A colt properly trained is worth considerably more than one with litgreater ease in handling, and a greater amount of work accomplished with less risk to both driver and the animals. It would be time well spent if more attention were given to these matters by farmers and horse dealers.

SOME MILK MACHINE TESTS

Danish Experiments Reported to Department of Agriculture Should Prove of Much Interest.

The subject of milking machines is one of current interest in dairying circles, says the American Cultivator. Along this line the results of some Danish experiments reported to the department of agriculture should prove of value, since Denmark is at the top notch in dairying practice.

Four uniform lots of ten cows and the experiments showed that nearly that he had been very rude. increase over machine milking, while the opposite was true for the helfers. The chemical composition of the milk was not affected by the method of dress, Edwin?" milking adopted. No special difficulty was met with in operating during the process of milking. The great difference in the ease of milking different cows and heifers by hand was found to be not nearly so pronounced by machine milking. The results obtained indicate that one man with two machines (milking four cows) can do about the same work as three hand milkers, and can milk 50 to 60 cows in two to two and one-half hours. The bacteriological examinations of the milk showed that machine-drawn milk may have fewer germs than milk drawn by hand, if both the machine and the teats of the cows are kept scrupulously clean. Care in keeping the teats clean is Flubdub-I suppose you'll try it on especially important from the fact that bacteria in dirt adhering to the teats are likely to be sucked into the milk pail with the air, and will tend largely to increase the bacterial content of the milk.

HORSE POWER NOT UTILIZED

Average Farm Animal Works About Three and Half Hours Per Day-Cost la Twice Too Much.

(By W. J. SPILLMAN.) Carefully conducted investigations show that under ordinary conditions on American farms work horses are utilized only about three and a half hours a day on the average. Horse power is thus utilized to less than half its capacity. Per unit of work done this power costs more than twice what it should cost. The full utilization of power actually available would thus reduce materially the cost of producing crops. The cost of keeping a peared!" work horse is on the average about $125 a year. The average utilization of the horse is about 1,250 hours a year, at an hourly cost of 10 cents per hour. If we double the number of hours' work the horse does-and this can be done without injury to the animal-we reduce the hourly cost to 5 cents.

Whitewash Dairy Barn. Doctor Marshall, a Pennsylvania institute speaker, says that whitewashing of dairy barns should be done for the sake of general sanitation, but the main point in fight against tuberculousis is the elimination of the dark stables and filthy stall conditions.

When clean methods are used in the keeping of cows, he advises the use of a compound made from one pound of chloride of lime and five gallons of whitewash, which, when put on the walls and stable partitions, acts as an wouldn't lend me-" offective preventive of disease.

Every farm ought to be equipped with a crowbar and a ten-foot irontipped wooden spike for moving heavy objects. They save time and take the place of muscle.
