Inviting Crime

"Look here what I bought for that dog of Junior's," Mr. Burton announced, throwing a package on the table.

Mrs. Burton unwrapped it. "Why George!" she exclaimed. "A dog collar, of all things!"

"Yes, and I gave $3.50 for it," Mr. Burton related.

"Three dollars and a half!" echoed Mrs. Burton. "What on earth! I don't understand! You've always said you had no use on earth for Junior's dog and you wished somebody would steal it."

"Yes, that's just it," Mr. Burton agreed. "With that collar on it some one will be sure to steal it now,"—Kansas City Star.

A Heroic Remedy

It was a dark night. Murky clouds obscured the moon in such a way as to make driving dangerous in the uncertain light.

A car was approaching the level crossing, traveling swiftly round the corner which led to the closed gates. At that precise moment an express train thundered through.

Too late, the driver of the car saw his danger. He tried to swerve, but a skid was the only result. With a loud crash he struck the last coach, and the car crumpled up on the track.

Silence for a few minutes. Then a voice: "Well, it's cured my hiccup, anyway,"—and the driver crawled out of the wreck.

Models of the Firmament

A model of the heavens, which is remarkable in a great many ways, and which was constructed in Berlin some time ago, is about to make a tour of the world and will be shown in all the large cities. The spectators enter a large dome-shaped concrete building which is unlighted. Suddenly thousands of glittering stars appear in what seems to be the infinite sky. More marvelous, suns and planets begin their majestic march across the heavens. In a few moments intricate celestial motions are revealed so simple that you, who perhaps never have opened an astronomy book, can understand mysteries of the universe that puzzled scientists for centuries.

The Unknown Cavalier

He galloped into town in a cloud of dust and left in a blaze of glory—a round-up of thrills—a riot of riding and roping—a stampede of breathless adventure—with a Romeo of the ranges breaking horses and hearts. You've never seen a Western like it. You'll never see one again—until this broncho-busting, daredevil Don Juan makes it! He used to be the star stunt rider for the Ringling Brothers' shows. Now he's a circus by himself.

It is the story of a country boy who becomes a New York baseball star—and incidentally gets the swell head—and of a girl, the daughter of a veteran catcher in the same team. That's the central theme. Around it revolves the struggle for national championship on the diamond—and the audience sees the actual World Series as a background for the thrilling detail of the story. Famous ball players do their great tricks of the diamond—the audience goes wild with excitement. Unforgettable comedy is furnished by Karl Dane, the famous "Slim" of "The Big Parade," and Eileen Sedgwick, the blonde beauty who scored a comedy hit in "Tin Hats."
