New Edison Phonographs

Mr. Edison has recently perfected his Amberola Phonograph by installing a diamond point in the reproducer, making this phonograph superior by far to all talking machines. The music reproduced is clearer, softer and more natural. The records are indestructible and play longer. There are no needles to change. Records for nearly all classes of music are only 50c each, while at 75c there is a fine collection of operatic and other high class selections by noted artists—records which ordinarily cost from $2.00 to $3.00.

Latest Models in this newly improved phonograph at

 Mistaken for a deer by a companion with whom he was hunting on the headwaters of Mill creek, last Sunday, Al. Sanders, a pioneer farmer of the Walla Walla valley, was shot in the breast and died within half an hour. His companions were A. B. and Boyd Shelton. The men were six miles above Klicker springs. Each thought the other to be on top of the ridge and when Mr. Sanders descended into the canyon, Boyd thought a glimpse of his esp. which was the color of a deer. He shot twice and hearing a cry, went down and found his fatal mistake. Mr. Sanders, who was 56 years old, was a cousin of Mrs. Lusiada Hildeman, of Athens.
 Leader: Weston's usually enterprising neighbor, Athens, seems to be a bit backward in some respects, having neglected to acquiesce in the United States government with the fact that its name was changed years ago from Centerville. According to Frank Van
