Judge—You say you saw the prisoner strike the complainant. On what provocation?
Witness—Why, he pulled out a roll of bills, your honor.
Judge—And you mean to say the prisoner struck him for that?
Witness—Well, he struck him for some of it.

M. Hennon, recently appointed police prefect for Paris, has established a school for policemen, in which recruits will be instructed in their duties by the cinematograph.

An eminent authority has estimated that 91 per cent of the people of Paris have the germs of tuberculosis in their blood and are capable of spreading the disease.

It is said that a minimum of from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 horsepower could be developed in the Appalachian mountains in the south.

WOMEN FROM 45 to 55 TESTIFY

To the Merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound During Change of Life.

Westbrook, Me.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and had pains in my back and side and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my testimonial."—Mrs. LAWRENCE MARTIN, 12 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Manston, Wis.—"At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and loins until I could not stand. I also had night-sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicines but got no relief. After taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. The pains left me, the night-sweats and hot flashes grew less, and in one year I was a different woman. I know I will thank you for my continued good health ever since."—Mrs. M. J. BROWNELL, Manston, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled in such cases. If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Praise for the Dear Departed.

Uncle Cy was 96 years old when he died. He had made a lot of money, and had devoted his entire life to a spectacular and desperate system of never letting go of a nickel. His reputation as a tightwad and a skinflint was so gorgeous and brilliant that its effluence lit up all New England and cast a powerful glow as far south as Tennessee and as far west as Minnesota. When it came to stinginess he was the original gold-medal old guy.

At last he died and the family scattered around a lot of money to pay for his funeral and to lay him out in state. On such occasions in New England it is customary for everybody to say something nice about the dear departed. This time, however, the neighbors merely looked on in silence.

At last an old man in whose veins the milk of human kindness rippled and pulped and roared, took his stand beside the casket and lifted up his voice in a eulogy to Uncle Cy. "Cy's gone now," he said, "and I'll say this for him: He was always good at keeping his barn door shut."—Popular Magazine.

Spring Care of Live Stock

Great Mistake Made by Many in Feeding Out All of the Succulent Feeds During Winter.

Every year we see the necessity of having an abundance of ensilage and roots to carry the live stock well through the spring months. It is a great mistake to feed out all of the succulent feeds during the fall and early winter and compel the farm animals to consume the dry, inferior fodders during the spring when they are falling away in condition.

It belongs to the penny-wise-and-pound-foolish policy that too many of us are practicing. It is much better to spend a few dollars for grain, and house feed our animals longer than to expose them to the cold blasts of late winter and early spring.

Round policy dictates this and humanity also. Live stock to be more troublesome during the spring when the farm animals are kept inside until warm weather comes than at any other time during the year, and as soon as an animal is discovered to be lousy, the lice should be destroyed at once.

We have found a strong decoction of tobacco an excellent wash for the purpose of destroying lice, but during recent years we have been using a mixture of crude oil and crude carbolic acid, and find that this does the work in a very thorough and effective manner.

On the cattle we supply it with a hand sprayer, but for the hogs we prefer to use a brush or to saturate a few gunny sacks or old blankets and wind them around a post in the hog yards and allow the hogs to make their toils by rubbing against these posts.

They will soon learn how to apply the mixture where it is most needed and will keep themselves free from these pests if their beds and houses are kept clean and disinfected.

To Spread Manure on Land

Fertilizer Should Be Spread on Soil When Grass is Growing as Loss of Nitrogen is Less.

A most excellent way to use fine manure is to disk it in land where clover or grass is to be sown in the late summer or fall. It is spread on the land after it is harrowed down fairly well and then disked in just before making the final preparation and sowing the seed.

This method, according to Southern Agriculture, is not often practicable, however. Unless the bad practice is followed of holding it through the summer but little manure is on hand in the fall and the rush of work at that time often makes it impossible to haul it out.

Blankets and Quilts

Best Way of Caring for the Bed Accessories.

Little Glycerin Added to the Rinse Water is Recommended—Quilts Liable to Fade May Be Cleaned With Gasoline.

The following is the best way to wash blankets: Slice half a cake of any good laundry soap in two parts of water. Set on the stove and stir until dissolved. When dissolved, add to cold water in a tub. To this soapy water add four tablespoonsful of powdered borax. Soak the blankets in this over night or for several hours.

Wash in this water. Rinse twice in cold water, wring and hang on the line. This recipe will wash four blankets. Be sure and use only cold water, and they will come forth as soft and beautiful as when new. A teaspoonful of glycerin added to the rinse water will improve them.

Very heavy blankets may sometimes be cleaned by hanging them on the line and turning the hose on them, spraying them all over. Stretch them full length, and fasten a heavy weight at each hanging corner to prevent the wind from swaying and wrapping them into a roll upon the line.

The weights hold them in shape, and when spread out in this manner they dry quickly. Cotton blankets are washed differently from those made of wool. Soap them well with laundry soap, fold, and allow them to soak in tepid water. Wash them in an hour or so and place in a boiler of hot suds to steam, not boil. Rinse in several waters.

Use a very little bluing and dry them double on the line. Press dry on the wrong side. Quilts that are liable to fade if washed, may be cleaned with gasoline. Allow it to remain over night. Drain and place in a second tub of gasoline. Strain the gasoline in the first tub and use it, with a fresh supply for cleaning the second piece. When washing colored quilts avoid using alkali. It will run the colors and ruin the material.

If quilts are badly soiled, put kerosene in the first tub. It will cut the dirt. Bedding washed early in the spring may be dried out of doors, but the pieces should afterward be thrown over a line hung in a room, to dry thoroughly. Ticking should be soaked in water containing borax. Iron the pieces dry. If this coat lightly with paraffin on the wrong side. This will prevent feathers from working through.

Panel Curtain Device. How not to miss panel lace sash curtains when the windows of sleeping rooms are opened at night has been a problem of many particular housewives. About half-way up the lower half of the curtain sew a small dress hoop on either edge of the curtain and one in the middle if there is heavy lace or strong material at that point.

Besides the small ring screwed into the wood rod of the window shade for the pull cord screw a similar ring into each end of the rod, where it will not be noticed. Catch the dress hooks into the three corresponding rings on the window shade and roll the latter up as high as it is desired to have the window open. The screw rings can be put into the window jamb if preferred.

Wellesley College Fudge. Put a pint of cream and two cupfuls of powdered sugar in the chafing dish, and stir gently to avoid scorching until the mixture begins to boil. Then add one-quarter of a pound of unsweetened, grated chocolate. The mixture should bubble over a very moderate heat for about nine minutes. When sufficiently cooked, add an inch and a half cube of butter, stir vigorously and beat steadily for eight minutes, adding half a pound of fresh marshmallows cut into shreds and a quarter of a pound of chopped pecan meats. Turn into a buttered pan, and as it begins to harden mark into squares.

Delicious Clam Chowder. Steam one-half peck clams and then shuck. Squeeze the black from stomach and chop remainder of clam. Fry out four or five slices of salt pork and a good-sized onion until a delicate brown. Dice enough potatoes to make a quart. Strain liquor in which clams were steamed and cook potatoes and onion until thoroughly done. Then add chopped clams and a quart of milk, a generous piece of butter, salt and pepper to season. Split common crackers, moisten with cold water and allow to stand in chowder until soft. Remove to separate dish and serve with chowder.

German Potato Salad. Six medium-sized potatoes, one-fourth pound fat bacon, one small onion, two teaspoons salt, two-fourths teaspoon black pepper, one-half cup hot vinegar, one-half cup hot water, two tablespoons salad oil. Cut bacon into small dice and put into frying pan over a slow fire. Shred the onion into a large bowl, add salt, hot vinegar and hot water. When the fat is a light brown color and the dice well crisped, add onion—turning slowly at first. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with pickled beets.

Raisins Have Food Value. Raisins are coming to be regarded as a food instead of as a mere accessory to cooking. As a winter food they are considered specially valuable, and are also said to contain acids which are a digestive tonic. They furnish in a natural form the sweet which children crave. In cookery, in bread, gingerbread and in puddings they make an agreeable diversity, and add nourishment. They need thorough mastication, especially when uncooked.

To Clean a Coffee Pot. I clean my silver coffee pot in the following manner and find it very satisfactory: Put a large piece of washing soda into the pot to be cleaned, and fill it with boiling water. Then boil it for one hour over a spirit lamp. This makes the pot as bright inside as out and will not injure the silver in any way.—Exchange.

Concrete Floor. A concrete floor is the best thing for the milkhouse. This gives a most solid foundation for the separator and for such other work as it is necessary to do.

Baked Rabbit is Excellent

Many Who Have a Prejudice Against This Form of Food Will Enjoy the Dish.

If not dressed at the market, remove the skin and head and all the slimy inner skin and the entrails. Let it soak a few minutes in salted water. Save the heart and liver for the stuffing, and also what blood may come from the rabbit in the dressing to put in the gravy. Stew the liver and heart, and then chop fine. Soak one pint of bread crumbs in cold water and crumble finely. Add the chopped giblets, salt two tablespoons of fine chopped salt pork and season it with mixed poultry seasoning and a little chopped onion. Add a few stalks of nutmeg. If you like, and a tablespoon of minced parsley. Fill the cavity and sew the edges securely. Skewer the legs forward so it may be kept in a good position, and cover the surface with this slices of fat salt pork. Put it into a hot oven and this pork will baste it sufficiently for a while. When it begins to brown add one cup of boiling water and baste frequently. It should cook from one hour to one and a half.

When nearly done remove the pork and dredge with flour, and let this take on a good rich brown. When done remove to a hot dish and pour off the fat and gravy, leaving not more than two tablespoons. Add two tablespoons of flour and let them cook together until well colored, then reduce with boiling water or stock from the giblets, and when smooth strain it into the gravy boat.

Arrange the rabbit on a hot platter, garnish with lemon quarters and parsley and serve plum jelly or cranberry sauce as a relish. When carrying squeeze some of lemon juice into the dish.—Mary J. Lincoln.

Clam Water. A good, tasty dish is clam water. Wash and thoroughly scrub with small brush 1 1/2 dozen clams. Rinse very often. Cook in a tight-covered kettle, with three tablespoons water, no more, until shells open. Remove clams, strain liquor through double sugar bag in place of cheese cloth. Reheat and put in one large teaspoon of whipped, unsweetened cream. This is both delicious and tasty if your patient cares for clams. Would advise you to get some from the city, if possible, and be sure to tell dealer they are for a sick person. Go to some good market, and I feel it will repay you. Oysters, too, are another fish that make a pleasing change. Take your own glass jar and have them opened while you wait. My husband goes down where the big markets are and there are several places where you can get real fresh sea food.—Boston Globe.

Souffle Potatoes. Pare and cut the potatoes lengthwise in very thin slices, dropping them as sliced in a pan of very cold water. After soaking for at least half an hour, drain and dry them thoroughly on soft cloths. Have on the fire two kettles partly filled with fat, one hotter than the other. Spread a few of the slices in a wire basket and plunge into the cooler fat, cooking until they become soft but do not color. Lift out, drain and set aside for a few minutes until partly cooled, then plunge into the other kettle of fat, which should be smoking hot. They should swell almost immediately and become a golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper and send at once to the table. Do not be discouraged if you fall at first, as it is conceded by most persons who have tried it that this, though seemingly easy, is a difficult dish to prepare successfully.

Fricassee Veal. Divide into bits of size the size of your two fingers a couple of pounds of veal, and make it quite free of fat, bone and skin. Dissolve a couple of ounces of butter in a stewpan, and just as it begins to boil lay in the veal and shake the pan until the meat is firm, but uncolored. Stir in a tablespoon of flour, and when it is well mixed with the cutlets pour gradually over them, shaking the pan often, enough hot veal stock or gravy to cover them. Stew them gently until they are perfectly tender—this may be fifty or sixty minutes, or longer. Add salt, a quarter of a pint of rich cream, and if you like, a few strips of lemon rind. Two or three dozen mushroom buttons added 20 minutes before it is served will improve the fricassee.

To Carve a Fowl. Begin by sticking the fork into the wing and drawing it toward the leg, with the point of the carving knife underneath; take off the wing at the joint. Next slip knife between the leg and body on that same side, down to the joint; with the fork turn the leg back and the joint, with the knife, may be easily separated; then divide the leg and second joint. These should be laid at once at one end of the platter as cut or on a hot plate in front of the host. Slice the breast or white meat from the same side. If this is sufficient for the first serving do not carve any more; if not, proceed as directed with the other side.

Bran as a Cleaner. Dry bran will clean light furs and make them fluffy. It will also clean velvet fowers such as are now very fashionable for dress garnitures, as well as for millinery; and it is said to also take the soil from woolen material. Rub the bran on the article, and then shake and brush it off. Try cleaning light-colored gloves that would lose their color in gasoline, with French chalk.

Good Floor Duster. Buy two yards of outing flannel, fold into an oblong shape 18x18 inches; sew through the center, and cut out the cloth in strips one-half inch wide toward the center. Fit into a mop handle; use liquid veneer, and run the contrivance over the floor. It will pick up all of the dust and shine the floor at the same time.

New Potatoes. When boiling new potatoes always place them in boiling water, to which add a little salt and milk. This prevents them from turning black.
