The Dreamland Theatre promises a specially good program for tonight, tomorrow night and Sunday evening. For this and Saturday evenings: 1 and 2.—"The Big Horn Massacre," Kaleem. 3.—"Teaching His Wife a Lesson," Edison. Sunday: 1.—"At the Old Maid's Call," Essauy. 2. and 3.—"The Tudor Princess," Edisnap.

Dr. Plamondon announces that he is looking for a consignment of three dozen China pheasants, from the state game farm at Salem. He will divide the shipment equally between the Wild Horse, Pine Creek and Dry Creek game preserves. This addition to the thriving stock of game birds already on these preserves is gratefully appreciated by local sportsmen.

Foodstuffs are rapidly mounting the stairs of high prices, supposed to result from the European war. So far, only sugar and tinned meats have soared in Athens, and local larders, in many instances have been replenished in anticipation of still higher prices. But in Chicago, round steaks are sold over the counter for 28 cents per pound and only the rich can afford the luxury.

A. J. Criglar, the well known Umatilla county pioneer, was frightfully injured Wednesday of last week, when he fell from a wagon. His injuries consist of two fractures of the collar bone, fractured ribs and bruises. He was at once taken from his home near Freewater, where the accident happened, to a hospital in Walla Walla, where he is receiving every possible care and attention.

Main street and the hill west of the railway tracks are covered with a dress of crude oil, and the streets will receive like application in turn. The oil is placed on the streets under pressure from a special tank, formerly used on the Pendleton Athens road. The tank holds 500 gallons of oil and is equipped with a force pump attachment, which forces the oil into the crevices of the macadam street surface.

P. A. Worthington, of the O. W. R. & N. tax department, was in the city during the week. Mr. Worthington was engaged in determining land values in this vicinity. He is making an effort to show the tax commission that railroad property is assessed proportionately higher than other property, and his method is to verify the real estate transactions of the past year from the county records, and then personally interviewing the parties to the transactions.

George Mitchell was down from his mountain ranch, Tuesday. Mr. Mitchell is harvesting his wheat and barley crop, which is tight this year on account of lack of rain. He says there will be practically no potatoes raised on the mountains this year, unless rain comes at once. The vines are drying up and the potatoes are small. He is of the opinion that there will be few, if any, tubers to market from the mountain ranches this fall.

Ed. Benn, formerly bookkeeper for the Mosgrove Mercantile company in this city, is residing at Bette, Montana, where he has a responsible position in a railroad freight office.

James Navin and Milton Anderson of Helix, have been arrested on the charge of highway robbery. It is alleged that they held up a harvest hand, who was riding with Navin from Helix to Weston. Navin is out on bonds to appear before the grand jury, and it is said, Anderson, who is confined in the county jail, will furnish bonds also.

OMENS IN BASEBALL.

A Manager's Method of Turning a Superstition to Account.

Writing on baseball matters in the New York Tribune, John J. McGraw has this to say about the superstitions of the players:

"I recognize the superstitions of ball players. For example, back in 1904, when Bowerman was with the team, he came to me one day and said: 'As I came in today I saw a team of white horses driving past the Polo grounds. That's a good sign. Watch me kill the ball this afternoon.' 'He did. The belief in his superstition had given him confidence. Bowerman spread the tidings of the white horses around the clubhouse. The next day somebody else saw the white horses, so the day after. By the end of the week the entire team was hitting like a house on fire. They all believed in the superstition, and it gave them confidence. One day my shortstop, Dahlen, remarked: 'Funny those white horses always happen to drive past the ball park just when we are coming into the clubhouse. It's certainly lucky.' 'I heard him and couldn't keep back a smile. On the day Bowerman told me he had seen the horses I made up my mind that everybody else would see them as long as it helped their batting. So I engaged a man to drive past the Polo grounds every day. That is a fact, and it shows the lengths to which a manager will go to enter to ball players' superstitions."

DALTON'S EXPERIMENT.

Showing What a Genius Can Do With Crude Apparatus.

The great English chemist Dalton was a schoolteacher. He worked without a laboratory and with crude apparatus, mostly made by himself from simple materials. Here is an example described in his own words:

"Took an ale glass of a conical figure, two and a half inches in diameter and three inches deep; filled it with water that had been standing in the room and consequently of the temperature of the air nearby; put the bulb of the thermometer to the bottom of the glass, the scale being out of the water. Then, having marked the temperature, I put the redhot tip of the poker half an inch deep in the water, holding it there steadily for half a minute, and as soon as it was withdrawn I dipped the bulb of a sensible thermometer into the water, when it rose in a few seconds to 150 degrees."

He then determined the temperature of the water at the bottom after five minutes, after twenty minutes and after an hour and found that it rose gradually from 47 to 52 degrees. This simple experiment proved that water has the power to conduct heat, which had been denied by no less an authority than Rumford.—Youth's Companion.

The Conscientious Chinese Child.

One of our missionaries, writing of a little girl in the school under her care, says: "Last night Wah Noo told me she wanted to be a whole Christian, as she called it. So we had a long talk and tried to think of all the wrong we had done that day and confess it to each other. She counted these wrongs on her fingers: 'I did not brush my teeth as you told me to do; I did not take off the lower sheet on the bed when I made it up, and I know I ought to always; I got angry with one of the girls at school; I did not use my soap when I took my bath; I did not try to do my example in multiplication; all the other girls did theirs wrong, so I thought I would too.'"—Chr. Christian Herald.

Great Luck.

"Hello, Dobson! Any luck yesterday when you were fishing?" "Great! I was away when six bill collectors called."—Philadelphia Ledger.
