

22 Years Ago

December 9, 1904

Marion Jack, William Winship, Charles Smith, George Thompson and Millard Kelly have returned from a goose hunt on the Columbia river. They were gone 'steen days and number of geese bagged 0. The boys are reticent when questioned about the success of the hunt, and we don't blame them—we've been there ourselves.

Mrs. Womack, formerly a resident of Athena but now living in Seattle, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Gay. She will remain in the city for some time.

Robert Burns and J. H. O'Neil, O. R. & N. Railway officials, were in town Wednesday. They interviewed a number of Athena merchants and business men regarding the special train service now in force.

Will Campbell is down from Sprague, Washington, where he is engaged in farming. "Billy" is doing well, and this year made a substantial "cleanup." He has invested in Sprague city property that brings him good rental.

The goose hunters returned from the Columbia Tuesday. They report rather poor success. A reporter is informed by a disinterested party that only one lone goose was brought down, and a coyote got away with that.

The Misses Ruby and Gertie Burden are down from Sprague on a visit to their mother.

At the opera house tonight the popular Humphrey-Chapman Company, will produce Hall Reid's greatest of all melodramas, "The Knobs of Tennessee." The Humphrey-Chapman Company appeared in this city several weeks ago in "Buried at Sea," and will be remembered as being the cleverest company that has ever been in Athena. The public is assured of a very pleasant evening's entertainment. Music will be given by Johnson's orchestra.

Herschell, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Gillis, has been ill the past week with a fever, but is better at present.

G. W. Bradley has returned from a trip to his ranch in Klickitat county, Washington. Mr. Bradley was also in Portland several days.

Snow has not as yet fallen to any extent on the mountains east of town. Wood haulers are still actively engaged in bringing wood to town and report mountain roads to be in first class condition.

Dan McIntyre, who is up in the Alberta country, writes that he is having a good time, and is rehearsing a company of amateur actors preparatory to putting on the popular play, "My Friend From India." Dan is an actor of more than ordinary ability and will give the people of the Alberta town a good show.
