FENCES IN MICHIGAN.

Stumps That Are Relics of the Lively Old Lumbering Days. An enterprising Michigan is attracted by the stump fences more than to almost anything else a writer in American Forestry remarks.

Aside from these stump fences, the farms, the uplands and the marshes are not much different from those of New England. One notices the characteristic stone walls of New England, but finds in their place the most novel fences in the world—those made of stumps that have in recent years been pulled out of the ground by power-machines constructed for that purpose. The force required to pull such stumps from the ground is enormous, but it is applied slowly, in submission to the decree of nature that what is gained in power must be lost in speed. These stumps are relics of the liveliest lumbering ever seen in the United States. It ended about thirty years ago in Big Rapids, Grand Rapids and their vicinity. Old timers entertain the visitor by the hour with reminiscences of the amazing number of logs that were cut in that region. Logging somewhat similar, but not nearly so extensive, still continues in the northern part of Michigan, but does not equal in extent nor in picturesque quality that which formerly took place on the famous Muskegon river.

WHEN BUYING A HORSE.

How to Find Out Whether a Trader Has Cheated You. In Farm and Poultry a contributor says that ordinarily the purchaser of a horse is allowed twenty-four hours in which to try and return any horse found unsound. In great horse markets like Chicago a twenty-four hour limit for testing is allowed. This contributor tells us follows how to test a horse: "When a horse has been doped for heaven the disease symptoms will be likely to return in twenty-four hours if the horse is given all the drinking water he will take and is fed generously on bulky feed. He can then be thoroughly tested for wind by running and by dragging a wagon with a locked wheel. "Where cocaine is used to hide innumerable its effects will pass off in a few hours. A hypodermic injection of morphine, strychnine or similar drug will pass off in twelve hours or less. Can nabul indica or chloral hydrate makes a horse sleepy for from twelve to eight hours unless the dose is very large. In which case the effect will last longer. The only sure way to protect yourself is to buy a horse from a reputable dealer and get a written guarantee of soundness signed before a witness."

Saved by His Wit. The French author Martainville was a royalist and did not hesitate to attack the French revolution and its authorities. Presently, of course, he was summoned to appear before the revolution army tribunal, with the terrible Fouquier at its head. The revolutionary tribunals at that time did not hesitate to send anybody to the guillotine who had ventured to attack them. Martainville expected to go with the rest of the victims. "What is your name?" asked the revolutionary judge. "Martainville," exclaimed the judge. "You are deceiving us and trying to hide your rank. You are an aristocrat, and your name is De Martainville." "Citizen president," exclaimed the young man, "I am here to be shot, not to be lengthened. Leave me my name!" A true Frenchman loves a witticism above all things, and the tribunal was so much pleased by Martainville's grim response that it spared his life.

He Forgot. A young Parisian, noted for his grace and readiness as a second in many duels, had been asked by a friend to accompany him to the mayor's office and affix his signature as a witness to the matrimonial ceremony. He consented, but when the scene was reached awkwardly forgot him self. Just as the mayor was ready for the usual formalities he broke out to the astonishment of all parties with the remark: "Gentlemen, cannot this marriage be arranged? Is there no way of preventing this sad occurrence?"

The Cambodians. The Cambodians are a docile people much averse to war. Their language and civilization indicate those of the remaining peoples of Indo-China, are derived from India, as is also their religion. Their country contains various interesting ruins, the work of the Khmers, a race that has quite disappeared. The ruins at Angkor are remarkably well preserved and are possessed of great beauty.

Coldly Considered. "You don't seem to attach great importance to enduring fame and the friend and adviser. "I have my doubts about it, replied Senator Sorghum. "Enduring fame is what enables the American nation to get his picture on all kinds of money without having any opportunity to handle the real cash." Washington Star.

Advice. "Can I offer you a little friendly advice?" "If you take a little in return." Here negotiations ceased. Louisville Courier-Journal.

Who does not in some sort live to others does not live much to himself.—Montaigne. Mean Brute. "It is strange that there are no women on the bench of the United States supreme court," remarked Mrs. Gith as she looked up from her paper. "It is strange," agreed Mr. Gith. "That court always has the last word."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Great Gift. "They say she is splendid in amateur theatricals." "She's a wonder. She can make the most painful tragedy a source of genuine amusement."—Life.
