San Antonio, Tex.—General Frederick Funston asked the War department Tuesday for more troops to send into Mexico, after long consideration of the advisability of continuing the operations against Francisco Villa with his forces now commanded by General Pershing. General Pershing suggested that another regiment be sent to him, and General Funston asked the department for what he characterized as an "adequate force."

The United States is asked to agree not to occupy any town, village or camp, and not to penetrate Mexican territory farther than may be necessary for actual pursuit of Villa. Are Forced to Economize.

Methods of industrial efficiency such as are habitually ascribed to German establishments actually prevail in the automobile industry of the United States to a greater extent than is ordinarily understood. Par-ticularly in the handling of waste materials is extraordinary attention paid to details that are seemingly in-significent.

The advantage of these efficiency methods and detailed saving possi-ble has been strongly emphasized by conditions prevailing in this coun-try at the present time. For instance the scarcity of aluminum has placed what was once a common metal now almost in the semi precious class. Prices on many manufacturing metals have in many cases doubled and quadrupled over the ordinary rates prevailing before the opening of the European war.

By the use of electric magnets, scrap, which was formerly wasted, is now carefully gone over and the iron and steel fragments automatically lifted out. In fact the automobile industry in the United States gives keener attention to details than is bestowed in any country.
