SAYS CORNS LIFT
RIGHT OUT NOW

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezeone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezeone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezeone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house. It is fine stuff and acts like a charm every time.

Rapid Evaporation of Water
Secret of Success of The Iceless Refrigerator

Milk and other perishable foods can be kept cool and so preserved for considerable periods, even where ice is unobtainable. This can be accomplished by the use of iceless refrigerators, which are dependent on the rapid evaporation of water for the creation of low temperatures. These devices have been perfected by woman demonstrators in extension work, South, of the United States department of agriculture.

The iceless refrigerator consists of a wooden frame covered with canton flannel, burlap or heavy duck. It is desirable that the frame be screened, although this is not necessary. Wicks, made of the same material as the covering, resting in a pan of water on top of the cooler, conduct the water over the sides and ends of the pan and allow it to seep down the sides of the box. The evaporation from this moistened covering causes a lower

An Iceless Refrigerator. The operation consists in cutting off all the hypertrophied tissue, while the nasal passages are kept extended with absorbent wool in order to preserve their contour. The raw surface is covered with two thin grafts of skin cut from the patient's thigh, or when a sheet of gold leaf is placed and a dry dressing fastened with adhesive plaster. It should be possible to remove the dressing in five days.

FOLLOW UP.
By GEORGE M. ADAMS.

How common it is in games of football and other sports, some quick-thinking player dashes off a thrilling play, only to fall back for the remainder of the game into obscurity and be forgotten—and for no other reason than that he failed to follow up.

Periodic Brilliance is not Success.

Follow Up. When you think a Worthy Thought, follow it up. When you do a Useful Thing, Follow it up. When you strike an effective blow for a Right Cause, Follow it up. It's the man with the Courage, first to start a thing and then follow it up, that after a while, has an accumulation of points that stamp him Great and Masterful. Follow up or else you will fall back.

Periodic Brilliance is not Success.

The Great man is simply the Small man at some time. Every Great man at some time or other is the unknown, obscure man. Make your life count by compelling every single effort to figure in the final summing up. For after all, Success itself is nothing more nor less than work well performed and Followed Up day after day, year after year.

Periodic Brilliance is not Success.

It is to be noted that an army of 1,000,000 men, which the 200 buildings of the Y. M. C. A. proposes to erect will accommodate, will require an equipment of 200 pianos and piano players, 200,000 feet of films a day, 3,000,000 sheets of writing paper daily, 10,000 pens a day and a barrel of ink, 95 automobiles and trucks, 200 moving-picture machines, 200 grapha-phones and 10,000 records, 40,000 pounds of ice per day, a Bible to every man, magazines by the hundred tons.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE
BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

REWARDS FOR JULIUS.

"A picture," said Daddy, "hung over the mantelpiece of a fireplace in the house where a little boy named Julius lived.

"Now, Julius was rather a naughty child. He loved to do all sorts of things to tease People, and he was always getting into trouble.

"He did not have as good a time as he might have had, for he was always playing when he should have been studying his lessons. And when it was playtime and all the other boys were to study because he had not known any of his lessons that day.

"This happened over and over again. One night Julius was sitting by the fireplace studying. Yes, for a change, he was really learning his lessons. Every day that week he had been kept in school and he had missed all the nice coasting parties and skating and hockey games.

"He had really learned all his lessons now, and he was just looking into the fire, feeling very sleepy. It was not quite his bedtime, so, of course, he wouldn't go to bed.

"Even if I am sleepy," said Julius, "I'm not going to bed until it is time."

"The picture over the mantelpiece was of three large horses. They looked as if they were always going to prance off somewhere, but of course they never did. As they were in a picture, and the picture was in a frame, they couldn't very well move.

"How stupid it must be for them," thought Julius as he looked up at the picture, "to always have to stay in the same place. Their long tails and their flowing manes even make them look as if they would love to be wild and free. That's just the way I'd like to be—wild and free!"

"We're Off," Said the First Goblin.

"But what was this he was seeing all of a sudden in the picture? The horses were moving. Yes, they were beginning to prance. And a little Goblin came along and jumped up on the broad back of one of the horses. Then another Goblin appeared and, after a little while, a third one came. Each was on one of the horses and they had brought reins along and were about to drive the horses away.

"Oh, don't leave me," said Julius.

"Where are you going?"

"The first little Goblin looked down at Julius and winked his eye.

"Do you want to go off on a trip?" he asked.

"I'd love an adventure," said Julius.

"I like adventures better than anything,"

"Even better than learning your lessons," said the second little Goblin.

"Now, that's unkind," said the third Goblin, "for he has really been studying tonight—and tomorrow he can go out right after school to play."

"Yes," said the first Goblin, "he has learned his lessons, so we're going to give him an adventure. Hop up."

"Somehow Julius was up on the back of one of the horses in no time.

"We're off," said the first Goblin.

"But what is going to happen to the frame?"

"Oh, I shall stay here," said the frame. "People, you know, go out of houses and off on trips. But the Houses never move. It is the same way with Picture Frames. We never move—though the Pictures have fine adventures when People are asleep."

"I never knew that before," said Julius.

"Soon they were off and the horses were prancing and racing with the three Goblins and Julius on their backs. The Goblins would jump through hoops that somehow appeared, and Julius jumped, too.

"I think I will go into a circus when I am a big man," said Julius. "In a circus they don't have school."

"Oh, don't they?" said the Horses. They hadn't spoken before. "All the Animals have to learn their tricks as boys do their lessons."

"And," said the Goblin, as the trip was about to end, "we've given you this fine adventure because for once you did your lessons. This trip is your reward, and tomorrow when you can play with your friends you'll have a second reward!"

TURN HAIR WITH SAGE TEA
If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The transfer clause gives the bonds marketable value, and that this value will be protected by the government or above par is the belief of bankers conversant with the administration plans.

Many Business Men Debauched. Profits made on a steadily rising market based on inadequate supplies seem to have debauched many of our business men and may force the federal government to adopt emergency measures that will bear hard on the trade. It is useless to stimulate production on the farm if middlemen skim the cream and the masses are forced to exist on short rations. High prices in the last three or four weeks have weakened the case of those engaged in selling foodstuffs.—New York Commercial.

Mr. Straus said he had heard there was a disposition on the part of Jews "to slack the selective conscription," but he denied this, adding that he was certain the American Jews were patriotic.
