The Son of Wallingford

SCENE FROM "THE SON OF WALLINGFORD"

The big pageant scene in "The Son of Wallingford" is one of the big spectacular incidents in the production. The town of Whittier, California, was turned over to Vitagraph for the purpose and some 8,000 persons were used in the web scenes. A menagerie of camels, elephants and the like were used in the parade. Over two tons of confetti and ten thousand toy balloons were thrown into the air along the line of march. It makes one of the most spectacular scenes ever transformed to celluloid.
