Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Pinkerton were up from their home near Madras, Crook county, this week. "Nate" likes Crook county and is sanguine of that section developing into a rich agricultural district. As an experiment, this season he planted nearly 100 different varieties of grains and vegetables on sod plowing and all did remarkably well. He brought up some fine specimens of rutabagoc, radishes, tomatoes and corn.

Harry Rosenzweig is making preparations to go to Franklin county, Washington, where he will break as much virgin soil as he conveniently can this fall with six horses. He will have a section of land to work on.

The new opera house at Weston is to be dedicated to Terpsichore tonight, with a grand harvest ball. A number from Athena will attend.

Frank O'Harra and other Pendletonians were doing the town yesterday, in an automobile.

Will M. Peterson and Ed Purdy were among the Athenaites who visited Weston yesterday.

George Truax has returned from a trip to the John Day country, and is again at his old position on the Catton dairy route.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reeder are now comfortably situated at No. 309, North K street, Tacoma, and order their copy of the Athena Press sent to that address.

J. B. Saylor, the Butter Creek stockman, has an agent in the interior buying cattle for feeding and the expectation is that he will start in a few days for Butter creek with 400 head of steers which will arrive on or about November 1.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Colbern arrived home Sunday evening from a delightful trip to Lewiston and the Interstate fair. They report a most pleasant visit with the Haligus family, who are well and contented in their Clarkston, Washington home. Mr. and Mrs. Colbern were particularly pleased with the country immediately around Clarkston, called Vineland.

While driving out with a couple of young girls last evening, Ralph McEwen had the ill fortune to have a neckyoke come down so as to cause him to lose control of his horses for a short time. They ran into W. T. Wilkinson's fence, completely wrecking a couple of panels, and turning the corner, threw Miss Cora Davison out, slightly spraining her arm. The horses were soon brought under control. Miss Eva Wright, the other girl, was unhurt.

Miss Edith McBride, in company with her sister, Miss Bessie, visited relatives at Weston Sunday.

ELECT

FREDERICK STEIWER

U. S. SENATOR

The election of Steiwer as U. S. Senator from Oregon is of national importance. By virtue of republican control of the senate Senator McNary holds the chairmanship of the important irrigation and agriculture committees. If the voters of this state should go so far as to elect a democrat it might mean a loss of republican control of the senate and a consequent surrender of Senator McNary's vital committee chairmanships.

A vote for Steiwer, the regular republican primary nominee is a vote for republican control of national affairs.

ELECT

I. L. PATTERSON

GOVERNOR

Patterson is familiar with the problems that would confront him as Governor of Oregon. A farmer, he understands the problems of the farmer. A business man he knows the need of business. He promises fair and just treatment for all. He will seek to lower taxes through a reduction of the cost of state government. He will not follow established precedent and spend most of his time away from the state capitol.

Patterson will be your Governor, on the job, attending to the business of the state as it accrues.
