1268 acres
would make a big farm

AT Milford, Michigan, 1268 acres have been made—not into a farm—but into a Proving Ground for automobiles.

Long before your General Motors car is built, specimen models are sent to the Proving Ground. This fleet is tested in actual use. It has to meet every bad driving condition, from heart-breaking hills to slambang bumps.

But that isn't all. Other cars of American and European manufacture are bought and put through the same tests, so that General Motors always knows how its products compare with others.

The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease, fuel, oil and tire economy; body strength—every phase of car construction and performance.

When the specimen cars are finally able to meet every test, they are sent back to the factory. The car you buy is made exactly like them.

The next time you examine a General Motors car in your dealer's showroom, think of those 1268 acres. They would make a big farm. But they make a better promise of proved car value.

CAMP COOKING

Every year there are more and more campers who pack their autos and spin away for a weekend in camp or some favorite resort where the cooking may be done out-of-doors and eaten with a real appetite.

The Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts are being educated into all the fine points of camp life.

They are taught to cook many kinds of food (which the old camper fried) on the end of a green stick over a fire.

Bread may be toasted, sliced bacon, sausage, an apple, or an ear of corn, all cooked by means of a sharpened green stick and a good fire.

As cheese melts in heat and becomes tough if cooked at a high temperature, wrap pieces in bacon and string on a green stick. Thrust the slender point of the stick through the bacon, which will keep it from unwrapping. By the time the bacon is done the cheese will be melted. This is called a cheesebub by the Camp Fire Girls, and is worth remembering as "so good."

Did you ever try:
Squaw Dish.—Take plenty of butter in a frying pan, or use bacon or bacon fat if no butter is available, add fresh corn cut from the cob (one green pepper to a quart of corn) season with salt and pepper, chop the green pepper, and stir and cook until brown. Serve on toast or crackers.

Grilled Cheese Sandwiches.—Spread bread with butter and place a thin slice of cheese between two slices. Either toast or saute in a little bacon fat over the fire in a frying pan.

Scout Rice.—Put one cupful of rice into three cupfuls of boiling water in a double boiler, add three tablespoonfuls of bacon fat and cook until the rice is nearly tender. Then add two cupfuls of canned tomatoes and one-fourth pound of cheese cut very fine. Cook until the cheese is melted.
