LAW ENFORCEMENT

John R. McQuigg, National Commander of the American Legion, says: "Last year there were, we are told, more than 11,000 murders committed in America. That is fourteen times as many as in Great Britain; eleven times as many as in Japan and five times as many as in Canada. That condition should challenge the careful thought of all of us."

"Here is the fact of the matter. During the last several years there has been a letting down in the morale of the American people. Our courts and juries are letting too many criminals escape the consequences of their acts. Today law-abiding citizens are less secure in their persons and effects than years ago."

"If, as we are informed, ninety-five per cent of the people want and strive to obey the law, then the tremendous cost of our criminal courts and penitentiaries and jails and reform institutions is made necessary by five per cent of the population."

"This five per cent consists of men and women who choose crime as a career merely for the love of iniquity and of those who, for lack of proper homes and proper home influences, are forced into paths leading eventually to criminal deeds."

"Legionnaires are extremely interested in this matter. I think it cannot be too often stressed. We obeyed the laws and regulations when such obedience was necessary to win the battles of war. We propose now, insofar as in our power lies, to assist in seeing to it that those laws are obeyed which are necessary to win the battles of peace."

Henry Ford says the farmer pays the highest and receives the lowest in every transaction he engages in. "Help for all other kinds is political," he says. "Who used rate-fixing to help the railroads? The government. Who fixes tariffs for the steel and sugar men? The government. But the farmer is forced to live among a lot of businesses which are raised to an artificial level by government protection or profit-fixing. And the farmer wants to know why his level cannot be artificially raised, too."

Farmers of Eastern Oregon are coming alive to the advantages of bulk wheat handling, says State Market Agent Spence, and he thinks it is but a matter of short time when all of the wheat into Portland will be handled this way. Ninety-six per cent of the wheat exported from Portland goes out in bulk, while half of that coming in from the country is in sacks. The unloading of sacked wheat from cars involves twelve times the labor and three times the cost of unloading bulk wheat.

The warty-faced, cauliflower-ear tough has been displaced in scientific crime exploits by the jazz prince, new type of desperado, product of the times. The 1926 model stick-up man poses as a cavalier, dances well and spends freely. Invariably the information police obtain after the present day holdup is "the bandits were youthful and well dressed." Behind that description lies the identity of a new type of criminal; the "sheik bandit" some call him.

Sportsmen shooting game birds during the hunting season are requested by the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture to examine all birds carefully for leg bands at the time shot. It will greatly aid the investigations being made by means of banded birds if bands are returned to the department with accurate particulars regarding the exact spot where found, and any other pertinent information.

With the bases filled with both republican and democratic legislative candidates for the coming primary election, it looks as though an old-fashioned campaign was on the tapis. It was news ago that Umatilla county was accustomed to putting two full legislative tickets in the field.

The Press takes more stock in Ike Patterson than any candidate seeking the republican primary nomination for governor. There are no frills to Ike. No badges decorate him, and brass band music scares him to death; that's the way he appealed to us, when he called at our shop the other day.

It was Theodore Roosevelt who said, "And now, first and foremost, you can never afford to forget for one moment what is the object of our forest policy. That object is not to preserve the forests because they are beautiful, though that is good in itself, nor because they are refuges for the wild creatures of the wilderness, though that, too, is good in itself; but the primary object of our forest policy, as of the land policy of the United States, is the making of prosperous homes."

When next you read a book in which the author makes the hair of one of the characters "stand on end with terror," don't pass judgment on the expression as being a convenient but not-to-be-taken-literally way of describing the effect of fright. Our hair can, and does, "stand on end."

The destruction of about 3,000,000 prairie dogs and other rodents in northern Arizona in the course of a recent poisoning campaign by the Biological Survey should attract the attention of the Hermiston district. Turn the Survey loose on the bunnies and then watch the alfalfa grow.

Parisians have robbed the veldt to satiate vainglorious style—zebra striped black and white slippers have made their appearance on French boulevards. We have only to wait a short time for the arrival of the zebra stocking.

Luther Burbank, plant wizard, is dead. A useful man has passed on, and the world has been benefitted for his having lived in it.

SEASONABLE FOODS

Where fresh fish are obtainable a fish chowder is a dish which will be often repeated when once tried.

Fish Chowder.—Cut fresh fish into small pieces—codfish which has been freshened may be used as well. Cut a quarter of a pound of fat salt pork into cubes and fry in the chowder kettle until crisp and brown. Add six small sliced onions, stir until well softened but not brown, then add six or eight medium-sized potatoes cut into thin slices. Cover with water and cook until the vegetables are nearly tender, then add the fish and cook until well done, if fresh; if salt, a short cooking will be sufficient. Add a quart of milk, six or eight milk crackers which have been softened in boiling milk, season well and serve hot.

French String Beans.—Melt a tablespoonful of sweet fat or lard in a saucepan, slice a clove of garlic in water-like slices, cook for five minutes, add a tablespoonful of finely minced parsley, turn in the beans and when well heated serve.

Ripe Olive Salad.—Take one package of cream cheese, break with a fork and add two tablespoonfuls of orange juice; when soft enough to mold add ten ripe olives cut very fine. Mold the mixture into small balls, roll these in minced parsley and arrange on lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

Pork Chops and Parsnip Stew.—Put six pork chops into a saucepan with five good-sized parsnips which have been washed, scraped and cut into one-inch sized pieces; add five diced raw potatoes, season with salt, pepper and cook twenty minutes, thicken with flour, a very little, cover closely, adding moisture as needed and cook two hours.

Spoon Corn Bread.—Take one cupful of cornmeal scalded with one cupful of boiling water, add two cupfuls of sweet milk, two beaten eggs, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a teaspoonful of sugar. Bake in a serving dish and serve with bacon and liver.

Every Man a Genius

Doctor Spearman, who has taken many "ability tests" tells the British Association for the Advancement of Science, that every man is a genius at something and a dunce at something else. He believes the habitually unemployed and the misfits in industry could every one of them do something that would make him a treasure, if we only knew what it was. It is up to science to find a means of putting round pegs, instead of square ones, into round holes.—Capper's Weekly.

Lower Rates on Farm Products Asked
Washington, D. C.—Declaring there was no legislative relief in sight for agriculture, 18 co-operative farm organizations of Colorado and the public service commission of Oregon asked the interstate commerce commission to alleviate conditions by establishing lower freight rates on farm products. The Oregon commission declared the carriers had failed to meet the requirements of law in their attempt to justify proposed increased rates, and that rates on agriculture, on the other hand, should be reduced, particularly in the Pacific northwest.

Many Famous Persons Had Defective Hearing

The customary callosity of authors to the afflictions of the deaf, was referred to in a lecture on "Deafness in Literature," recently delivered in London by Dr. Macleod Yearsley, a prominent consulting aurist. Doctor Yearsley said it was curious that one of the greatest of human afflictions should often be dealt with so unsympathetically by authors. English literature teemed with pathetic blind characters, but deaf people were seldom mentioned except in a casual way and as a subject for humor. As a matter of fact, the deaf mute was a far greater sufferer than the sightless person. The only great British authors who made serious and successful attempts to represent the case of the deaf were Sir Walter Scott, Thackeray and Dickens. Speaking of authors who themselves suffered from deafness, the speaker mentioned Doctor Johnson, Harriet Martineau, Rousseau and Martin Luther. The last named, he said, was wont to ascribe the incessant head noises by which he was afflicted to the machinations of the devil. It would seem, therefore, that a competent aural surgeon, had he been available, would have been able to solve some of the greatest religious difficulties of the time.—Exchange.

Not Working Under Cover

Grandma found little Alice, aged three, amusing herself one Sunday afternoon by ironing her doll's clothes with her toy iron and board. "Oh, Alice!" she exclaimed, "don't you know it is wrong to iron on the Sabbath?" Raising her bright eyes to her grandmother's face, she answered with surprise in her voice, "Why, grandma, don't you suppose Dad knows this little iron isn't hot?"

A NATION-WIDE INSTITUTION—
DEPARTMENT STORES INC.

Being An Economic Factor In the Community Served

The true function of this Store, as we see it, is that of serving as a purchasing and distributing agent for the people of the community and the outlying districts.

When the merchant enters business he assumes the responsibility of performing a public benefaction—that of providing commodities and services to his community in a way that will afford economy and convenience and of maintaining such environment as is necessary and desirable to the consumers who support him.

If he fails in this responsibility, he ceases to be an economic factor in the community which he essays to serve.

Since the first Store in this Nation-wide institution of department stores was opened in 1902, the outstanding ambition has been to serve all alike and well. That we have succeeded is proved by our rapid growth. In less than a quarter of a century we have become the World's Largest Chain Department Store Organization.
