Jones and Mrs. Verne Smith, all of Weston, and Mrs. F. C. Adams, of Palo Alto, California.

Old English Monarch
Man of Modern Ideas

Burglary insurance is no modern institution. It seems to have existed from the time of King Alfred and was probably introduced by this king who, had he lived in these times, would have made a name as a successful business man.

The town of Ripon, England, he gave in 896 into the charge of a council, who appointed a watchman to blow a horn every night at nine o'clock. Between that hour and sunrise the town was quiet and no one was supposed to be abroad. But Ripon was not altogether a law-abiding place and presently the town authorities found it necessary to protect its peaceful citizens against raiders and robbers.

And so a law was passed that any householder wishing to protect his house from robbery should pay 4 pence a year to the authorities. Then, if his house was entered and his goods stolen or damaged between the blowing of the horn and sunrise, he could claim from the town council, who undertook to compensate him—Music and Youth.

Music of the Desert

During the holy month of Ramadan, when the Mussulman feasts only after sundown, the Sudanese reveille awakes the sleeping soldier at midnight. It is the voice of the desert itself, expressed by sons of the desert. The golden notes of muffled bugles rising in the silent night, and the swelling roll of the drums, are thrilling beyond description, because they are the vocal spirit of an intangible something that always touches the soul of man. The deep velvet sky, the glowing planets, the vastness and silence of the desert, the utter absence of distraction, make it a blending of perfect beauty; so perfect that one scarcely breathes for fear of breaking an illusion.—William A. Anderson in Adventure Magazine.

Eight Air Heroes Dine Together.

Boston, Mass.—For the first time since the Atlantic and Pacific flights which made them famous, eight of America's leading aviators were brought together here. At a breakfast tendered by Mayor Malcolm Nichols, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was joined by Lieutenants Lester J. Matland and Albert F. Hegenberger, Pacific fliers Commander Richard E. Byrd and his crew on the flight to France; Lieutenant George O. Noelle, Bert Acosta and Bernt Balchen, and by Clarence D. Chamberlin, who flew to Germany.

Chicago, Ills.—Philip D. Armour wife of the founder of Armour & Co. and mother of J. Orden Armour, seriously ill in London, died at her home here following a long illness.

THE STANDARD THEATRE

Saturday, July 30

Peter B. Kyne's CALIFORNIA

Starring

Big Tim McCoy and Dorothy Sebastian

A gorgeous film romance of early pioneering days in California. Action all the way, in a yarn by America's greatest story-teller. Never has dashing Tim McCoy had a finer role than in this stirring romance of pioneering days in the early West. Crackling action, a whirlwind narrative of intrigue and warfare, and a charming romance that breaks through the lines of battle. A super-Western!

Subway Sadie

With

Dorothy MacKail

and a Fine Cast

A very pleasing bit of entertainment. "Sadie" is a girl who rides the subway to romance and delight. The joy ride starts in a subway, winds up in a Rolls Royce, laughs along the way, thrills around the curves, high speed on the long stretches. Not a big show but one that will hold its own with many a so-called special.
