Miss Ruth Jackson, former Athena school pupil, is teaching the Campbell school, 10 miles north of Pendleton. Recently her school made a display of sewing and art, which is said by County School Superintendent Yeager, to be the best rural school display he has ever seen.

Harvey Shelton, who formerly was employed as barber by Lee Whitehead at his shop in Athena, died at Bend of heart failure, passing away very suddenly. The remains were brought to Walla Walla, where funeral services were conducted from the McMartin and Chamberlain undertaking parlors, Saturday.

From the sporting page of the Oregonian and the columns of the U. of O. Daily Emerald, the bunch up here falls to the information that "Scotty" Kretzer is considered to be some goof as a pitcher on the University team. In a game between the varsity and Pacific University, Pacific was leading by a margin of four in the seventh when our Mr. "Scotty" went on the mound and held the enemy scoreless, for the remainder of the game, which was won by Pacific, 8 to 7.

Basket Ball Defense Play is Simplified

There is much discussion over the changes made in basket ball play, by both coaches and players.

Limit of the basket ball dribble to one bounce will make defensive play 50 per cent simpler, because a guard hereafter will have only two threats to watch instead of three.

This is the opinion of R. V. Borleske, coach of athletics at Whitman, and well known in Athena, whose basket ball teams of late years have been among the most successful in northwest college circles.

"The change will take a lot of kick out of basket ball and make the man with the ball either pass or shoot. As the game is now played, defensive men must not only guard Dorothy Geissel spent the week against the pass or shot, but the dribble as well." Ethel and LaVone Pittman spent
