

From BARN to BATH TUB

A farmer friend who owns two General Motors cars went to the city the other day and stopped in to see some cousins. They showed him around their new roof garden apartment, eighteen floors above the street, and proudly pointed out their Frigidaire in the pantry.

"Well," chuckled our farmer friend, "Mother has a garden full of old-fashioned flowers that she'd never trade for theirs . . . and as for the refrigerator, we have a bigger Frigidaire than they have!"

He also mentioned his Delco-Light power system and his DL water pump, which give him every other city convenience. As he often says himself, his farm is "General Motorized from barn to bath tub!"

It is perfectly true that General Motors, through its various units, offers even more to the farm family than to the city family. By applying methods of automobile production to home electric lighting and power plants, water pumping systems, and automatic refrigerators, General Motors can make the reliable kind of product that a farmer wants, at a price he can afford.

Why No Other Leather
Wears As Long As
Wolverine Shell Horsehide

WE MAKE broad claims for Wolverine Work Shoes. But they live up to every claim. For they're made of Shell Horsehide (the one-sixth of the hide over the hips which contains a shell). No other leather wears as long because no other leather contains that shell. Wolverine Work Shoes always stay soft, never scuff, and stand up better against scuffs and acids. Prices are no higher than any good work shoe. Come in today and examine a pair without obligation.

Black water resisting leather. Plain toe blucher. Storm welt around toe and heel. Two extra heavy 1000-mile soles, brass fastened. Leather heel. A popular shoe for the American farmer.
