STRENUOUS COUNTING.

A Case of Fight or Marry That Had a Happy Ending.

William Kenrick, a Berkshire gentleman of 100 years ago, left his property, which was considerable, to an only daughter. This young lady had a mind of her own and, finding none of her suitors to her liking, simply determined to wait until the right gentleman should come along.

It so happened that one day she attended a wedding at Reading, where she met a young gentleman named Benjamin Child. He was a poor attorney. With this handsome young man the young lady fell violently in love, but still she was cautious. She reasoned with herself for several days, trying to shake herself free of the sudden passion, but all in vain.

Then, feeling that something must be done, but unable from confusion of mind to devise a proper course, she took the extraordinary step of sending the young man a letter demanding satisfaction for alleged injuries. She appointed a time and place for the hostile meeting.

Mr. Child was much surprised and quite at a loss to conceive who the challenger could be. By the advice of a friend he decided to go to the dueling place. Here he was met by the young woman, who, much to his surprise, told him he would have to fight her or marry her. He naturally chose the latter, and, as the saying goes, they lived happily ever afterward.

WHEN MEN GROW OLD.

One Sure Sign Is Said to Be an Increasing Waistline.

When does a man get old? What are the signs? Some will say instantly gray hair, baldness, stiff knees, shortness of breath, and so on. An eastern authority rejects all of these as proofs of age and cites doctors to prove that there are two invariable signs—an increasing waist line and a decrease of physical agility. These indications may not show themselves until a man is forty or fifty, but they may manifest themselves at twenty-five. Whatever the time, the man is old.

This is rather an arbitrary ruling, but it has a sane basis no doubt. There are many men, of course, who by force of nature rather than any care of their own, retain a spryness of figure until they are far along in life, and usually with this aliveness is activity of movement. But the average man not engaged in active physical labor that keeps superfluous flesh down is extremely likely to develop increased girth in comparatively early years, and whether or not it classes him among the old or even elderly, it does take him out of the realm of youth. However youthful a man may feel, no one longer mistakes him for a boy when that big waist line comes.—Indianapolis Star.

Fame and Shyness.

In his book, "A Soldier's Memories," Sir George Younghusband tells a typical story of Rudyard Kipling and Cecil Rhodes.

It was during the Boer war, when they came to camp and introduced themselves unconventionally. As they were leaving the soldiers gathered to see and cheer them.

Said Cecil Rhodes hastily:

"Take off your cap; they are cheering you."

Said Rudyard Kipling:

"No, they are not. They are cheering you. Take off your cap."

Then some one at their elbow suggested:

"I think they are cheering you both."

Whereupon both, clinging close together for support, shyly took off their caps.

The Handy Man.

The "jack of all trades," known familiarly as the handy man, is a serious drawback to the industries of the United States, because his knowledge and training are not based on the fundamental rules of any craft. Such men are the bane of any industry, and more especially of high grade machine shops, for their work cannot be relied upon. Doubtless it is a good thing to know something about everything, but the perfect mechanic and high grade foreman is the man who knows everything about something.

JOHN IS A GREAT NAME.

Known in Nearly All Lands, It Has a Famous Family Tree.

The name John is one of our best, also one of our oldest. It is found in nearly all languages, and no matter how disguised, from Juan to Johannes, it is almost certain to be identified. The Johns have a magnificent family tree.

There was an apostle named John and also a John the Baptist. There have been twenty-two popes and one anti-pope by the name of John. Three kings of Aragon and Castile, one at least of Bohemia and several of Portugal, France and England have borne the name of John.

There was John Sobieski, the great-est of the Poles. There was John, surnamed Lackland, who was forced to sign the Magna Charta. There was John the Good, running down the famous list, we find also John the Fortunate, John the Perfect, John the Fearless, John the Constant.

Then there was Jack of the Bean Stalk, also Little John, who was not little, but who, on the contrary, was tall and strong, and who was one of the most impudent followers of Robin Hood.

If old King John gave England the Magna Charta John Hancock helped to give us our Declaration of Independence. If the historical and symbolical John seems too numerous we might add John Rockefeller and John Doe.—Indianapolis News.

Weather and the Spider's Web.

One of the simplest of nature's barometers is a spider's web. When there is a prospect of wind or rain the spider shortens the filaments by which its web is sustained and leaves it in this state as long as the weather is variable. If it elongates its threads it is a sign of fine, calm weather, the duration of which may be judged by the length to which the threads are let out. If the spider remains inactive it is a sign of rain; if it keeps at work during rain the downpour will not last long and will be followed by fine weather. Observation has taught that the spider makes changes in its web every twenty-four hours and that if such changes are made in the evening just before sunset the night will be clear and beautiful.

"Maama," said a five-year-old boy the other day, "aren't there any other senses 'cept hearing, seeing, feeling, tasting and smelling?"

"No, my child," answered the mother. "It is usually considered that these five are enough."

"Well," said the little one, with an air of deep conviction, "if s'pose talking would be called a sense if there wasn't so much nonsense about it."
