ATHENA, ORE. SEPT. 8..... 1916

The proper use of the vast fund of agricultural information assembled by the federal government at a cost of about $250,000,000 to the nation, has not been general by a satisfactory number of people on the farm. "The situation," says Paul V. Maris state leader of county agricultural work in Oregon, "has been compared to that of a great manufacturing concern whose warehouses are full to overflowing but whose selling and distributing facilities are so inadequate that the products cannot be placed in the hands of the consumer. Agricultural bulletins, institute lectures, farm paper articles, state demonstration farms, all these and other agencies have played an important part but experience has taught that the cozier demonstration on the farmer's own farm of improved varieties, better cultural methods, standard market grades, etc., is the most effective agency for bringing about the widespread adoption of better methods. The announcement that an improved strain of wheat has been developed is not sufficient to bring about its use. It is the actual demonstration of its merits on ten or twenty farms of any county that causes it to be grown, resulting in an increase in the total cereal production of the county that may far exceed in value the cost of the demonstrator. This is one reason why the county agent work was started."

The house fly has timed his visit with the advent of summer temperature and is just commencing to be a nuisance in this section. Nevertheless he is as little welcome as though he had maintained a longer vigil over your victuals and carries the same degree of danger to those who attach small importance to his presence.

Some wise person, says an exchange, discovered that it was unhealthy for two persons to occupy the same bed; later another found out that it was unwise to ride on a car with other people or to attend church when other people attend. An association of physicians decided that a kiss was to tempt death in all manner of hideous diseases. The very latest is the discovery of a French scientist that the practice of hand shaking is a prolific source of spreading disease. If things keep up it will be unhealthy to be buried in the same graveyard with other people. The only place a person can feel absolutely safe from disease or getting run over is in a store that doesn't advertise.

DEATH OF MRS. L. RUSSELL

Mrs. Lucinda C. Russell, mother of W. C. Russell of this city, died at Pendleton Sunday and the remains were brought to Athena Monday. The funeral services were held at the Baptist church Tuesday forenoon at ten o'clock, being conducted by Rev. M. G. Bentley.

Obituary.

Mrs. Lucinda Carns Russell was born in Ohio, February 24, 1834 and departed this life in Pendleton, Oregon, September 3, 1916, being 83 years, 6 months and 13 days old. She was married to Alvin C. Russell in Adams county, Iowa, March 21, 1858. To them seven children were born, four sons and three daughters, five of whom with the father, have preceded her in death. Two sons, W. C. Russell of Athena and Edward Russell of Berington, Wash., with a number of grandchildren, remain to mourn her loss.

The deceased was a pioneer of Oregon, having crossed the plains with her husband in 1870, first coming to Portland. In 1876 they came to Athena, (then Centerville,) where she has since made her home.

Lead kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on;
The night is dark, and I am far from home
—Lead Thou me on.

Keep Thou my feet—I do not ask to see
The distant scene—One step enough for me.

Thus, star by star declines,
Till all are passed away;
A morning, high and perfect shines
To a pure and higher day;
Nor sink those stars in empty night;
They hide themselves in Heaven's own light.
M. G. Bentley.
