To make some little work of God's a little fruitfuller, better, to make some human hearts a little wiser, manfuller, happier, more blessed, less accursed—it is to do God's work.—Carlyle.

WAYS WITH COCOA

So often when serving cocoa as a drink there will be a cupful or more left over. Set it away and the following day prepare a cornstarch pudding, using the cocoa in place of the milk for a blanc mange. Cook as usual and set away to cool. Serve with sugar and cream.

Cocoa Angel Food.—Beat the whites of five eggs until stiff, add one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar and fold in lightly one cupful of sugar. Sift together one teaspoonful of cornstarch, one-half cupful of flour and one-fourth cupful of cocoa. Add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Mix all together and bake in a tube pan in a slow oven.

Cocoa Bread Pudding.—Soak two cupfuls of breadcrumbs in four cupfuls of scalded milk for one-half hour. Mix one-fourth of a cupful of cocoa with a little cold water to make a paste, then add to the mixture. Beat together one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, two-thirds cupful of sugar, two eggs and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Add to the pudding mixture, pour into a buttered pan and bake in a pan of hot water. Serve with a hard sauce.

Marshmallow Frappe With Cocoa.—Scald three cupfuls of milk and stir into it one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, two and one-half tablespoonfuls of cocoa, one-half cupful of sugar; let the mixture boil up, then add one-half cupful of marshmallow cream or its equivalent of diced marshmallows. Chill, add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and freeze, packed in ice and salt. This amount will serve six persons.

Maple Parfait.—Beat four eggs slightly and pour slowly into one cupful of hot maple syrup. Cook carefully until the eggs are cooked and the mixture thickened. Cool and add a pint of thick cream whipped. Pour into the mold. Pack in ice and salt, four parts of ice to one of salt, and let stand three to four hours.
