Professional Pawnshop.
In many of the main streets of London there are professional pawnshops—women, well known to the pawnbrokers, who for small payments take clothes and household goods to pawn for their neighbors. It is stated that the function of the professional pawnshop is twofold. The woman who pawns through a recognized intermediary gets a larger loan than she would if she did the business herself. For the pawnbroker the professional pawnshop guarantees the good faith of the owner and will be able to exercise pressure in case of default.—London Express.
Innuendo.
"Is dem you 'n' chikens?"
"Chikens dey's my all's chikens. Whose chikens did you s'pose dey was?"
"I wasn't s'posin' nuffin about 'em but I will say dat it's mighty nucky dat a chikens won't come a runnin' an a waccin' its tail when its regular own er whistles, same as a dog."—Washington Star.
Settlement Work.
"Did you hear about Muggins taking up settlement work?"
"Yes He usually works his creditors for 50 cents on the dollar."—Town Post.
Bullets and Snow.
To test the penetration of rifle shots snow walls six feet six inches thick were erected in Aurillac, France. Rifle were fired at a distance of fifty-five yards. In each case the ball was stopped at a penetration of five and a half feet.
Easy to Guess.
A woman writer says girls ought to know what their beaux make.
Don't they? Unless times have changed the girls get three-fourths of it during the courtship and make a clean sweep after the wedding. House Post.
Patent Office Documents.
If all the documents stored in the patent office at Washington could be placed end to end they would form a strip that would reach around the earth three times.
