ATHENA, OREGON, NOV. 15, 1918
WILSON'S 14 POINTS.

- 1. All open covenants of peace; 2. With widest freedom of the seas; 3. Each economic bond to loose, Without a secret tie or ruse; 4. All armaments to smaller grow, Consistent with defensive show; 5. Each colony to have a share Of justice, with paternal care; 6. Great Russia to be left to state Her choice of rulers and her fate; 7. Wee Belgium must be made free, And no dispute her sovereignty; 8. Fair France to be in full restored, And damage paid by Hunnish horde; 9. Lost Italy should be regained, Each people by its own reclaimed; 10. Austro-Hungarian tribes to each Set up their states by race and speech; 11. Each smaller state to be released By every power which such has seized; 12. Old Turkey back to Asia haled, No more to curse a Christian world; 13. The Poles restored and up to date, To build anew their sovereign state; 14. All nations then make common cause To each respect the sovereign laws.—R. G. A. in Portland Journal.

The fundamental object of America in entering the war was to advance the masses of Europe in their struggle for liberty. Indeed, President Wilson's proclamation of war against the now defunct Imperial German Government, was founded on the basic principles of world democracy, only. Yet it takes a two-column editorial for one of our county editors to express his opinion that there were no statesmen in the world wise enough to conceive of the overthrow of autocracy when Germany mobilized her army in the summer of 1914. The stand taken by the editor is not consistent with the facts. From the time the German hordes knocked on the gates of Belgium with the mailed fist, the press and statesmanship of the allied nations and of the neutral nations perceived the diabolical act as a direct, open blow at liberty, and from that moment has never ceased a mighty campaign of enlightenment of the masses from statesmen and the press. Of a surety, the mentality of some grasped the situation more quickly than others and more keenly visualized the ultimate results. In the editorial, two instances of acumen are cited, and yet, it is admitted that these were "blind to anything except the interest of this country, and its duty to assist the allies for practical purposes." But we do not categorically give this editor in question a place beside those who did grasp the situation in its entirety—learned statesmen and editors of the leading newspapers of the world; ambassadors who were at the seat of war in the beginning—all of whom at once united in the effort to disclose to the world that the time had come to stamp out autocracy and hold forth the light of liberty for the world. This editor's inability to find satisfaction in the President's fourteen principles of peace, is sincerely to be a matter of regret, since his editorial sets forth the announcement that his paper has stood for and proclaimed the doctrine that the war must end only with thrones toppled, with dynasties destroyed, with the plain people enthroned, with republics, etc. All of which is transpiring to the gratification of the world at large since it upholds the structure of peace settlement based upon President Wilson's fourteen conditions.

This editor prints a map alongside his editorial depicting the centers of new nations of peoples long held in autocratic bondage, now blooming into the first flush of freedom, which should afford sufficient succor to any misgivings he may have. His map shows near Vienna, in Austria, the city of Wilsonstadt, formerly Presburg, but renamed in honor of President Wilson, in commemoration of all that America has done and is doing for the cause of Democracy.

You sent the boys over there to smash the old war into smithereens, and they did it. Now they need recreation and moral uplift during the long lull between now and the time before homecoming, and they're asking you for it through the solicitors for the United War Work fund. These solicitors are now calling on the people of Athena and vicinity. They are leaving their business and work to do it, and it is no more than fair to them that you be prepared to have your rated subscription ready when they call on you for it. Remember, the boys over there have done their part, so it is up to you to do yours, now.

So far as known up to date, not an Athena boy's name in the casualty list. Can you conscientiously take part in the great Thanksgiving service Sunday evening, if you have failed in giving liberally to the War Works fund for their recreation and moral uplift, while they are finishing up their great work?

Health note—Not one of the knacker's six sons is suffering from shell shock.

Not a few persons might conserve sugar by developing a little sweeter disposition.

At last accounts the squash pie advance was being maintained on all fronts.

News that there is no shortage of ice cream may be depressing to some men with small children.

Most people are wearing their old clothes this year, but the more fortunate should remember the Belgians.

"Potatoes are going up," according to a news headline which is as enlightening as saying "winter is wet."

People along the German border are beginning to realize that a long-range gun has two ends.

Advertising to epidemics, German junkies are suffering from shooting pains around the heart.

As soon as a man achieves fame, some former friend digs up a boyhood photograph.

The army also is teaching some young men that they do not have to wait until Saturday night to bathe.

The only fellows who really complain about the autoleis Sunday are the ones who do not own cars.

Spanish influenza is bad enough, but it is better than German measles, at that, being a neutral disease.

Film comedy should not suffer on account of war demands, no sugar being required for comedy pies.

American football players in France are showing all their old skill in bucking the Hindenburg line.

War conditions have discouraged the confident claims, usually due this season, as to who will take next year's pennant.

Have you noticed that just as soon as the gasless Sunday rolls around the weather reforms and puts out its brightest sun?

When a man celebrates his birthday he takes a day off. When a woman experiences a similar happening she takes a year off—her age.

Now the forty-five-year old patriot begins to realize the deep, boundless enthusiasm of the revived cab horse on a gasless Sunday.

Now that the government has undertaken to fix a maximum price for butter the flapjack is able to sit up and take a little nourishment.

American soldiers are said by the Australians to be "too rough." That's what comes from permitting the boys to play football.

It may be hard, however, for the government to be very severe with able-bodied fellows who fail to apply for exemption when they are entitled to it.

Since people with colds are unwelcome at the picture theaters, many persons are going to take measures to improve their health.

One slight element of expense is the heavy cost of widely circulated explanations of why food cannot be cheaper.

The laws enacted in the last few years have established a fine alibi for the old-fashioned common drinking cup in the present influenza epidemic.

"Crocking the elbow" now has a different significance. Ask the army or navy officer who must salute some one every other minute.

It may just be a coincidence that "Spanish" influenza is so much more prevalent in army camps than elsewhere, and it also might be that some enemy agents have been busy.

Japan has made a proclamation to the people of a Siberian district that anybody who causes disorder will be promptly punished. This is the kind of peace note that means business.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F.
