While en route home, Mrs. McEwen lost a val-uable Shriver's pin, which belonged to her husband. This was removed from her coat while on the train, and the railroad men promised to do all in their power to recover the stolen jew-el.

Joseph Forrest is able to be around again after being badly injured and shaken up in a runaway. A couple of weeks ago at the William Hall place south of town his team started to run while Mr. Forrest was shutting a gate. He endeavored to stop the team, was knocked to the ground, and the hook passed over him.

Doug Flynn was in town the fore part of the week from Bitter, Grant county. Doug is blooming out into one of the leading farmers of his neck o' the woods, and sported a whole threshing machine outfit on his re-turn home, having purchased the ma-chine here. He may be able to run the cutter when he gets home, but we'd prefer betting on the old boy sticking a trowel. "Ma too, Pete," voices the tunc.

Saturday evening, after two weeks' competition between several well known architects, the Athena school board accepted the plans and specifi-cations submitted by the firm of Tou-tellotte & Hummel of Portland, for the proposed new school house. It is understood the plans specify an eight room building, with basement under the entire edifice of modern fixtures for school purposes at a cost amount-ing to $35,000. Bids for the construction of the building will be advertised for at once, and work will be commenced as soon as possible.

Earl No-Meat, one of the best known and most respected Indians on the reservation, died at his home on the reserve south of Athens, Monday af-ternoon. His death had been expected for several days and last week a couple of squaws came to town and took home with them boards with which to make a coffin for him. Pat Ryan was the cause of death. Earl No-Meat was considered an honest Indian by all who had dealings with him, and he always met his obligations promptly. His wife, who survives him is the daughter of Chief Homily.

Monday noon, a quiet wedding oc-curred in Spokane, when Miss Hope McPerrin of this city became the bride of Mr. Fred P. Oswald, of Port-land. The marriage was performed at the Lutheran parsonage, by Rev. J. F. Passchere, of that church, and was witnessed by the bride's brother and wife, and a few other friends. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. E. McPherrin of this city, and is a favorite in the younger set here. The groom, who has been at Helix for the past three years, is well and fa-vorably known. The young people will probably make their home in Spokane.

Stoner and Meador, who participated in the O. W. R. & N. holdup, when their leader Charles Manning was shot and killed by Deputy sheriff McDuane, were each sentenced Mon-day by Judge Phelps to serve 18 years in the Oregon penitentiary. They were not represented by counsel, and District Attorney Stelwer addressed the court, calling attention to the fact that the men had pleaded guilty, besides returning the loot taken in the robbery. The judge took occasion to give the young men some whole-some advice.

At a meeting of the democratic county central committee, at Pendle-ton, Saturday, Will M. Peterson was for the fourth time elected chairman. Wesley N. Matlock was chosen sec-etary of the committee and the three members at large of the executive committee will be O. P. Strain of Pen-dleton; J. M. Searborough of Hermis-ton; and B. F. Vancil of Milton. J. W. Maloney of Pendleton was chosen as state central committeeman and J. Roy Raley of Pendleton as congress-ional committeeman. The committee of resolutions selected was composed of J. W. Maloney, O. P. Strain and Jos. N. Scott.

Marion Hansell and W. C. Miller fished and hunted on the Umstilla river this week, and numerous reports have reached the Press office. One is to the effect that one of the horses driven by them was found roaming the streets of Athens, apparently lost. Another report had it that the horse was safe, but Marion was lost. Later the horse was found and returned to the camp, where Miller refused to re-cognize it as the right horse. Further, it is reported that Marion has forgot-ten who Miller is, and the horse that remained in camp when his mate left, is not there. Only the dog appears to remain free from the hoodoo, and even it had taken to the trash.

After a critical illness of two weeks Mayor W. F. Matlock, of Pendleton, died Monday noon, at St. Anthony's hospital in that city. The body was taken to Portland Tuesday, and or-ated in accordance with request made by the deceased. Mr. Matlock was one of Pendleton's leading citi-zens, and foremost in enterprise and progress of that city. He died a wealthy man, but during life respon-ded generously to the wants and needs of the community in which he amas-ed his fortune and spent the greater part of his life. He was past 67 years of age and leaves a widow, one son and one daughter. When a child, he crossed the plains with his parents to Oregon from Missouri in 1833.
