Great Career Marred by Greed and Pride

The earl of Marlborough, John Churchill, died in 1722.

"Faithful, though unfortunate" runs the motto beneath the ducal shield of Marlborough; but you could hardly apply either term to John Churchill, founder of the family fortunes.

Faithful? He intrigued with William when James was on the throne. He intrigued with James when William was on the throne. Unfortunate? He earned more rewards, probably, than ever fell to a subject. "He was covetous as hell," says Swift, "and ambitious as the prince of it." Even Queen Anne had to turn aside and laugh when he denied it. And there seems little doubt that, among his other fruits of office, he did receive £6,000 a year for placing the army's bread contract in the right hands.

None the less, no soldier of his age could stand against him. "He never besieged a town which he did not take, nor fought a battle he did not gain," as Tension once said in a sermon.

Not without reason his name is written in letters of gold—with only one other, that of Milton—on the walls of St. Paul's, his old school; where, as readers of Thackeray will remember, he was a schoolfellow of the lovable Henry Esmond.—From the Continental Edition of the London Daily Mail.

Not Highly Interesting

Two newspaper men were enjoying a walk over a golf course when they saw in the distance a famous professional giving lessons to a distinguished personage.

Scouting "copy," the reporters made a detour, and crept behind a bunker to overhear the conversation.

What they heard was not the interesting back-chat they expected, but the following terse speech from the pro:

"Will your highness kindly endeavor to keep your highness' stomach in?"—London Tit-Bits.

Ocean Liner's Cow

Those traveling on ocean liners cannot take the family cow along, but science has evolved a substitute which has proved especially valuable for ships which ply between temperate regions and the tropics. It is an emulsor, a machine which mixes powdered milk, sweet butter and water, producing by emulsion a product which in taste and nutritive properties is hard to distinguish from fresh milk. So thorough is the job that when the artificial milk is allowed to stand it produces a heavy cream.—Capper's Farmer.

Athena Boy Scouts

(By H. Wade LeRoy)

Twenty-two boys and baggage left early Wednesday morning for the Reeder place near Emigrant Springs for a weeks intensive scout training.

The boys made the trip on Mr. Wm. Ferguson's Graham truck, Clifford Wood and Edwin McEwen brought the truck back to town and the scouts appreciate the favors rendered.

Several families have signified their intentions of bringing their lunches and spending the afternoon at camp with the boys Sunday. All are invited to visit the boys at any time during the stay and especially Sunday as the boys will have most of the day to themselves.

The boys are getting ready for an active fall and winter in scouting and several new faces in the troop makes the prospects bright for fine organization again after the summer vacations.

A new feature and one of interest will be the addition of "cub" scouts to the troop and activities and some of the prospective "cubs" are sure going to make some of the regulars look to their laurels.

Some of the boys that had planned on making the trip had other plans come up that prevented their going with the troop on this trip but their best wishes were sent along in their place.

Assistant Scoutmasters M. I. (Pike) Miller and H. J. (Jack) Perry will be in camp part of the time with the boys.

The troop plans to take in the Round-Up and every boy is endeavoring to get a horse lined up or in view for the occasion as the troop plans to ride in the parade so if any one has a saddle horse he would be willing to loan for the occasion the favor would be greatly appreciated.

The regular meetings at the Scout Hall will be resumed the second week in September.

Several new uniforms and scout kits have appeared in the troop and they sure look fine.

Church of Christ

Sunday school 10 a. m., Communion 11 a. m. Preaching 11:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. At eleven o'clock, hour an expository study of the 5th chapter of Romans. Evening service will be a union service. The music conducted by H. Jackson Perry and sermon by Mr. Dow, the Baptist minister.

A large and attentive audience heard H. Jackson Perry on "Deliverance, an allegory" at the Baptist church last Sunday evening, a beautiful duet was sung by two of the Baptist young ladies, Misses Margaret and Dorothy Lee. This, with splendid congregational singing conducted by Mr. Kohler Betts made the evening one that every one seemed to enjoy to the fullest. Every one is invited to come and enjoy these services with us.

Helix, Adams and Milton Christian Endeavorers furnished the program at the regular meeting of the Athena Christian Endeavorers Sunday evening, a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed from 6 to 7 o'clock with punch and wafers being served by the locals as refreshments.

We are hoping that the young people of the town will take a more lively interest in the work now that the vacation season is about over. A good time is assured all who come. Meeting hour 7 o'clock.

H. Jackson Perry Minister.
Laurence Pinkerton, Supt.
