SENT HIMSELF BY MAIL.

One Use to Which the Parcel Post in England May Be Put.

An Englishman wished to reach a customer living in a remote part of Balham, one of the suburbs of London, and it was very urgent that he find him quickly.

Knowing nothing of the locality, he called at St. Martin le Grand to consult a directory. Stating his case to a clerk, he was amazed to learn that he could be sent the address by parcel post by paying a fee of three-pence a mile. The gentleman had never heard of such a thing, and it is said that very few in England know that it can be done.

Accepting the offer, the gentleman was placed in charge of a messenger familiar with all parts of the city and was soon on his way. The boy carried a printed slip on which was written a description of the "parcel" in charge, under the heading, "Article required to be delivered," and before leaving the customer's house both the customer and the gentleman were required to place their signatures on the paper.

The limit in weight for anything delivered by parcel post in England is generally understood to be eleven pounds, but there is one clause which reads, "A person may be conducted by express messenger to any address on payment of mileage fee."—Argonaut.

BOUCICAULT'S PROFITS.

The Playwright's Fame Clung to Him Better Than His Riches.

Dion Boucicault received £300 for his share in the authorship of "London Assurance." The way in which he spent that sum was an indication of things to come. He bought two horses, a cab and seven new coats. His extravagance reached a climax over "Bubbl and Bijou," produced at Covent Garden in August, 1872. The money was found by Lord Londesborough, and Boucicault (with him Planché) was under contract to produce something that might be called dramatic.

What was produced was a gorgeous and incoherent spectacle, with red lobster recumbent at the bottom of the sea. Boucicault, who had run up bills to the extent of £10,000 or so, did not stay for the production, but betook himself abroad. All that persists of this magnificent fiasco is the boys' chorus, "Spring, Spring, Beautiful Spring," which was retained almost by chance.

But Boucicault was better known by his Irish dramas that are fresh today, as "The Shaughram," "Arrah na Pogue," "The Colleen Bawn" and the like. By these he became rich and famous, but his fame clung to him better than his riches.—London Post.

No Landlubber.

Young Jack Tabbs has only been in the navy for a few months, but there is not a more enthusiastic sea dog in the whole of his majesty's service. He recently made application for and received the usual leave and proceeded to London and his mother's house.

Mrs. Tabbs lives on the third floor of a house in Camberwell, and when he arrived at her address he stood in the doorway and bawled up the stairs: "Mother, a'th'at! Jack's come home! Open the window!"

"Why, Jacky, my dear," cried the old lady from the landing, "whatever's wrong with the stairs?"

"Stairs!" cried the weather worn tar, with ineffable contempt. "What do I know about stairs? Just you open the window and lower a rope to the main deck, and be quick about it!"—London Express.

The Fall of Rome.

Odoacer, the Goth, was proclaimed king of Italy A. D. 476. This ended the Roman empire of the west. The Byzantine, or eastern empire, founded A. D. 395, with the division of the empire by Theodosius, fell A. D. 1453 with the capture of Constantinople by the Turks. In truth it cannot be said that any, or even two, nations overthrew Rome. Rome was overthrown by the pressure of the whole barbarian world, assisted by the inherent corruption of the Roman people.

No Mercy.

Mistress Sarah Jane, what has happened? Sarah Jane—Oh, mum, I've fallen down the stairs and broken my neck! Mistress (firmly)—Well, whatever you've broken will be deducted from your wages.—Sydney (N. S. W.) Bulletin.
