OUTSPOKEN FRIENDS OF HAUGEN FARM BILL

The Haugen bill found a staunch supporter in Senator Cummins, Republican, Iowa, who said after a call at the White House that if it was not passed, Iowa would hit every head in sight. He did not specify what heads he referred to, but said later that even if the house rejected the measure he was hopeful of its approval by the senate as a rider to the cooperative marketing bill, thus throwing it into conference without house action.

A talk on the Haugen bill was made at a recent Walla Walla Chamber of Commerce luncheon by State Senator F. J. Wilmer of Rosalia. Senator Wilmer said that two years ago the McNary-Haugen bill was before congress and was defeated. The need for such a measure is as great now as then, for basic conditions have not changed. Farmers are still buying in a protected market and selling on a free market.

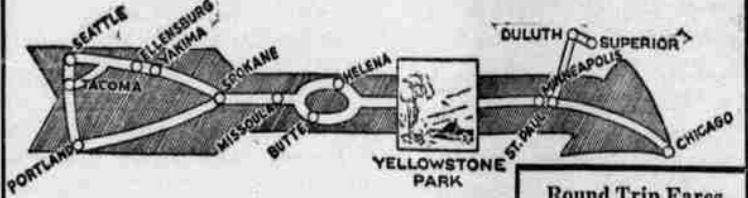

Prior to 1914 the farmers had some compensation for they got the land cheaply and had free labor. Then came the immigration laws which protected labor and other matters which changed conditions.

"Now a new measure is before congress. It has been greatly changed since it was introduced. Secretary Jardine is not in favor of such measures but if this one is passed it should permit the farmers to practically fix their own prices, since the board would be selected from organizations. The board would have power to raise the price on wheat about 42 cents plus eight cents, the average cost of getting it to market, or a total of about fifty cents.

"The same could be done to an extent with corn, cotton, butter, etc. This bill lacks the price fixing clause of the former bill and is more flexible to meet conditions.

"While it is hinted that President Coolidge might veto the bill, I doubt it. He likely will point out that it may not work but will give it a chance."

STEIWER

Strong Candidate

More than 40 newspapers in Oregon have indorsed Fred Steiwer for the republican nomination for United States Senator. What would be a better indication of strength?

All of the other candidates for the nomination have centered their fire upon Steiwer and contend that he is the man they must defeat. No one ever attacks a weak man. Democratic leaders are exerting their efforts against Steiwer. They fear him. They know they cannot defeat him in the general election.

A vote for Steiwer Friday is a vote for a republican victory in November.
