, two and two-thirds tablespoonful of flour, and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt; then add yolks of two eggs, slightly beaten. Pour on one cupful of hot scalded milk gradually, while stirring constantly, return to double boiler and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, and afterward occasionally. Cool and add one-fourth cupful of thin cream or rich milk, three-fourths tablespoonful of lemon juice and one large banana cut in one-eighth inch slices crosswise. Chill thoroughly and turn into a pastry case. Just before serving beat the whites of two e a until stiff, and add gradually, while beating constantly, two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one-fourth teaspoonful of lemon extract. Sprinkle the evenly over pie and brown under gas flame.—Woman's Home Companion.

Good Dumplings.

Many cooks fall with dumplings from letting the mixture stand after it is blended or from letting the water under them get below the boiling point, says the Commoner. Mix and sift two cupfuls of flour and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, add one-half teaspoonful of butter, work into this three teaspoonfuls of butter, using the tips of the fingers, then add gradually three-fourths of a cupful of sweet milk; put out onto a floured board and without working, roll out to half an inch thick; cut in any shape desired, or in strips, dip in flour and lay the pieces close together in a well-greased steamer; set this over a kettle of boiling water, cover closely and steam for fourteen minutes, keeping the water below rapidly boiling. Serve as soon as possible with portions of meat.

Guy de Maupassant as a Clerk.

Guy de Maupassant's manner of life as a junior clerk in the French education office is the subject of an interesting article by one of his old colleagues. We gather that he absented himself from his duties on the ground of illness on an average about three days a week, and that was how he obtained leisure for literary composition. None the less he was very anxious to retain his clerkship until his literary prospects were secure.—Westminster Gazette.

Three Cheers.

A town meeting had been called to devise ways and means to provide for the poor of the community. Roses From Italy.

The rose, so long considered the floral emblem of England, was not known in that country until the early part of the fifteenth century. Rose trees were then brought from Italy and planted in the royal gardens. They were sent as presents from the holy father and highly esteemed by royalty. It became the custom to give them over the doors of the confessional as holy flowers, hence the term sub rosa (under the rose) used to mean "with secrecy."—Ave Maria.

BEEF BRAISED A LA BRISSE

Change From the Familiar Roast is Something That Will Be Appreciated By the Family.

Take a rump piece of beef, weighing at least eight pounds, and lard it with half a pound of salt pork, cut in long, half-inch square pieces. Season well with allspice, chopped parsley, and a little garlic. Tie up firmly and place in the stew pan with four ounces of melted beef suet; fry briskly until a crisp brown all over. Drain off the fat, add a quart of broth made from bones and trimming, two cups tomato sauce; a bunch of parsley; two onions, and about a quart and pint of quartered turnips. Let boil up, then cover and let simmer gently for nearly three hours. Take out the beef and place on a platter and rub the vegetables through a sieve into the sauce pan, skin off all fat from the gravy and reduce to the consistency of your sauce, then press the turnips, etc., through a fine sieve to make a puree. Turn onto the platter and place the meat on the puree. Put some of the gravy over the meat and serve.

Flowers on Wrong Grave.

After periodical pilgrimages extending over 15 years to the cemetery at Beeton, J. Daniels of Nottingham was informed by the local urban council, under whose control it is, that during all this time he has been visiting and placing flowers on the wrong grave. The blunder, they said, was due to a former sexton getting the numbers of the graves mixed in entering them in his book.—London Chronicle.
