Athena, Oregon June 11.....1926

When Lee Moorhouse passed on, there stepped from the life of Pendleton a leader who had accomplished much in the development of this part of Eastern Oregon from its pioneer estate to its present stage of progress. Nationally he was associated in the minds of artists and illustrators with all that is fine and perfect in Indian photography. Literature is not alone embellished by his beautiful photography, but his rich store of Indian lore and legend was freely given to writers and authors in search of fact for history, and atmosphere for western story.

Nation's Business finds that a Hartford laundry has among its clientele a man who sends his collars in but once a year. When he sends 'em, he sends 'em all. His last list contained this item: collars, 378. The laundry says that he has done this for the past three years. The system has its advantages. The worry over service would be removed. If one became a little soiled while wrestling with a recalcitrant collar button, there would always be another. Simply looking at almost four hundred of his own collars must give a man a pride of possession.

National Farm News: "When farm products sell in the city markets at from seven to eight times the amount the farmer gets for them it isn't hard to understand that there is 'something rotten in Denmark.' The 'vultures' who ply their trade between producers and consumers, keeping farm prices down and market prices up, while they feed upon both without doing a solitary stroke to aid either, should and could be regulated or entirely destroyed if our lawmakers desired.

One by one, the old guard is falling—first McKinley of Illinois, then Pepper of Pennsylvania, and Stanfield of Oregon, now it is Cummins of Iowa. It begins to look like the same, liberal minded voters in the Republican party have the number of all Newberry supporters and are knocking them out as fast as the occasion presents itself. The party is cleaning house and begins to look like a winner again.

The pioneers have met at Weston and parted again for another year. Their ranks are becoming thinner as the years go by, and the handclasp of yesterday may be one of forever. Their thirty-fourth annual reunion gave those who are left opportunity to revel in reminiscences of the past, and the good folk of Weston provided a most interesting program of entertainment for them.

Once in awhile royalty condescends to visit America—that is New York, Palm Beach and maybe Saratoga. But apparently the crown prince and princess of Sweden are more democratic, in that they broke away from society long enough to give the capital at Washington the once over. It is said that the crown prince is a regular fellow, and that the princess is a regular girl.

"Misses skirts are never more than three yards in breadth at the bottom and they should reach well below the ankles this season."—Portland Oregonian, fifty years ago. Alright! now for the present: Misses skirts are never more than three-quarters of a yard in breadth at the bottom and they should reach at least 1 1/2 inches below the knee, this season.

Statistics disclose that 80 per cent of the crimes in New York City are committed by persons under 22 years of age. "And there still are persons who blame returned soldiers 'who are accustomed to violence and sudden death' for crime waves chief actors in which were 13 years old when war was declared on Germany," observes the Pacific Legion.

The Hyphenated Medford Mail-Tribune chirps up and says that fourteen reasons for Stanfield's defeat have been advanced by "upstate" papers, and not one of them mentions the "lack of sufficient votes." What's the difference, anyway? The Medford paper has said it.

Young Thaw, son of Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw was thawed out of Chicago, leaving behind an unpaid hotel bill. Nothing like crawling into the limelight and keeping the go-o-o-d old family name illuminated.

Well, maybe a dollar a year man is about all he's worth, anyhow.

The wonder is that Carroll was convicted at all. The fact that the

New York jury winked at his staging a degrading spectacle, but found him guilty of telling a fib, rings true of Gothamism—strong for integrity but loose on morals.

It develops that the capital city of Oregon, Salem, came near bearing the Indian name of "Chemeketa." The present name was proposed in 1846 by W. H. Willson of the Methodist Missionary establishment.

We observe that Irving Berlin has found inspiration for another cute little song. It's about a flock of storks.

"Portland's new Burnside bridge has no cover over it; What if it should rain."—East Oregonian. Why, just let 'er rain!

The water pure that bids the thirsty live;
I want to help the fainting day by day;
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way."

UNCOMMON DISHES

If you are fond of curry, leftover meats may be served for another meal, making most appetizing dishes.

Curry Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonsful of butter and drop into it a sliced onion; let fry until browned, then stir in a tablespoonful of flour and one of curry powder. Mix well, let cook until smooth, add three-fourths of a pint of any clear soup. Bring to the boiling point, add a sliced tomato, season well; simmer for twenty minutes, then strain and serve hot.

Stuffed Olives in Aspic.—Stone large-sized green olives and fill the cavities with green butter. Place small molds in pan of ice water and pour in an aspic jelly mixture one-fourth inch deep. When firm put an olive in each mold and add aspic till the mold is full. Chill thoroughly, remove from the mold and garnish with strips of red pepper. To prepare the green butter, pound parsley, shallot and a few capers in a mortar until pulp, then press through a sieve. Chopped pickles or gherkins may also be added; mix with softened butter, add a little anchovy paste and fill olives, adding seasoning and a dash of vinegar.

Stuffed Prunes.—Take the large-sized prune, wash, soak and simmer until tender. Pit them and fill some with creamed cheese and chopped olives, others with fondant and blanched almonds for a center. Seed raisins, maple sugar, nuts and dates chopped are good for a filling. Add spices to fondant, cinnamon, clove and nutmeg, form in a roll and inclose in the prune.

Raisin Macaroons.—Take two cupsful of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla, two egg whites and one cupful of seedless raisins. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually, then the flakes, vanilla and raisins, a dash of salt and a few chopped nuts. Bake on greased baking sheets—drop from a teaspoon. This makes thirty macaroons.

The Highest Mountains

"You see them mountains?" exclaimed the driver of a jaunting car in Ireland to an American passenger. The tourist admitted that he did see them.

"Well, thim's the highest mountains in Oirland."
"You don't say so!"
"Oo do indeed! An' you see thim mountains?" the driver went on, flicking the whip toward another range. "Thim's the highest in the wurld!"
The American expressed his incredulity. "Surely not!" he protested. "Sure, it's true!" the driver retorted, bridling, "exceptin', av course, for thim in furrin parts!"

Somewhat Different

An aged divine, whose enunciation was none of the clearest, insisted upon using big words on every possible occasion. One day, after conducting a children's service, he was waited upon by a deputation of parents. "Our children," they complained, "inform us that you told them they should always be up to mischief." The puzzled cleric, sure of having said nothing of the sort, asked the parents to wait while he consulted his notes. Then it developed that what he had really said was that they should always be "optimistic."

Michigan's Distinction

In the case of Michigan the people adopted a state constitution and elected a complete set of state officials, and later that constitution was accepted by congress without readoption, the original delegate was seated in congress without re-election and the original state officials continued to serve without re-election after the formal admission of the state by congress on January 23, 1837. From November 1, 1835, to the date of admission Michigan was de facto a state, although not technically a state in the Union.

German Beer Sales Laid to Sailors.
Washington, D. C.—Two petty seamen, trying to pick up a little change to spend on shore leave, were responsible for the furor raised over the "beer selling" from the German man-of-war Hamburg in Los Angeles harbor, the German embassy informed the state department in a report made by the master of the vessel. At the same time, the embassy renewed its formal protest against the invasion of the ship by federal prohibition agents, holding such action to be in violation of the usual immunity and courtesy accorded foreign warships in friendly ports.

Walker Cup Kept by Americans.
St. Andrews, Scotland.—The Walker cup, premier team trophy of amateur golf, will remain in the United States another two years, the American stars having defeated the British.

Watson C. Squire Dead.
Seattle, Wash.—Colonel Watson C. Squire, 88, governor of the territory of Washington from 1884 to 1889 and one of the first senators from the state of Washington, died here.

Report on Panama Concessions Asked.
Washington, D. C.—A resolution asking for all official information on the reported purchase by British interests of rubber concessions in Panama was introduced in the senate by Senator Borah of Idaho.
