Our Longest River.
 Our longest river is the Mississippi. There is no other stream within our borders that can stand a moment's comparison with the "Father of Waters." To be sure, there are some who claim that the really great river is the Missouri, that that stream is the main one, of which the Mississippi is only a tributary. But the claim is without foundation. The Missouri, from its source in the northwestern Rockies to its junction with the Mississippi at St. Louis, is a distinct stream from the one into which it empties near that point. It is quite true that from the headwaters of the Missouri to the gulf the distance is greater than it is from the headwaters of the Mississippi to the gulf, but in the one case it is two streams, in the other only one.—New York American.

The Dream Lion.
 A Vienna professor is credited with saying that dreams are usually wish fulfillments. Maybe so. What about that childish dream in which the ferocious lion comes bounding along behind you, and you run as boy never ran before, and the lion closes the gap little by little, and then—all of a sudden—your legs grow limp and your muscles turn to water and your feet fray out, and the lion leaps—and you awake with a yell. If your voice isn't paralyzed, and everybody in the house wakes with you?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Egoist.
 "Here is another definition of an egoist."
 "Let's have it."
 "An egoist is a man who never disappoints himself, no matter how often he disappoints others."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Same Answer.
 "And so you married a poor man after all. What are you living in?"
 "A little flat."
 "And how do you find married life?"
 "A little flat."—Pittsburgh Post.

Cossack Troubadours.
 Like the Spaniards, the Cossacks have a class of troubadours who instead of walking from village to village ride on horseback with their gully and give performances of music and song in front of houses. They are treated with respect and rewarded generously according to their talents. There are also women troubadours among the Cossacks, and their performances in the pleasant surroundings of a garden or in a street scene are impressive.
