What a Boache is.

Until the war broke out few Americans had heard the word boache or boche, the French soldiers' nickname for a German. It doesn't appear in the Academy's dictionary or in such editions of Littré as most of us can get hold of. In Delvaux's slang dictionary its definition is "Mauvais sujet, dans l'argot des petites dames, qui le préfèrent au mûche"; which last word Delvaux defines as "jeune homme poli, doux, amiable, réservé." A letter from Thomas Ogilvy to the Spectator supplies some additional information. He says M. Theodore Joran is his authority for saying that Littré does define boache, and defines it as ulcer or pestilential tumor. M. Joran thinks it related to the Latin bucca, which means first the cheek, regarded as a puffed thing, and then, according to Harper's Latin dictionary, "one who fills his cheeks in speaking, a declaimer, bawler," and also "one who stuffs out his cheeks in eating, a parasite."—The New Republic.

London.—The British foreign office made public Saturday the report of Rev. H. S. T. Gahan, the British chaplain in Brussels, who visited Miss Edith Cavell just before her execution, and a letter from Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, to the American minister in London. In his letter, Mr. Whitlock says he requested that the body of Miss Cavell be delivered to the School for Nurses, of which she was the directress, his request being referred to the ministry of war in Berlin. Rev. Mr. Gahan in his report says:

"On Monday evening, October 11, I was admitted by a special passport from the German authorities to the prison of St. Gillis, where Miss Cavell had been confined for 10 weeks. The final sentence had been given early that afternoon.

Douglas, Ariz.—A sharp fight between the advance guard of General Villa's soldiers and a detachment of Carranza troops from Agua Prieta, Sonora, occurred Sunday between Agua Prieta and Fronteras, according to reports received here. The Carranza commander issued no statement as to the outcome.

The skirmish was said to have resulted when General Calles sent a train toward Fronteras to meet 150 deserters from the Villa column, who were reported to have deserted when they learned the United States had recognized General Carranza.

Portland.—Dollar wheat was again in evidence in the local market. Ten thousand bushels of November bluestem changed hands at the Merchants' Exchange at this price. Another sale of 10,000 bushels of bluestem for this month's delivery at 99 1/2 cents was posted. Country dealing at about the same basis or higher has been reported for several days. One lot was bought in Eastern Oregon, a special transaction, at equal to $1.02.

By consistently holding out for higher prices, the farmers of the Northwest have succeeded in forcing the market up 8 to 10 cents a bushel since the first of the month, and this in the face of a steadily rising freight market. The last steamer reported taken at 100¢, but it is stated that the Canal closed, 120 to 130¢. The market is still to be made, and they are compelled to pay the prices farmers demand.

The bluestem purchases at the Exchange were at advances of 1 to 1 1/2 cents over Monday's prices. Other bids for the advance and heavy contracts changed. December offers, which were too low when first posted on Monday, were adjusted to bring them into line with the other deliveries.

Barley bids were raised 25 to 50 cents over the 25-cent high section. Patent flour was still available at the former price, but the market was firm. The export market was reported inactive.

Reviewing conditions in the European wheat markets, Broomhall says: "Strength in wheat is due entirely to American advance and heavy Continental takings, but the advance is considered extraordinary in the face of big American crops and strong freights. Importers are obliged to pay unexpected prices and it is feared that this advance will continue, or at least as long as Continental buyers follow the advance."

Northwestern Hops in Demand

Portland.—About 1000 bales of hops were bought in the Northwest Wednesday. All the details of the transactions were not available, but it is understood the prices were the same as those current for the past week or more. Louis Lachmund purchased 300 bales more of the McLoughlin crop at Independence. The McKay lot of 180 bales at St. Paul was also sold. Two lots of Western Washingtons, those of George Richter and Fremont Annis, were disposed of. Yakima sales included the Stewart lot of 125 bales and the Slavin lot of 75 bales.

Bean Crop Estimated $325,000

Lewiston, Idaho.—The bean crop of the Lewiston country this year will amount to 160 carloads at an approximate value of $325,000, according to the data collected by the railroad companies. The bulk of the crop is now in the warehouses and a considerable portion has been sold. The price at present is $4.50 a hundred and the average yield is about 800 pounds to the acre. The railroad companies' estimates are based upon a minimum of 20 tons to the car, and with a production of 160 carloads, the production in pounds is approximately 7,900,000.

Potatoes Are Poor at Genesee

Genesee, Idaho.—The potato crop in this section is light this year and the quality of the potatoes is not the best. This is the shortest crop this section has had in many years. Considerable wheat changed hands here the past few days, selling around 83 cents a bushel. The Farmers' Union warehouse is shipping quantities of hogs. The prices are better than they have been for some time, the last shipment being around 6 cents.

Huckleberries Drug on Market

Portland.—Southern Oregon grapes were in larger supply this week. Among the receipts were several shipments of good Tokays, which brought 90 cents to a crate. Concord were scarce and sold at 15 cents. California grapes were unchanged.

Huckleberries continue more or less of a drug on the market, and though quoted at 4¢ per case, are hard to move.

U. S. WILL SUPPLY OWN MUNITIONS

Federal Yards Will Compete to Stop Excessive Profits.

NO INTENTION TO MONOPOLIZE WORK

Secretary States Auxiliaries Manned and Supplied by Americans Are Necessary to Good Navy.

Raleigh, N. C.—Secretary Daniels in a speech at the North Carolina State Fair said that the administration proposed to equip its ships and armaments so they could compete with private plants under the national defense program. No monopoly was intended, he said, but this measure would be adopted as a check against excessive profits for private manufacturers.

"The government has invested many millions of dollars in navy yards," said the secretary, "and unless this investment is utilized for new construction, much of it is wasted. If the government is prepared to construct naval craft, private shipbuilding companies in making contracts must compete with government yards."

MRS. NORMAN GALT

Mrs. Norman Galt is the wealthy widow who is to become the wife of President Wilson. She is a Southerner and has lived in Washington nearly all her life.

With government yards. This tends to secure competitive prices and prevent combinations among private corporations to charge higher prices than conditions justify.

Mr. Daniels said that the government paid 80 cents a pound to a government manufacturer a few years ago to make powder, but the navy was now making it at a cost of about 25 cents a pound. Torpedoes and mines, he said, were also being manufactured by the government at a great saving of money.

It has been ascertained by a special commission that the navy, he continued, "with a modern plant, can manufacture armor plate for $230 to $260, as against the non-competitive prices of $425 to $486 a ton charged in the last contract. Experience in Europe teaches that the navy should no longer rely on private manufacturers for protection. If congress approves, we will erect a large factory which will turn out a large product of 12-inch armor-plate shells, as well as smaller projectiles. This will insure better shells and better competition."

The secretary particularly directed attention to the lack of ships in the American merchant marine to carry American products to those who need it and are willing to pay for it.

"What the navy needs, and in case of trouble would need sorely," he added, "are auxiliaries properly built and equipped with trained Americans. A merchant marine with foreign crews is not an American need, either for commerce or for defense."

A new state law provides that all clubs and similar organizations which wish to serve liquor must secure a special license.

Switzerland demands compensation and the punishment of the aviator.

Successful Experiments Made by Signal Corps.

Marked Increase in Efficiency Obtained by the Use of the Filers—Further Tests to Be Made Along Same Line.

A series of remarkably successful and interesting experiments were conducted by the United States signal corps at the recent maneuvering in Massachusetts in maintaining a wireless aerial by means of box kites and thereby increasing the efficiency of an ordinary field wireless outfit from six to sixteen times. The tests were conducted by Samuel F. Perkins, a maker and flyer of man-lifting kites.

Favorable strong and steady winds enabled Mr. Perkins to send up a string of kites to an altitude of 1,600 feet. Messages transmitted from the set of field wireless attached to this kite-supported aerial were received 150 miles away with distinctness, although the ordinary range of the set was only 25 miles. One thing that aided materially in obtaining this result was the fact that the kites flew so steadily that the aerial was always maintained at a constant altitude.

Quite as remarkable as the sending power of the wireless was its receiving quality. Messages were received with distinctness from the battleship Georgia while off Newport and from the government station at Arlington, Va., and Bermuda.

These experiments were but the first of a long series that will be conducted, and it is the belief of those who are interested in the matter that they will lead to a system by which the range of the ordinary field wireless will be materially increased. United States government and Marconi officials are following the experiments closely.—Scientific American.

Another "Peach" of a Peach Story

Brown, Bartholomew and Johnson counties all combined make this story. Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Davis live on a farm in the corner made by the three county lines. They have a peach tree on their place that has been acting in an unusual manner, and Mrs. Davis, who visited Columbus, Ind., recently brought along some proof. She had one twig from the tree on which there were 16 peaches, the combined weight of which was seven pounds. There was not another peach on the tree, but the one twig did nobly. Just a little distance from this tree there is another that is sending forth its second crop of peaches, and nearly all of the limbs now are full, the peaches being about the size of guinea eggs. On the Davis farm there also is a second crop of blackberries growing.—Indianapolis News.

Practicing Economy

When the conversation turned to the subject of economy this little incident was related by Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota: "Jenkins was sitting in front of the firehouse in a suburban town when a fellow-comer came along and unrolled a dissertation on the high cost of living.

"Speaking of the high cost of living," responded Jenkins, "everything is economy down our way now. My wife is practicing it to beat the band. 'You don't mean it!' exclaimed the other. 'In what way is the economy?'"

"She is economizing on my shirt," was the rejoinder of Jenkins. "She is buying me three for a dollar, as that she can get a $15 hat."—Philadelphia Telegraph.
