He Must Be a Soldier, a Mechanic and Atsolutely Fearless

It takes tille months to make a mili-tar, aviator. The profession makes the overest (-saible demand upon the resources of the individual. It requires a combination of physique, of courage, of nerve poise, to make the expert flier, while to do the work of an aviator in war involves technical skill that can hardly be characterized as short of sci-

The military filer must be a soldier, a mechanic and a daredevil. Besides saling his craft and lighting his cuemies he must be mathematician enough to make his observations, artist enough no take pla tographs, telegrapher enough to operate his wireless, navigator enough to pick his way by means of map and compass over unfamiliar land-scapes and fesourceful enough to con-tend with fog, with cloud and with the thousand and one contingencies which the hazard of the sir involve. Furthermore his most difficult technical du the must be performed while that element of the death constant with which he always rides is augmented by the hasty rattle of aerial machine guns around and above him and the yap of landing unit-alteraft shells which pursue him from below. No man with the effects of dissipation vitiating his blood and unsettling his nerves can be trusted with the lasues of the air.-Peter Clark Macfarlane in Collier's Weekly.

LIVING IN JAPAN.

Hard Work For the Middle Classes to Make Both Ends Meet

Dr. Takata, Japanese minister of education, has recently published a book pan. The pinch comes harder upon the classes since the former must not only live, but must keep up a respectable appearance on salaries no greater than those that men who work at trades tereive.

For example, according to Dr. Takata, a primary school teacher earns $15.50 a month, but his lowest budget for a family of four reaches $17.33. His wife must do work at home to earn the deficit. A magazine editor and writer who has a wife, two children and a maid spends $32.75 monthly on household sundries. His earnings are friegular, but always below his expenses. He has been compelled to bor-row money from his wife's relatives, and her trousseau is not unknown to the pawnshops.

The learned author states that twothirds of the Tokyo doctors carn no more than $50 a month. Obviously the professional classes of Japan are in the rip of conditions that are far from en-

Washington Monument. The corneratone of the Washington monument was laid on its fine site, which overlooks Washington, George-town, Arlington and Mount Vernon, by President Polk July 4, 1848. Its mar-ble shaft rises in all the dignity of unadocaed simplicity to the height of 555 feet. The base of the shaft is afty-five feet square, and it gradually tapers until at the 500 foot point it has diminished to less than thirty-five feet. This monument is said to contain 18,000 blocks of marble, each two feet thick. They were lifted on an elevator run by steam, suspended in an inner frame-work of iron, which was built up at intervals, thirty or forty feet at a time, in advance of the surrounding masonry. The aluminum capstone, nine inches high, was set in position Dec. 6, 1884, thirty-six years and a half after the cornerstone was laid.

Nature Teaches Inventors. "We get our hints from nature," the inventor said. "Take, for instance, the hollow pillar, which is stronger than the solid one. The wheat straw showed us the superior strength of the hol-low pillar. Folid, the wheat straw would be unable to support its head of grain. Where did man get his idea for carriage springs? From the boofs of the horse, which, like the springs derived from them, are made from paral. let plates. Scissors we get from the jaws of the fortoise, which are natural sors; chisels from the squirrel, wh carries them in his mouth; adzes from the hippopotamus, whose ivories are ndzes of the best design; the plane from from the bee's laws; the triphammer from the woodpecker."

The public is invited to come and enjoy the splendid fellowship with us. The Prophet of oll said, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go up to the house of the Lord." Again the Apostle Paul said, "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is, and so much the more as you see the day approach-ing." So many today fail to comply with this Scripture and fail to attend the services of the Sanctuary. A good church in a good country with good fellowship and the old time gospet.

You are welcome. D. E. Baker,

The Cat and the Uniters An authentic story tells of a male cat and a female cat in France that lived on terms of perfect amily with all the animais on the place-dogs, chickens and what not. It so happened that a ben which had a breed of seven chickens was killed accidentally. The cat, which some two weeks before had been deprived of her kittens, appeared to ab serve the predicament of the seven litnert, and the chickens, looking for warmth, nestled into her warm for, peering gratefully. The chickens, fed by their owner, threve perfectly, and every day the strange sight was pre-scated of their following the magner cut about the premises as if expecting her to find them food after the manner of

A REALISTIC ANSWER.

The Sentry Didn't Have to Go Into Details With the Officer.

During one of Haig's attacks on the Hisdenburg line a "Minnie" had come over and knocked all the stuffing out of a sentry. He staggered to his feet-except for the tremendous sinking, prat-tically unbart-fighting for breath which he could not get back for some minutes. While he was so standing a young efficer, newly out, turned the heavy bombardment on. The unexperienced young officer, not knowing what had happened and seeing the sen-try rificiens (his rife had been blown many yards away), knees bent, body limp, eyes half out of his head and mouth (belf full of dust) gaping oper like a lossened suck head, inquired

"Well, what's the matter with you?"

The man tried to answer, but had no breath to do so, and, knocked silly na was by the shock, gaped helplessly and idiotically at the officer, who said again, this time more sharply, "What's the matter with you?"

At that moment over came another "Minute," falling sufficiently near the officer to serve him exactly as the previous one had served the sentry. As half blinded, wholly smothered and three-quarters stunned the officer stum bled to his feet the sentry ran forward to belp him up. Then, standing the regulation two pares away, the sentry came smartly to attention and, cere-moniously saluting, said, "Beg pardon, sir; I couldn't answer before, but that's what was the matter with me."-Lon-don Chronicie.

OUR LAGGING WORLD.

Ite Motion Is Slowing, and the Day Is Growing Longer.

Our earth appears to be slowing down its spin. Two British astronomers who have finished a long study of the matter report that it now takes almost exactly three seconds longer for the world to turn over once than It took 100 years ago, and a century bence still another three seconds will been added to the day.

At this rate Shakespeare had nearly ten secreto, less in his twenty-four hours Fian has a modern dramatist. William the Conqueror was handl-apped a half minute in keeping up with his descendants. Julius Chesar was a whole misute to the bad, while even if he had lived to old age his life would still have been some twenty of our days short of what his biographers ould have claimed for him.

Abrelsem and the early Pinraohs would have been still more presped for time. The earliest men, say in the rear 100,000 B. C., would have had no use for "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day," for they had only twenty-three bours to do their living in and were really only seventy-six years old when they thought they had reached fearscore.—Edwin Tenney Brewster in St. Kicholas.
