Mr. and Mrs. Hadley Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Hadley and son, Ronald, were honored Tuesday night, when about eighty friends gathered at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Bollinger. The rooms were attractively decorated with spring flowers in shades of pink. A delightfully informal program was rendered as follows: Piano duet, "Polonaise," Mrs. Max Hopper and Mrs. O. O. Stephens; Vocal solo, "Secret of Mine," Mrs. Ralph McEwen; Reading, Miss Ruth Williams; Vocal solo, "Sonny," Mrs. David Stone; Quartette, "Parodies," Mrs. B. B. Richards, Mrs. Ralph McEwen, Lewis Stewart and Kohler Betts. In a brief talk, Rev. Bollinger expressed the regret of the Athena people in the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Hadley and extended to them good wishes and hopes for success in their new home. They were presented with a beautiful Indian blanket as a token of the affection and regard in which they are held here. Several clever guessing games amused the guests and later a dainty supper was served from a table centered with a cluster of old fashioned flowers and tall pink tapers tied with tulle bows. Mrs. Hadley presided at the coffee urn and Mrs. M. L. Watts cut ices.

Far From Perfect

"Why don't you call me a donkey and have done with it? You've hinted at it long enough," said the henpecked husband. "It wouldn't be quite true," Mrs. Meek replied. "I suppose not. I haven't ears long enough for that animal," he retorted, sarcastically. "Oh, yes, you have," she returned, sweetly. "You don't need longer ears." "What do I need, then?" "Two more legs and a better voice."

Blackened Character

The city of Pueblo, Colo., is, on account of its smelting and refining works, one of the smokiest cities in the world. One winter a traveler stepped from a train at Denver, and walking up to a policeman, asked him the way to a certain hotel. The officer cast a scornful eye on the man, who was covered with soot and grime, so that he looked like a chimney sweep, and ironically inquired of the stranger if he were a coal miner.

"No," said the dirty one, "I am not a coal miner nor a charcoal burner. Neither am I in the coal business. More than that, I am not a negro minstrel."

"What are you?" asked the policeman.

"Lean down," said the man, "and I will whisper to you. I am a millionaire in sore distress. I have been through a snowstorm in Pueblo."

Heretofore he has been closely confined in the Pauley cell under guard. By the action of the sheriff he can now walk.
