

Willamette University Glee Club Quartet, at Auditorium, Tonight

WILLAMETTE'S FINE QUARTET FEATURES PROGRAM TONIGHT

These four young men form the varsity quartet with the Willamette University Men's Glee club which presents a varied program of popular and classical numbers at the High School Auditorium tonight, at 8:00 p. m.

These chaps have several splendid songs that cause prolonged applause when ever they appear and were deemed worthy of representing a famous musical university, which has for twenty-six years been producing prize winning glee clubs and sending them over the country giving the public samples of high grade music mixed with well chosen popular numbers.

This glee club which comes to Athena has long been recognized as a powerful musical organization and will be in its twenty-third tour this February. This is an honor that no other glee club in the northwest can boast of. The songs of this club are well chosen, likewise the club members, and experience has proven that their offering is always attractive and pleasing to all that hear them.

Before reaching Athena, the club sings at the first M. E. church of Portland, of Hood River at the Auditorium, The Dalles, at Arlington High school. After leaving Athena the club goes on to Spokane, then over to Seattle where it spends a week in northern Washington and then home to Salem.

The manager says that everything is pointing to a successful trip this season. He hopes that Athena will respond as well as they have to the club in the past. "The only thing that is worrying us now" he says, "are those confounded exams."

A MAMMOTH TUSK

A seven foot mammoth tusk unearthed at Salem by sewer diggers Wednesday is declared by Professor M. E. Peck of Willamette University to be 50,000 years old. He says the mammoth existed in Oregon prior to the glacial period.

LIGHT POTATO TRADE

Because of the weakness of the general potato market, farmers throughout the country are holding back their supplies. They have evidently watched the situation closely this season, as whenever the excitement of trading began to abate and prices drop, they withdrew from the market. This index of confidence in the future market would lead to the expectation of another advance and usually at this season of the year higher price levels have followed the periods of depression. At the present time the price situation appears better in the west and north than in the east.

MID-YEAR GRADUATES

Walla Walla high school has graduated its first mid-year class of 30 members in the high school auditorium. Twenty-five members were presented with diplomas, the other five being in attendance at institutions of higher learning or engaged in other work which kept them from the graduation exercises.

Fire that broke out in a store room at the Rosenzweig residence Saturday evening came near destroying the home. As it is, the back portion of the house is a charred wreck that will have to be rebuilt. The cause of the conflagration will ever remain a mystery.

A. W. Nye, deputy game warden for Eastern Oregon, came to Heppner Monday to investigate the reports that have gained circulation of the unlawful killing of deer in the Blue mountains south of Heppner, says the Heppner Gazette. Mr. Nye went to work immediately and with the help of Deputy District Attorney Woodson and Sheriff Shutt, the result is that 13 warrants were issued and 12 men have already been arrested and fined.

At the meeting of the Athena Rod and Gun club Tuesday evening, the members decided to hold the annual shooting tournament for this year sometime during the month of May. Dr. A. B. Stone, Charles Gay and F. B. Boyd were named by President Plamondon to serve as committee on arrangements.

Miss Cannon is in Pendleton taking teacher's examination. Mrs. M. L. Watts has the fourth and fifth grades during her absence.

Miss Wilson, who has been visiting for the past two months with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kirk, returned Tuesday to her home at Halsey.

Word was received Wednesday from a physician in Lewiston, Idaho, stating that Otis Beck was confined to his bed in that city with smallpox. The disease is in a mild form and Mr. Beck is rapidly recovering.

P. A. Worthington, deputy United States marshal, was up from Portland Sunday and visited with the family of his brother Hugh. Mr. Worthington is up on business connected with the Eastern Oregon State Normal school.
