Camp Fire Girls

(By Hilda Dickenson)

The Wauna Camp Fire girls held an informal meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Wade LeRoy last Friday afternoon. The object of the meeting was a swim in the new pool located across the street.

The girls reported a wonderful time at Camp Kiwanis. They were given lessons in camp craft, nature and hand craft. Most of the girls won honors in each division. Ten out of the thirteen girls attending camp won medals which is a national honor of special event. It is the highest honor presented at camp and represents hard work and good sportsmanship. Also the girls are especially elated because one Athena group won the special honor for "Neat Tent." This group included one girl from Walla Walla.

In addition to these honors they learned a number of clever songs and stunts to teach the girls who were not able to go.

Miss Florence Craven, the camp executive, pronounced the girls good campers and real Camp Fire Girls. She gave special mention to Esma Hiteman as one of the best all around girls in camp.

World News Made Up of Wheat and Chaff

Do not be distressed overmuch by news of evil. This is a wide, wide world. It contains much that is bad, but more that is good. Righteousness is slowly, but surely, triumphing over sin.

If you do not believe that, or merely have not realized it, turn for a moment to contemplation of happier things. Turn your tired eyes from the day's record of evil to the day's golden roll of honor. There is more of good news than of bad news today, every day. There is more to see on the sunny side, and it is more worth seeing.

There are only two reasons for gazing at ugly things: either that we may more fully know evil when we meet it, even in gilded robes; or that we may grapple with it and blot it out.

Broad highroads of honor lead to every worthy goal of life. The mud roads are in the lowlands, leading only to dissolution and corruption. If we travel the mud road it is at our own volition.

Sin is not the harvest of life. It is the chaff threshed from the wholesome grain and will be swept from the threshing floor. Why look upon the chaff when the grain is there?

If some days the volume of chaff seems greater than others, know that the threshing has been more thorough.

This is a wide, wide world, and full of sweetness for those who would find it.—Helena (Mont.) Record-Herald.

Surprised Mother

Kelvorn Krause is a ten-year-old boy who attends school. At a parent-teacher association meeting the other day the statement was made by a speaker that at a test in some schools 70 per cent of the pupils asserted they would keep the money if a street car conductor failed to relieve them of their fare.

When his mother arrived home from attending this meeting she put the question to him as to what he would do if the street car conductor failed to take his fare. He knew nothing of what had been said at the meeting. His reply was that he would give the conductor his fare.

The mother said to him in a somewhat surprised tone: "You would? Why?"

"Don't you think it takes money to make the electricity that runs those cars?" was the retort.—Indianapolis News.

Match's Origin

The first friction matches were the invention of M. Derosne, a Frenchman, and were first used in 1816, but were little used outside of France until 1827, when John Walker (no relative of the famous Johnny Walker of the ante-Volstead days), an English druggist, made the first really practical friction matches, which were known as "Congreves," and within a few years their use spread all over Europe and America, supplanting the use of flint and steel with tinder box and sulphur tipped splints of wood called spunks which were the common means of obtaining fire until Walker's invention was popularized.

Red by the Lions

The staple diet of the African bushman is the leftover kills of the lion. The animal invariably announces his kill on the African night air and the bushman who hears his cry indicates the direction by pointing an arrow. At daylight he looks in that direction for the vultures, and in this manner he locates the leavings of the lion, and driving the bird scavengers away he takes their place and eats his fill. The women and children follow the men to the spot and are allowed to partake, if anything is left the vultures may have it.
